Buckley Spurned Cut of Only $500,000 Set For Schools

BY TOM TORINUS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton's aldermen and chairmen of surrounding towns forged a last-hour compromise on the 1969 school budget early this morning. They cut only $500,000, spurning Mayor George Buckley's order for a $1 million school budget cut.

A total tax levy of $7,927,285 was approved after four hours of appeals by citizens who sought to head off a financial crisis in the school system.

A public hearing and city council action on the 1969 city purposes budget were postponed to 7:30 p.m. today.

In his message on the first executive budget, Buckley stood fast on the full $1 million reduction in 1969 school expenditures, and suggested that town chairmen might want to make further cuts.

But when Ald. John Steidl (18th) moved to support the mayor, the aldermen and chairmen — members of the fiscal control board — were silent. The motion died for lack of a second.

Alderman Glenn W. Thompson (13th) then quickly moved to put through a cut of $400,000 prescribed by the Appleton Taxpayers Association at a public hearing. Most aldermen and town chairmen held out for a larger cut and the motion was soundly defeated.

Town of Grand Chute Chairman Thomas Thorson, who wielded heavy voting power, struck the compromise. "I have come to this meeting instructed by my town board to vote for a cut of $1 million," Thorson said. "I cannot in good conscience do that. I am going to vote for a cut of no less than $500,000. I am not going to vote for anything less."

Thorson's dictum won the immediate approval of Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo and Ald. John Ayers (12th), who moved for the down-the-middle compromise.

Majority Needed
The vote, based on equalized valuation, was 1,474 in favor, 738 opposed. Only a simple majority of 1,107 votes was required.

It was a 50-50 compromise, Ayers pointed out, laying equal portions of the 1969 financial burden on the taxpayer and the school board.

This will be the year, he said, when the school board's strife for quality education and the taxpayers' demands for an easier burden most conflict.

The $500,000 cut "should serve as a warning that the taxpayer is going to have a more important voice in both the city budget and the school budget," Ayers said.

The net effect of Tuesday night's action on Appleton's average tax rate for school purposes was a $1.62 increase.

Buckley's executive budget with the $1 million cut had proposed a total average tax rate of $71.33. That figure now goes to $72.95.

Therefore, the city council tonight will face an $8.96 increase in the total tax rate over last year.

A total of $120,347 from sinking funds and interest on invested funds was added to the budget to help reduce the levy. Steidl tore into "frill spending" in the school system and laid the onus on the board of

Secretary of Defense Laird Bowed to Heavy Pressure

vin R. Laird, expected to be named tonight as the new secretary of defense, agreed to take the job only after President-elect Nixon applied intense pressure, sources say.

"It was a question of duty. There is no question but that he would have liked to have stayed in the House the rest of his life and someday become speaker," the source said.

The 46-year-old Wisconsin Republican was elected in November to an eighth term with 64 per cent of the vote.

Laird, No. 2 House Republican, had gone home to Wisconsin last week. Thursday, he got the first intimation that Nixon had decided to make him defense head.

Friday he flew to Palm Springs, site of the GOP Governors' Conference, to meet with Nixon.

Could Do More
A high source said Laird told Nixon that he could do more for him and the party in the House and stressed that he was a legislator rather than an administrator.

"But when the President of the United States asks you—do it," the source said.

Laird, ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, was one of the toughest questioners of former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

More than once he challenged McNamara's estimated spending budget and in each case his own estimate turned out to be close to the actual figure.

One source said that Nixon, a long-time friend of Laird's, wanted the Wisconsin congressman, not only to run the Defense Department, but for his knowledge of health, education and welfare and agriculture.

Laird was reported as supporting Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., for secretary of defense, who presumably was offered and declined the post.

Platform Chairman
Laird was chairman of the Platform Committee at the 1964 Republican National Convention and was vice-chairman at the 1960 party gathering.

Since 1964, he has played a key role on the Republican Coordinating Committee, the party's highest policymaking body.

Laird launched his political career at the age of 23 when elected to the Wisconsin State Senate to succeed his father. He served six years as state senator before his election to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Born in Omaha, Neb., to Melvin R. and Helen Connor Laird on Sept. 1, 1922. The family moved to Wood County, Wis., when Laird was a year old.

He attended Marshfield, Wis., public schools and received his degree from Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

Married to the former Barbara Masters on Oct. 15, 1945, the Lairds have three children, John, Allison and David.

He enlisted in the Navy in May of 1942 and later served on the U.S. Destroyer Maddox in the Pacific in Adm. Halsey's Third Fleet and Adm. Marc Mitscher's Task Force 58.

Neither the planes nor the Soviet destroyer have attempted to contact the Dyess or Turner by radio, blinker or any other means, the sources said.

"They're just keeping an eye on our ships," one senior Naval officer said.

"The Soviets within the last year have seen fit to show the Soviet flag in the Indian Ocean and the Persian Gulf," Clifford told a news conference.

He noted "this is not the first time we have sent destroyers in the Black Sea," which is ringed by the Soviet Union, Communist Rumania, Communist Bulgaria and Western-oriented Turkey.

Budget and State Heads Already Set

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon announced today a federal budget director—Chicago banker Robert Mayo—before flying to Washington to announce his Cabinet choices to the nation tonight.

Appearing before newsmen at his Pierre Hotel headquarters in New York, Nixon said that Mayo, whose background couples 18 years in the Treasury Department with nine years in private banking, will be considered "a top member of the Cabinet team" and will attend all meetings of that body.

Mayo wound up his Treasury career in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration as assistant to the secretary for debt management and in 1960 joined the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago, where he has served as a vice president.

Nixon met earlier with Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew to give him an advance look at the Cabinet roster.

To reporters, the president-elect said he thinks his choices are "big men, strong men I rely on." He said it won't be a Cabinet basically of "yes men."

William P. Rogers, attorney general for three years in the Eisenhower administration, will be named secretary of state.

Word of some other Cabinet selections has already gained public circulation.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, according to informed Republican Party officials in Washington, will be secretary of housing and urban development.

Another Republican governor, Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, will be secretary of the interior, according to Alaska's senator-elect, Mike Gravel, a Democrat.

There were strong reports that Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., would occupy the powerful position of secretary of defense.

Nixon told reporters Tuesday that he would be announcing today a major post for Republican Lt. Gov. Robert Finch of California—but wouldn't say what it was.

It was generally believed Finch would wind up as secretary of health, education and welfare.

For secretary of the Treasury, speculation centers on David Kennedy, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago, and Robert H. Anderson, who held the post in the Eisenhower administration.

John N. Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager and former law partner in New York, is mentioned prominently as the choice for attorney general.

Secretary of Agriculture: Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, is regarded as the choice.

Secretary of Commerce: Perhaps Maurice H. Stans, budget director in the Eisenhower administration.

Secretary of Labor: Either George P. Shultz, dean of the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago, or James J. Reynolds, now under-secretary of labor.

'Certainly,' Says Scranton Nixon Will Propose Mideast Peace Plan

TEL AVIV (AP) — Former

Gov. William W. Scranton, flying home from his fact-finding mission for President-elect Nixon in the Middle East, said today the new administration will propose a plan for peace between the Israelis and Arabs.

Asked on a stop in Rome whether, after he reported to Nixon, the United States would suggest a peace plan, Scranton said: "Yes, certainly, we will put forward a proposal. But I can give no details at this time."

"I was able to ascertain that the parties affected are actually very willing to find a solution to the problem," he said.

Shooting continued across the Jordan River.

An Israeli army spokesman said an Israeli border patrol came under bazooka and light arms fire in the Beisan Valley. The Israelis returned the fire, he said, but no casualties were reported. Jordan claimed the Israelis fired first and said its troops suffered no casualties.

Scranton, who made a fact-finding tour of six countries for peace settlement in the Middle East is "far and away the most important thing to arrive at."

He said he found desire for a settlement "fundamental in Israel," as well as in Arab countries he visited earlier.

The former Pennsylvania governor visited Iran, Lebanon, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Israel.

Asked to comment on Israeli demands for face-to-face talks with the Arabs, Scranton said: "One can understand this demand. However, I am happy they are willing to talk to U.N. peace envoy Gunnar Jarring because at present this appears the best way to reach a settlement."

Leaders Want Peace
Scranton said on Tuesday he was more encouraged about prospects for peace in the Middle East than when he arrived in the area last week.

"The main reason for this," he said, "is that I have been impressed with the fact every leader that I talked to wishes to have a peaceful settlement of the situation here.

"Frankly, before I came I was not convinced that was true."

He declined to disclose any recommendations he may have, saying he must report first to Nixon. He said he had discussed Israel's basic security need "in great detail" but did not elaborate.

During his election campaign Nixon said he favored providing Israel a technological military margin to offset the Arabs' numerical superiority. Asked if he would endorse that statement on the basis of his tour, Scranton noted that Nixon had qualified his statement to specify such aid "as long as there was a direct and imminent threat to Israel."

"I think that he must make the judgment as to whether there is still a direct and imminent threat to Israel," Scranton said.

"I think that he must make the judgment as to whether there is still a direct and imminent threat to Israel," Scranton said.

Russia Keeping Eye on U.S. Ships in Cruise of Black Sea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The

Russians have been tailing two U.S. destroyers cruising the Black Sea but have avoided harassing them, Navy sources said today.

At least one Russian destroyer has shadowed the Dyess and the Turner, staying generally two to nine miles astern of them.

Sources said the 3,500 ton destroyers have been overflown also by Soviet planes "more than once" since they entered the Black Sea Monday through the Mosporus, the narrow Turkish-controlled strait that splits Europe from Asia.

Navy headquarters is keeping close tabs through radio messages on progress of the U.S.

ships, whose cruise has been denounced by the Soviets as provocation and as "a show of force close to the Soviet border."

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said Tuesday that "there is no merit to the Soviet charge that the mission is provocative."

"We have a perfect and complete right to have our destroyers in the Black Sea," Clifford said. He contended that the voyage is routine.

Reply to Soviets
Although Clifford didn't say so specifically, he implied that the cruise of the Dyess and Turner at this time was intended, at least partly, as a reply to wiceranging Soviet naval penetration of the seas.

"The Soviets within the last year have seen fit to show the Soviet flag in the Indian Ocean and the Persian Gulf," Clifford told a news conference.

He noted "this is not the first time we have sent destroyers in the Black Sea," which is ringed by the Soviet Union, Communist Rumania, Communist Bulgaria and Western-oriented Turkey.

Navy records show that this is the eighth time in the past four years that U.S. destroyers, traveling in pairs, have appeared in the Black Sea. But Navy officials said, the Russians never before have raised such a fuss.

Sources said Russian planes have kept a least 1,000 feet above the two American warships and have not attempted any harassment such as buzzing. Neither the planes nor the Soviet destroyer have attempted to contact the Dyess or Turner by radio, blinker or any other means, the sources said.

Senator Charges:

'Nixon Blocked LBJ's Selection of Goldberg'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon learned President Johnson planned to appoint Arthur Goldberg as chief justice and blocked it, says Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

"He knew that President Johnson planned to appoint Arthur Goldberg as chief justice, because LBJ so informed him," Young said in a statement Tuesday.

"Despite this," Young said, "behind the President's back, he picked up the telephone to Earl Warren and asked him to remain as chief justice until June."

Nixon's headquarters in New York announced recently that Chief Justice Warren had agreed to stay on until the end of the year, and I hope he will continue to do so."

Young said Nixon will not become president until Jan. 20 and therefore had no power to ask Warren to remain on the court or to accept Warren's resignation.

"This is the right of President Johnson, who is still President of the United States," Young said. "I hope he will continue to do so."

Young said he will continue to state this fact by proceeding with his plan to appoint former Associate Justice Goldberg to court.

Warren last June wrote Johnson of his intention to retire "at your pleasure."

Johnson accepted the retirement, effective on Senate confirmation of Justice Abe Fortas as Warren's successor. But the subject to Senate confirmation.

Senate did not confirm Fortas and Warren remained on the court.

Goldberg left the court to become U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, a position from which he resigned earlier this year.

Johnson's appointment of Goldberg or anyone else as chief justice again would be subject to Senate confirmation.

Lynda Bird Robb, President Johnson's

elder daughter, and her husband, Maj. Charles Robb, are reunited in Bangkok today, two days after their anniversary. Robb is on leave from the U.S. Air Force. (Story on Page A-3)

MADISON — A request for a delay of four days in starting the hearings for Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh students suspended after a Nov. 21 campus disturbance was rejected Tuesday by a federal court judge.

U.S. District Court Judge James E. Doyle handed down the ruling Tuesday afternoon after hearing arguments on the motion asked by the attorney general's office.

Doyle ruled Monday that the 94 Negro students involved in the incident at the campus administration building be reinstated to the school by 6 p.m.

Schools Plan Yule Programs At Hortonville

HORTONVILLE — The high school and junior high school music departments will present their annual Christmas concerts Sunday and Monday.

The high school concert will be at 8 p.m. Sunday and the junior high concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The high school concert band, Girls Glee Club, mixed chorus and the Polar Bear band will perform on Sunday evening featuring a combination of the band and chorus in Handel's, "Hallelujah Chorus."

On Monday the seventh grade chorus, eighth grade chorus, beginners band and the honor band will be featured.

The groups are directed by Ernest Broeniman, Kay Jacobson and Mrs. Carlarae Triolo. The Music Boosters will sponsor a candy and bake sale in conjunction with the concerts. There will be a free will offering taken.

Hortonville Elementary School Plans Annual Christmas Program

HORTONVILLE — The public elementary school Christmas program will be presented at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 19 in the junior high gym.

The program will include most of the pupils in grades 1 through 6. Highlights of the program will be an operetta entitled, "A Penny For Christmas," presented by the fifth and sixth graders.

The program includes the first graders singing "The Angel Band" and "Jingle Bells." Second graders will do a creative movement number and sing "Santa's Coming." Third graders will perform several German dances, and fourth graders present a skit entitled "What is Christmas."

The program is under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Huffman, elementary music teacher, who is assisted by all of the classroom teachers. Mrs. Paula Banaszak is directing the special dance numbers.

Burglary Nets Youth 2 Years In Reformatory

An early morning burglary at an Appleton tavern has resulted in two years in the Wisconsin State Reformatory at Green Bay for Thomas Gilbert, 19, 615 N. State St.

Gilbert pleaded guilty to the offense on Nov. 22, and has been in jail without bond since. He was sentenced Tuesday.

Appleton police charged Gilbert and John D. Knaack, 19, 1715 W. Spencer St., with the burglary early Nov. 11 of the

One-More Bar, 614 W. College Ave. Knaack, who was placed on two years probation Nov. 19, was taken into custody minutes after the burglary, while Gilbert was apprehended the next day. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer denied a plea for probation by Gilbert's attorney, who told the court his client "has learned a lesson."

Schaefer, who had ordered a pre-sentence investigation, noted that Gilbert was on probation "and did not make use of that opportunity." He noted that Gilbert has worked "very little" in the past couple of years.

About $400 in cash and liquor and cigarettes were taken from the tavern. Some of the loot was recovered.

Burglars Have Party In Cottage

SHOCTON — Vandalism apparently had a beer party in a cottage they broke into near here.

Nat Wils, 1719 N. Owassa St., Appleton, reported the burglary to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department Monday. His cottage is three miles north of here, along State 187.

Sheriff's investigators said entry into the cottage was gained by breaking a south window. Nothing appeared to be missing, but beer cans were strewn inside the cottage and were piled outside.

Immunization Shots Given to Over 3,000 Children in County

More than 3,000 immunization shots were given Outagamie County elementary school children this fall in immunization clinics conducted by the Outagamie County Public Health Service.

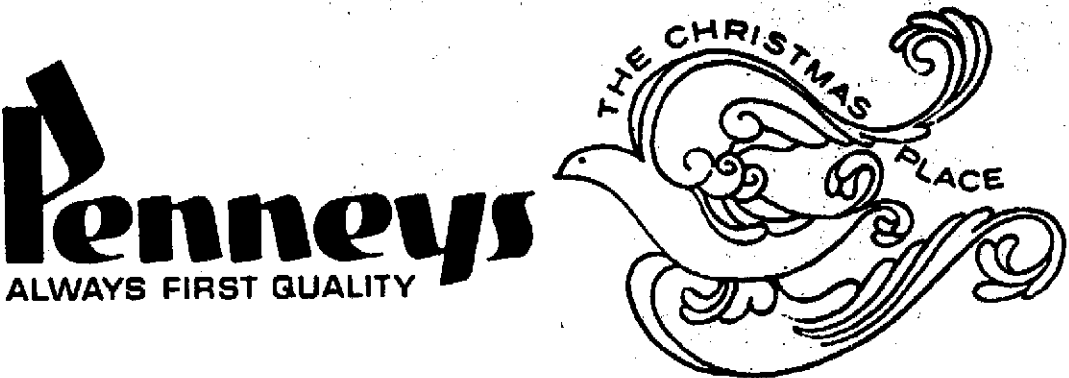

The clinics were conducted for children in kindergarten through fifth grade in Little Chute, Shiocton, Kimberly, Hortonville, Bear Creek and Freedom. The final clinics were held last week.

A total of 1,639 children received booster shots. There were 146 received diphtheria-tetanus primary diphtheria-tetanus shots given for children who never had been immunized. This involved two doses, one month apart.

For smallpox, 993 re-vaccinations were given where the time lapse had been five years or more and 337 first vaccinations were given.

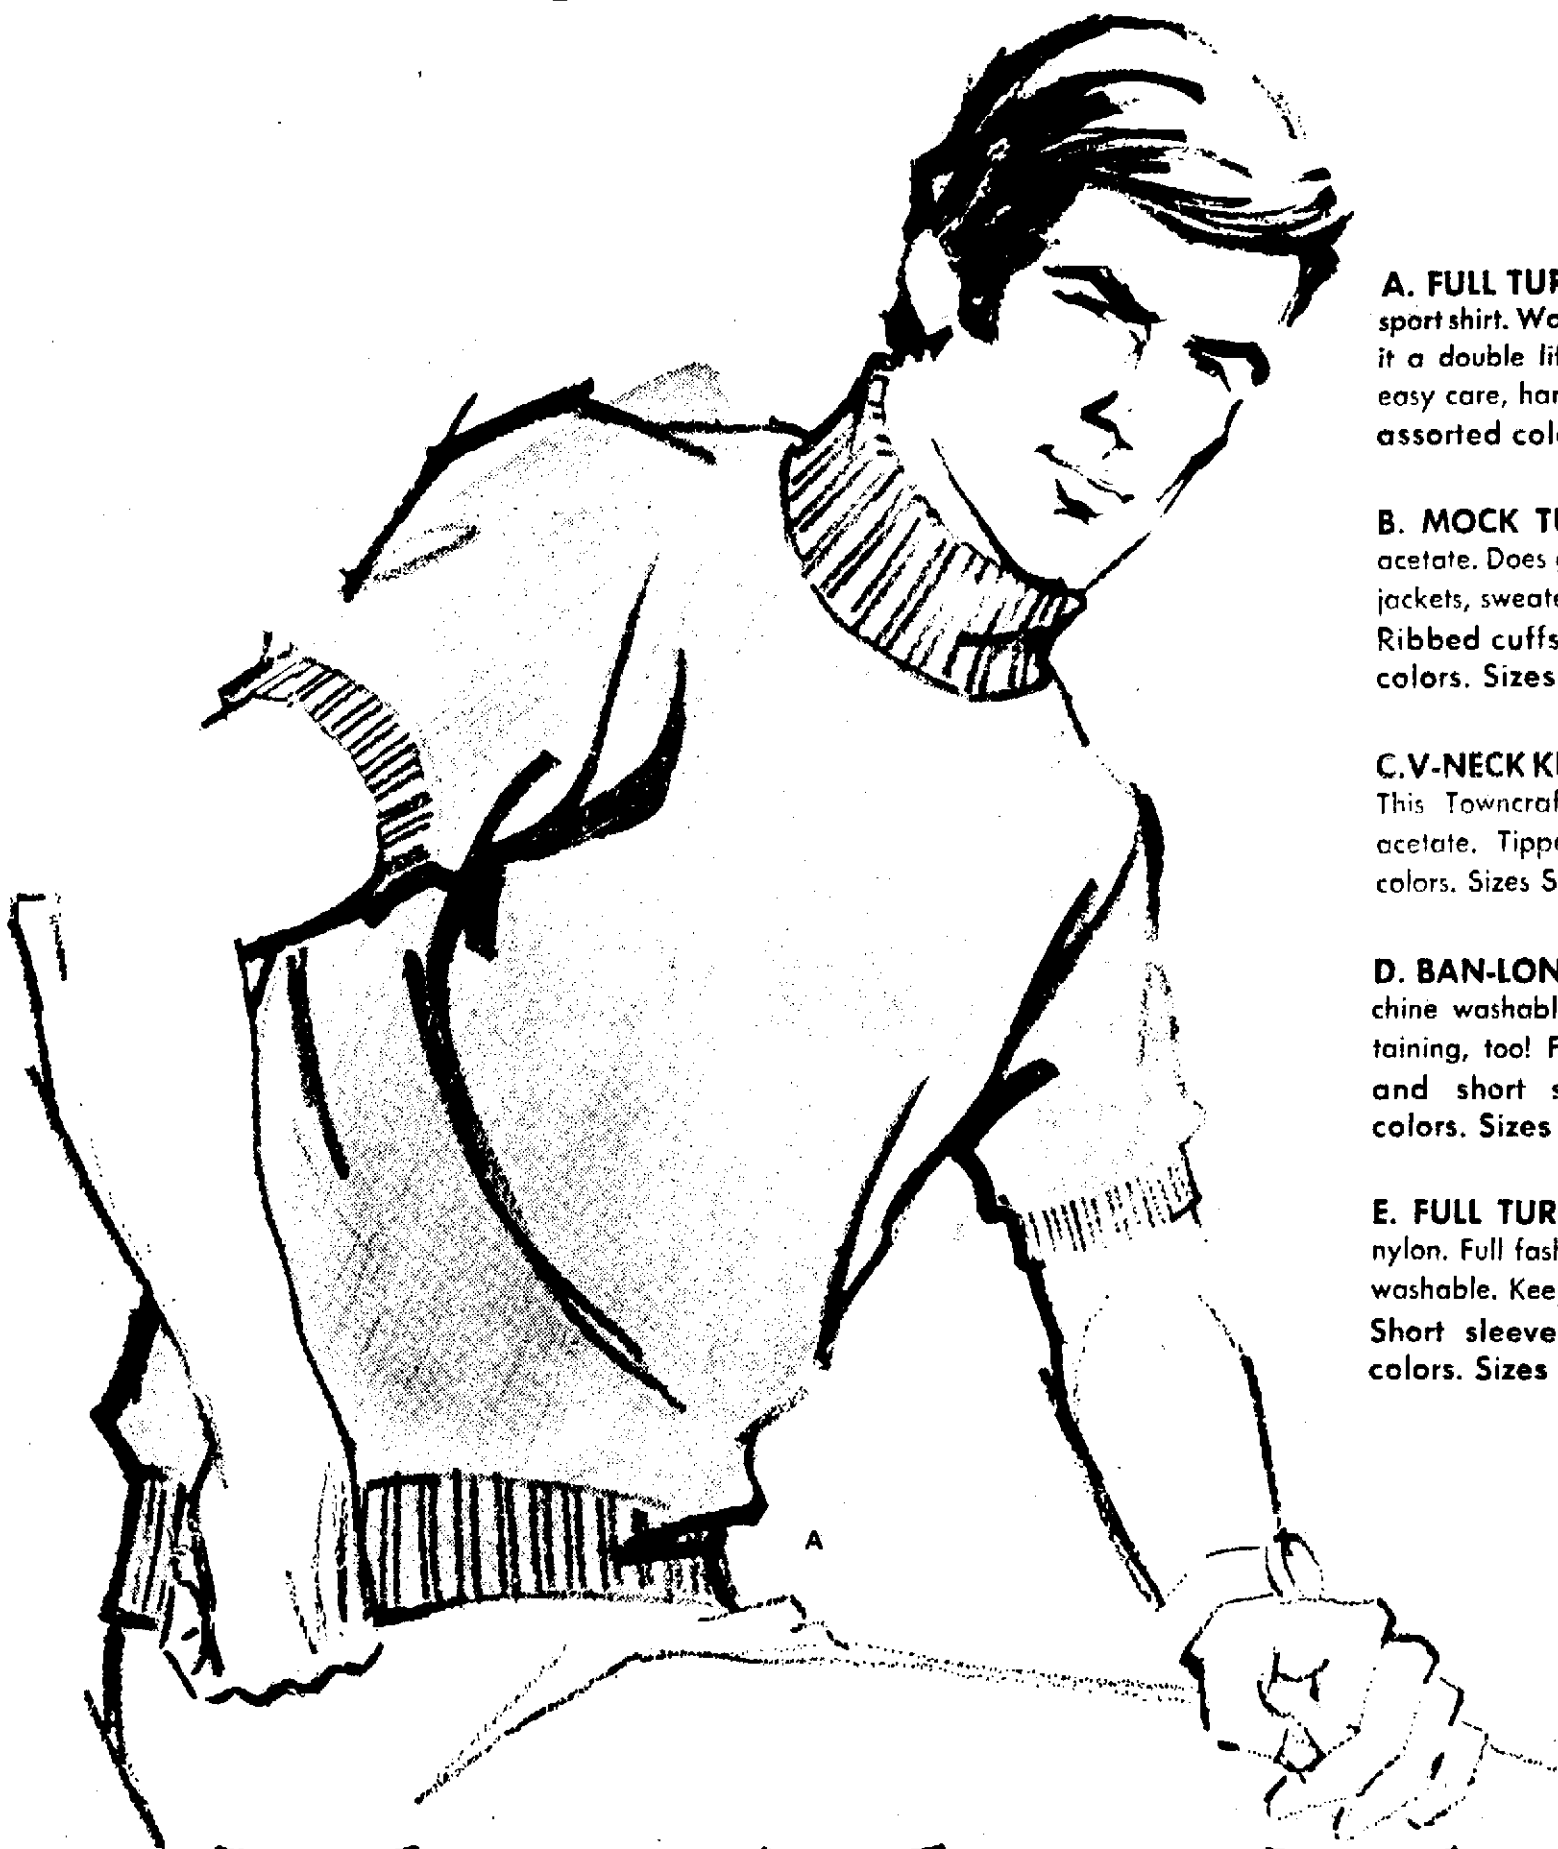

Miss Virginia Betley, Outagamie County nurse, said the program was made successful through the efforts of volunteers from the various townships who donated their time to assist in the clinics.

Consumer Protection Measures Suggested

Local Prosecution of Violations Effective Tool, Congress of Cities Delegates Told

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW ORLEANS — The nation's shoppers need more consumer protections on the local, state and federal level, according to a top federal official.

Leslie Dix, Washington, general counsel for the President's Council on Consumer Interests, hinted of consumer rebellions during one of the workshops held here at the Congress of Cities.

While Dix concentrated on the need for further protection for the buying public, other speakers covered a wide field of urban trouble spots, including the so-called rights explosion and its relationship to the legal process.

Best Friend
Panelists said the consumer is the best friend that free enterprise ever had and it shouldn't ever forget it: the U. S. has an archaic system of laws that can't keep up with the rights explosion, and the public sector (governments) will be the main employer in the years ahead for those in the inner cities.

Depending on individual

Wife of Pueblo's Skipper to Urge Nixon for Action

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) —

Mrs. Lloyd Bucher, wife of the skipper of the USS Pueblo, says about 500,000 signatures supporting action to release the captured intelligence ship will be taken to Washington Saturday for delivery to the White House and the office of President-elect Nixon.

Mrs. Bucher, in accepting petitions containing 8,500 signatures demanding the release, said Tuesday that she hopes the Johnson administration will get the Pueblo crew home or that Nixon will use "new men with new ideas" to do it.

North Korea seized the Pueblo 322 days ago.

The signatures will be forwarded by the National Committee for Responsible Patriotism in New York, she said.

states, Dix said, laws can and must be adopted to protect the consumer. At the top of his list was the need for licensing.

"And a few arrests and prosecution of consumer law violators locally — the proceedings being well publicized — is another effective tool," Dix suggested.

Favors Ombudsman
He also advocated the ombudsman method where there is an opportunity for a government-authorized official to represent the people, finding out what consumer complaints are, and why.

Dix recalled those office seekers who made consumer interests a major part of their campaigns — U. S. Senator Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) qualified for his investigation into drug prices, tire safety and other areas — were returned to office by large margins.

Referring to some problems due to lack of consumer protection was Dix's observation, "Consumer frustration is one of the 12 most deeply held grievances likely to lead to riots."

On the state of today's legal affairs, Gene Cahn of George Washington University, said quite bluntly, "In this country we need to develop radical new approaches to handle the current crisis in the rule of law."

New Awareness
The rights explosion was described as a new awareness by the people of the number of grievances and complaints they have.

And on the subject of national employment in the months and years to come, Sumner Rosen, research director of the New Careers Training Laboratory, offered interesting observations.

"It is a vain and futile hope to believe," he said, "that the private employer will offer sufficient jobs in the next decade for those in the inner cities."

"The public sector will be the main employer in the years ahead," he predicted.

Monday was a full day for Congress delegates as they heard from Gov. Nelson Rockefeller on the need for a national urbanization policy, John W. Gardner, chairman of the Urban Coalition; and Galo Plaza, secretary general of the Organization of American States.

Confronting City Officials Sticky Situation for Agnew

NEW ORLEANS — When Vice President-Elect Spiro T. Agnew arrived here to keynote the annual Congress of Cities meeting, it was akin to arriving in a lion's den.

His topic, which related to federal relations with the cities, struck home to the more than 3,000 mayors and councilmen from communities across the country.

Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Green Bay and Winneconne were among the cities in the Fox Valley represented.

Since their arrival over the weekend, mayors have been launching a cold war against any idea the Nixon Administration may have concerning direct federal grants to states, rather than cities. Agnew, who opened his Wisconsin campaign in Oshkosh last summer, was sent here by his boss to allay some fears about the future and mend political fences.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York appeared to be a very tired man when he arrived at the Jung Hotel convention headquarters late Sunday. Asked by the writer as he shook hands with the governor as he alighted from a large, black limousine how he felt, he replied with a faint smile, "Tired."

The political pros say here, in retrospect, that Rockefeller would have easily beaten Hubert Humphrey had he been the GOP standard bearer in the last presidential election.

New Orleans is, indeed, a city of pageantry and tradition. Historic Jackson Square drew thousands on a brisk Sunday morning to watch old-time street criers, banjo players, jazz bands parading about the streets, horse drawn carriages, outdoor art displays and other events.

An ecumenical mass was held in the beautiful St. Louis Cathedral across from the Square, and the pure, old-time jazz music outside was accepted as part of the rites. Normally, a hand-blaring forth outside a church during services would bring on the authorities — but not here — the birthplace of jazz.

And speaking of jazz, a little, old rundown building in the French Quarter with wooden benches and standing room-only areas for about 100 persons — packed well to wall on all four sides — gets top rating from the visitors.

Preservation Hall is the home of the best jazz, "ala New Orleans," every night. Admission is a dollar tossed into a hat and you stay as long as you like. Far from being youngsters, the five to six Negro musicians holding forth are mostly retired and in their sixties and seventies. . . but they're the greatest

The French Quarter has sights, sounds and people unlimited. On a casual stroll through part of the area one can't go wrong by stopping in at Al Hirt's Place, the Pete Fountain French Quarter Inn, Your Father's Mu Moustache, Pat O'Brien's and The Red Garter. Eating establishments would take a long discourse.

The other night a huge crowd gathered in the lobby of the Jung Hotel, convention headquarters. Sitting on the floor was a distinguished-looking New Orleans businessman performing card tricks with an accompanying you never heard of before.

And earlier in the week, a delegation of officials arrived from Spain and donated a new mail to the City of New Orleans, holding a unique of cornerstone-laying ceremony.

Cold Weather Makes For Difficult Typing

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — It was 5 a.m., the temperature stood at zero and the U.S. Weather Bureau teletype operator at the Albany County airport obviously was having difficulty.

"We...clear," he typed. "Wind...west northwest 13 gusts to 21..."

Speeder's Excuse: Late for a Wedding

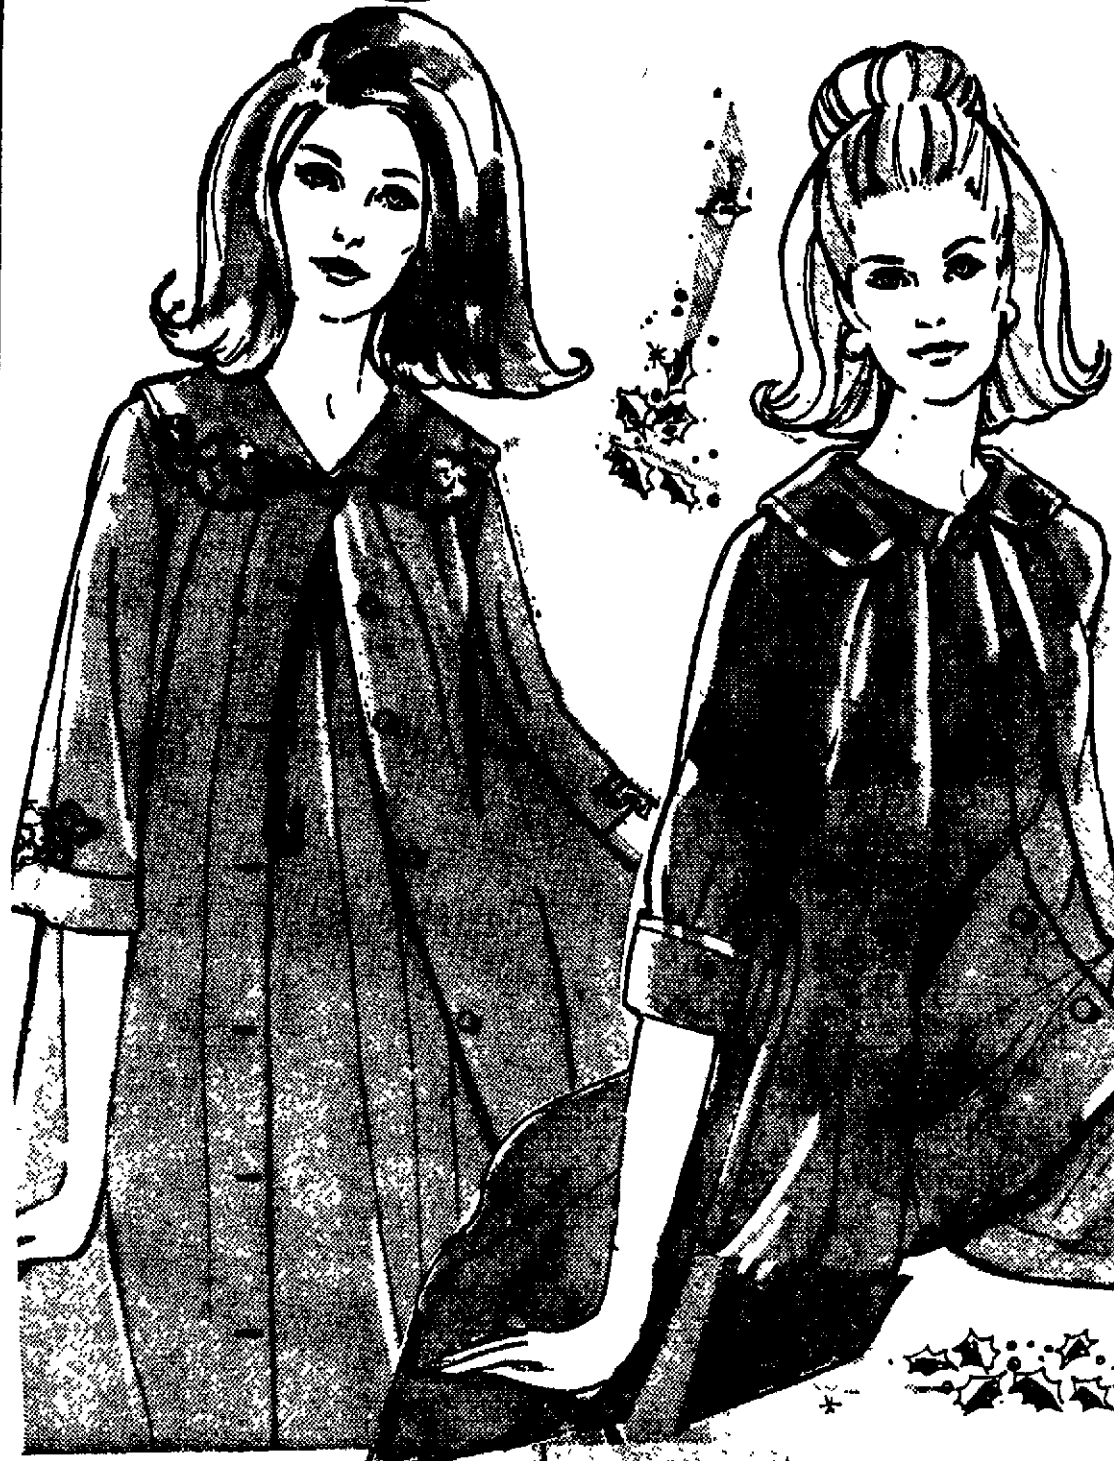

KNOXVILLE (AP) — John L. Shipe pleaded guilty to a speeding charge in Sessions Court Monday, but he told Judge W. Earl Layman he had a good reason.

"I was trying not to be late to my wedding," Shipe said.

"Were you?" asked the judge. "I was," after the officer stopped me and wrote the ticket," Shipe replied. He was charged with traveling 100 miles per hour in a 75 mph speed zone.

The judge fined Shipe $0 and costs.

Your Money's Worth Meat, Poultry, Fish Prices Rise Slowly

BY SYLVIA PORTER
The price of veal cutlets now averages nearly $4.00 per pound. The average grocery store price for a pound of porterhouse steak tops $1.40, and for sirloin, $1.22. For lamb chops it averages $1.65 and for boneless rump roast, $1.15.
And, mind you, these are averages and thus they hide the times we are asked to pay as much as $1.75 for porterhouse,

Porter
$1.00 for hamburger, $1.35 for pork chops and you name it for the fancier cuts of beef and chops.
Nevertheless:
The cost of meat, poultry and fish, on average, is still only 13 per cent above the 1967-68 base period, reflecting a far slower price rise than for most other foods. The meat price rise in the past 12 months has been less than 2 per cent, as against a 4 per cent climb in the overall cost of living. And this is so despite the fact that the prices of many individual types and cuts of meat have been soaring.
In view of this selectivity in price rises, it's more important than ever before to shop carefully for meat. Specifically:

Watch the Specials
—Take advantage of meat specials and stock your home freezer regularly with meats you buy on weekend specials. The cost difference between buying meat at regular prices and on specials can run to 25 to 35 per cent. These savings, obviously, can translate into hundreds of dollars for you over a year.
—Substitute less expensive or costly types of meat; for example, chuck steaks for sirloins.
—And above all, buy according to the best possible meat values. The true value of any type or cut of meat you buy can be measured in terms of the actual true cost of a given portion of the final cooked product.
To illustrate: lean hamburger costing 90 cents a pound at the supermarket is no more expensive than boneless round beef roast costing only 76 cents a pound (if you could get it at this price).

The cost of a cooked 3-oz. serving, minus fat and other wastage, comes out about even.
Lean lamb chops at $1.00 a pound cost almost the same as boneless round steak at $1.40, again because of the wasted bone and fat in the lamb chops for which you pay.
Here, from the Agriculture Department is a guide to meat price bargains. It shows you the true cost of a three-ounce serving of each type of meat, cooked, at various retail price levels:

Item	If You Pay $1	If You Pay $1.40 a lb.	If You Pay $1.40 a lb. The true cost per serving is:
Chuck roast, boned	35c	48c
Round roast, boned	31c	44c
Chuck steak, boned	35c	48c
Round steak, boned	31c	44c
Sirloin, boned	39c	55c
Ground beef	26c	38c
Pork chops, loin	45c	62c
Ham roast, boned	26c	36c
Ham, picnic, boned	35c	49c
Ham slices	31c	44c
Lamb, leg roast, bone in	42c	58c
Lamb chops, loin	46c	64c

Small Amount Of Radiation Escapes Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Two radioactive air masses went beyond the Nevada test site after Sunday's nuclear test but radiation readings were infinitesimal, the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday.
One of the air masses was about 100 miles south of Salt Lake City, Utah, Monday and the other was drifting into northeast Colorado, the AEC said. Instruments carried by Air Force and Public Health Service aircraft registered traces of radiation, but no ground stations noticed any, it added.
Sunday's explosion was described as of low intermediate yield to determine the cratering effects of underground nuclear blasts in hard rock.
It was the first explosion of the kind since February. Small amounts of radiation always are emitted in such tests, the AEC said.

Julian Cayo-Evans poses in his Free Wales Army uniform at Glan Denys Farm near Lampeter, Wales. 2½ Million Welsh Tired Of Britain's Dominance

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer

LAMPETER, Wales (AP) — Julian Cayo-Evans, wearing his dark green Free Wales Army uniform, says: "We are not asking for home rule. We're demanding it."

Cayo-Evans, 31-year-old ex-Foreign Legion adventurer, claims the FWA has 7,000 members. This is disputed by others on the Welsh scene; they say the membership is more like 300.

Mostly young farmers like Cayo-Evans, they are dedicated to restoring independence for the 2 million Welsh, who have been ruled from London for 700 years.

The home rulers are particularly angered by the flooding of Welsh valleys in recent years to provide water for the industrial cities of England. This month a bomb shattered pipelines carrying water from the Welsh mountains to the midlands city of Birmingham.

The FWA warned that the bombings will be increased, particularly if plans go ahead for the flooding of the Dulais Valley in Montgomeryshire.

"Real Trouble"
"If another Welsh valley is flooded there really will be trouble," Cayo-Evans said.

The growing Welsh Nationalist party, Plaid Cymru, has denounced the bombings and the activities of extremist groups.

Gwynfor Evans, Plaid Cymru

president, claims that his 30,000-member party can win independence for Wales by constitutional methods.

Others maintain that democratic methods—Evans is the only Welsh Nationalist in the British Parliament—have failed and the time has come for violence.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government, presumably anxious to keep the Welsh political climate cool, has been cautious in prosecuting alleged extremists.

But Cayo-Evans says he and his colleagues are kept under close police surveillance. "My phone is tapped, for instance," he says.

He reports police recently seized a number of FWA uniforms and pulled down the red dragon Welsh flag which he flew outside his farm in West Wales.

Hidden Ammunition
The FWA has numerous hidden arms dumps in Wales, he says. "We keep them as a deterrent."

A good many ordinary Welsh people joke about the FWA and their uniforms. But the police are taking the threat seriously.

One of Scotland Yard's top detectives, Supt. Jock Wilson, has been given the job of guarding Prince Charles when he goes to Aberystwyth in April for a crash course in Welsh affairs. He will be seated as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon three months later.

The police are worried by the professional way in which several sabotage bombings have been carried out.

Out of nine blasts the bombers have injured one person—a warrant officer who discovered a homemade bomb at a Royal Air Force station in Wales. The bomb exploded, seriously injuring the man. That resulted in a good deal of bad publicity for the bombers. The FWA claimed the bomb was planted by the police to discredit the organization.

The battle of wits sometimes has an unreal, almost comic quality. The FWA claims that in a recent "deal" with the police they told them where they could find a cache of guns in a lake.

The FWA says they were happy getting rid of some "hot" arms. The police were happy to get them, proudly displaying the arms to newsmen.

Grand Jury Cites Kaukauna Youth For Draft Evasion

Special to The Post-Crescent

MILWAUKEE — Anthony J. Schlude, 23, Kaukauna, was one of eight persons named Tuesday by a federal grand jury on charges of violating military draft laws.

Schlude, along with James M. Halloran, 24, of Madison, was charged with refusing to submit to induction.

Charged with failure to report for induction were:

Blue Star Program to Begin in Kimberly District

KIMBERLY — Members of the board of education voted Monday night to cooperate with the Combined Locks Advancement Association in setting up a Blue Star program in the district.

Under the plan, residents of the district would be asked to place a Blue Star in their window to let youngsters know an adult is available to assist in any emergency.

The association will attempt to have a plan whereby certain homes would be selected in areas where school traffic is heavy. School board members will assist in educating the public on the plan and selecting homes where stars will be displayed.

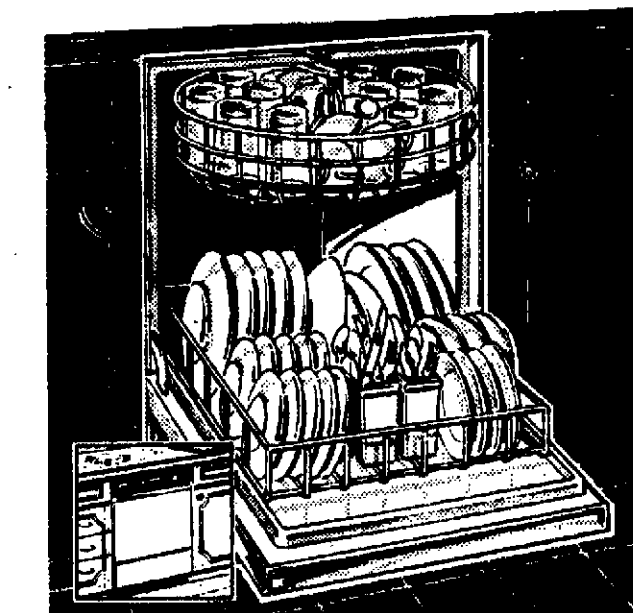

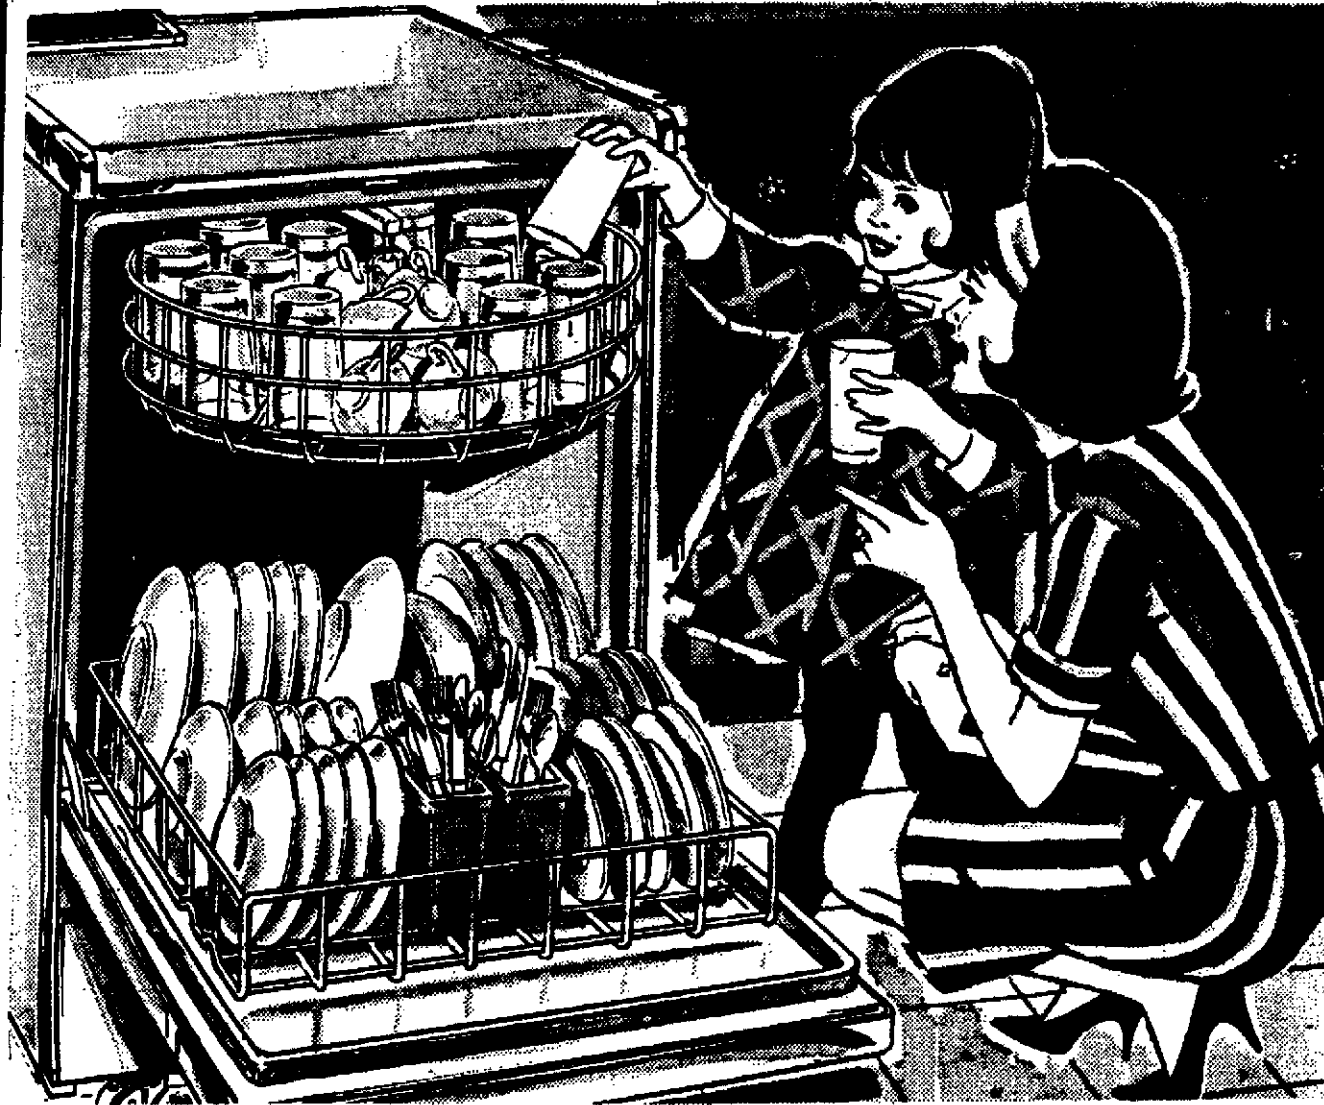

Resignations were accepted from Miss Patricia Stuewer, a senior high school business education instructor, and Mrs. Lola Main, a junior high school, home economics teacher. Both resignations are effective with the start of the second semester.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kaiser, a graduate of University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, was hired to replace Mrs. Main and Supt. of Schools Ray Hamann was authorized to seek a replacement for Miss Stuewer.

Board members agreed to participate in a Wisconsin Association of School Boards telephonic conference to be held at the Outagamie County court house at 8 p.m. Thursday. The conference permits board members to exchange ideas and air mutual problems with school board members from many other communities.

Excessive Sun Lamp
Use Can Harm Acne

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 18 and have a slight case of acne, not too bad. Does a sunlamp help it? Many people have told me so, and I always look better after being in the sun in summer. However, my father

Dr. Thosteson: My husband and I are thinking of finishing off another room in the basement as an extra bedroom. Do you have an opinion as to the effect this could have on one's health? We have gas heat, a humidifier for winter, and dehumidifier for summer. There would be two regular-size basement windows. — Mrs. E.N.

Basement bedrooms may be unsatisfactory because of dampness, mold, and poor ventilation, but with the provisions you have made to take care of these problems, there would be no health problem.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, "Acne — The Teen-Age Problem." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Thosteson answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Oregon Students Given a Chance To Make Policy

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The state Board of Higher Education adopted a code Monday aimed at giving students in state universities and colleges the right to join with faculty and administrators in making educational policies.

The code guarantees students the right of peaceful assembly and the right to petition for changes, but it says violence or threats of violence shall be punished.

The code also says all students shall have free and equal access to services provided by the institutions, a guarantee inserted to aid minority groups.

Russell Sandler of Eugene, chairman of the Interinstitutional Student Committee, praised the code, saying it "will reduce the possibility of what has happened at San Francisco State College, Berkeley and Columbia" happening in Oregon.

Specifics of the program are left to each university and college. It is important in the legislation.

Drying lotions, especially those containing sulphur, are useful. White lotion, or lotio alba, is a time-honored one.

Diet also is a factor. Avoidance of sea foods, chocolate, and iodine are the chief elements. Although every one needs a trace of iodine to keep the thyroid healthy, too much of it is harmful. Seafoods are rich in iodine, which is also in certain vitamin preparations and iodized salt.

I don't mean to downgrade iodine. It is important in the

Emotions Run High at School Budget Hearing

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Young people concerned about their futures, teachers and school officials worried about irreparable damage to Appleton's educational system, representatives of organizations unfolding their findings and a wealth of other speakers all poured out their cases, one by one, Tuesday night at the four-hour public airing of the school budget request.

In the minority, a few spoke for more consideration for taxpayers.

On occasion, emotions ran high, but few tempers flared. Claims and counter-claims and questions from fiscal control board members, bared more and more factors for deliberation in the school budget. Those opposed to Mayor George L. Buckley's proposed $1 million cut said it was a serious mistake, and occasionally, criticized the mayor, who presided over the hearing.

The council chambers were packed as many leaned against the walls and railings and filled the doorways. Some sat on the floor or found other makeshift seating as more than 200 waited for the verdict.

Change to Speak

Young and old stood before the microphone as their opportunity came to try to sway the members of the fiscal control board. If the predictions of some observers were true — that most fiscal board members came to the hearing with their minds made up in favor of the mayor's $1 million cut — supporters of the school system were, indeed, successful.

Many pleas were based on emotion, including one by Appleton West High School senior Sally Hug, 202 W. Browning St., who criticized certain speakers and others for their "inhuman" view of the students. "You make me feel as if I were a stupid piece of goods," she said.

However, probably the most influential presentations were those outlining adverse effects on the school system.

Particularly noteworthy was the talk of John McKenzie, president of the Appleton Taxpayers Association. Calling for a cut of only $400,000, McKenzie indicated where the cuts could be made and shed some light on why additional cuts might be harmful to the system.

Brought on Compromise

A motion to accept the association's proposal was defeated, but it apparently paved the way for the compromise $500,000 reduction. Thomas Thorson, Grand Chute chairman, then took the ball, indicating he felt the board could not live with the mayor's recommended cut.

Except for applause for the speakers and an occasional audible sigh, spectators conducted themselves in a fashion conducive to an effective hearing. Buckley gave special thanks for the conduct of the 25 to 30 high school students who came in support of the budget.

An apparent student demonstration never materialized. Two cardboard signs — one criticizing Buckley — were seen leaning against the wall after the hearing, but were not used.

A large portion of the crowd was made up of school administrators and teachers, as well as representatives of the League of Women Voters, the American Association of University Women.

Lower Budget Dismays Board

Spears Says City Schools 'Will Suffer'

Although the fiscal control board cut $500,000 instead of the mayor's recommended $1 million from the Appleton public school budget, disappointed school officials apparently still believe the system will be forced to take a step backwards.

Supt. of Schools William Spears, in a prepared statement, said this morning: "Let there be no doubt, the Appleton schools will suffer."

"It is foolhardy to presume that a $500,000 reduction in the school board's operating budget request will not seriously impair the educational program for 1969," he stated.

Spears, however, said he was grateful that half of Mayor George Buckley's proposed budget cut was reinstated, and noted that fiscal and fiscal board officials must, in the future, "concern ourselves 12 months of the year with our budget and expenses and not concern ourselves for just one month out of the 12."

Other Sources

He urged uniting to find other sources for financing education, adding "this will require leadership."

"Reasonable adults making reasonable assessments of needs can hopefully resolve all problems," he said, calling for an end to the continuing conflict over the school budget.

John Stevens, a board member, suggested Tuesday night was the start of a downhill road. "As an educator, I know that anytime you delete from an educational system that is progressively growing not in buildings but in students, you can have only one direction," he said.

Thoroughly Reviewed

Board member Mrs. Helen Heil said she was disappointed. "I felt that we had so thoroughly reviewed the budget and deleted all we could without affecting the program," she said.

She could not rationalize certain suggestions for not adding teachers next fall, despite anticipated 800 to 1,000 student enrollment gains, she noted.

Less vocal but noticeably disappointed, Charles Buchanan, board president, commented: "I personally do not know where the board's going to find a half a million dollars."

But we will have to, he added.

He indicated the board would

'With a Heavy Heart' Mayor Tells Elderly To Sell Their Homes, Move Into Apartments

His controversial $1 million school budget cut silently but decisively defeated, Mayor George Buckley Tuesday night told Appleton's elderly citizens to sell their homes in an attempt to avoid rising property taxes.

"With a heavy heart," he recommended that they move into apartment buildings.

He promised them he would urge the Appleton Housing Authority to speed its pace in building apartments for the elderly.

Buckley said he made his recommendation "most earnestly."

"I realize full well that these may be homes they worked and struggled for over the years, but in the face of the school budget increase and further tremendous increases which will surely come, the elderly and people on fixed incomes can no longer keep pace," he said.

A motion to put through the mayor's full $1 million cut in the 1969 school budget died before the fiscal control board Tuesday night. The board settled on a compromise $500,000 cut.

Council School Advisory Unit Will Continue

Alderman Denies Charges of Being A Buckley Puppet

After airing charges that the Appleton city council's school advisory committee "has a chip on its shoulder," and has "lost its trust" in the school board, the committee seemed to agree Tuesday that it should continue its own existence.

But the committee tabled for two months the resolution of Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) to disband

Thompson introduced his motion to the city council last week. He said, Tuesday the committee could no longer continue toward its original goals because of its "habitual bickering" with the Appleton Board of Education.

Communication Line

The committee was established to set up a line of communication between the school board and the city council and to advise the council on school matters.

Thompson charged that Ald.

Squad Car Hits Deer; Damaged

About $300 damage was done to an Outagamie County squad car which struck a deer about 6 p.m. Tuesday on State 54, one mile east of Shiocton.

Patrolman Conrad Shadler, 38, 3535 N. Richmond St., said he was eastbound on 54 when the deer jumped in front of the 1968 squad car he was driving. The deer was killed. Damage was to the front of the auto.

Christian Brothers Suggest Fund Drive

XHS Accreditation Cost $200,000

A firm commitment to retain the seven Christian Brothers now teaching in Xavier High School, at least for another school year, has been made by the order's council, which met in Minneapolis Friday.

However, future plans after the 1969-70 school year are indefinite and depend on whether the Winona Province of the order has sufficient personnel to staff Xavier and whether Appleton Catholics respond to the brothers' requirements for creating higher quality education, which may cost about $200,000. This information was released

Convocation Scheduled Friday

WSU-O Sit-In Called Off; Student Demands Are Met

OSHKOSH — At the moment it was scheduled to get underway this morning, a planned sit-in at the Wisconsin State University campus administration offices was called off when university officials agreed to a student convocation.

The convocation, to air grievances against the university, was demanded at a noisy, but orderly protest march and gathering Monday and was revived in a demonstration at a university basketball game Tuesday

Behind the move is a group called the Concerned Students Committee, made up of members of the Students for a Democratic Society, Young Socialist Alliance and Peace Forum. The committee has been supporting demands of Negro students plus some of their own.

The agreement for Friday convocation came at a meeting between the university administration and student body representatives at 8:30 a.m. today.

Steven Humphrey, Whitefish

Bay, student body vice president, made the announcement to about 50 to 75 students who had gathered for the 10:30 sit-in.

"Got What We Wanted"

"It is to our advantage to call off the sit-in," Humphrey said. "We got what we wanted. Let's get wreck it."

The convocation will be held at 8:30 a.m. and again at 10:30 a.m. in the Albee Hall Gymnasium. The gymnasium accommodates about 3,000 and two sessions were set to allow more students to be present.

Humphrey said university president Roger E. Guiles would be present along with other members of the administration. He added that details on how the forum would be handled are to be worked out today and Thursday.

Guiles declined to make any comments on the meeting and said any information would have to come from the university's information office.

Express Doubt

However, some of the student leaders expressed doubts whether the convocation would accomplish what they wanted.

Students had sought the convocation to create "meaningful dialogue regarding our present problems" and to "reduce tensions in the entire university community."

Some of the students demanded that Eugene McPhee, director of the state university system, also be present since the State University Board of Regents has taken over jurisdiction in the cases of the suspended WSU-O black students.

Capital Fund

The requirements for improving the educational quality at Xavier, the brothers feel, basically include the need for immediate accreditation with the North Central Association, which they say, could be accomplished through a $200,000 capital fund drive.

The request to conduct such a drive has been made in a letter to the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay. In it, Brother Ostendorf states that the Parents' Club of Xavier has consented to conduct the drive.

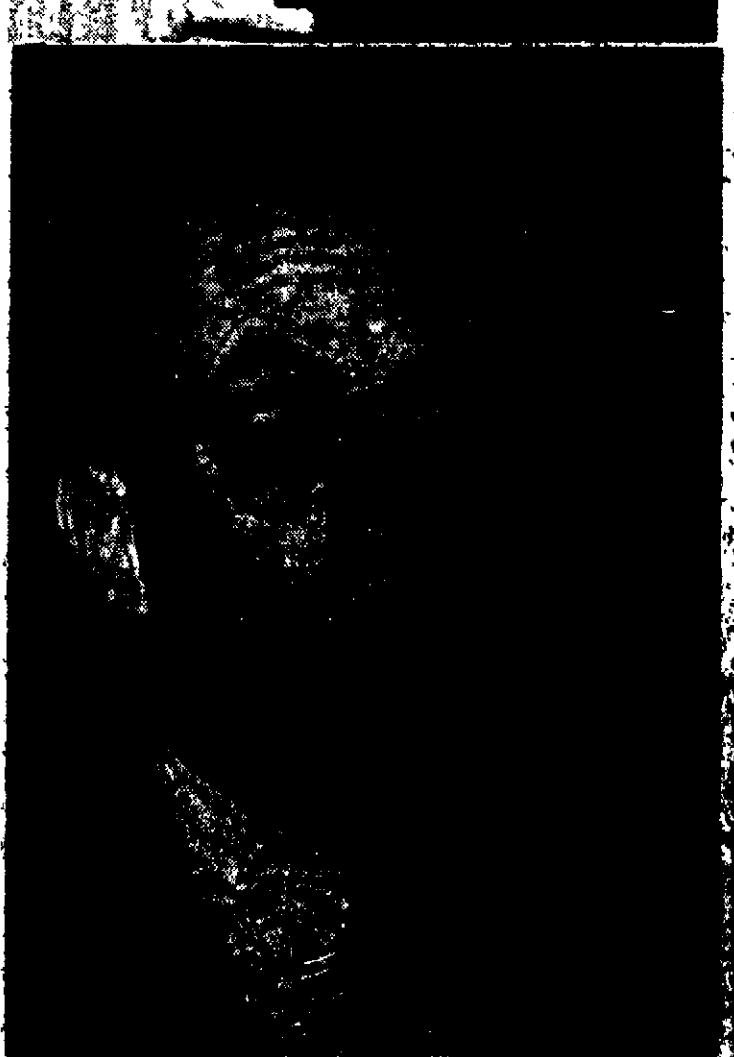

Basically, in order to get accreditation, the school would need to improve its library facilities and add team-teaching areas.

"Improvements would include a furnished art room, a library, large group learning and study areas, flexible seating in classrooms, sufficient activity and storage area for physical education and rooms equipped for audio-visual presentation," the letter to the bishop states.

"We believe that accreditation is necessary at this time when

County Road Employee Pact Is Rejected

Outagamie Board Nixes Overtime Arrangement

A proposed labor agreement with Outagamie County highway department employees was rejected Tuesday by the county board, and its personnel committee was instructed to continue negotiations.

Rejection by a 40-2 vote was over an overtime pay provision which had been ratified by members of Local 455 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union, AFL-CIO, which represents the approximately 100 highway workers.

Only County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, and Vice Chairman Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, who are two of the three members of the personnel bargaining unit, voted against sending the contract back for further negotiations.

Labor Pacts

Two other labor contracts with the Courthouse and Sheriff and Traffic Employees Association, and the County Hospital Employees Union, were approved.

Supv. Ervin Conradt, Shiocton, chairman of the highway committee, said adoption of the overtime clause would be a "catastrophe to the county."

The overtime provision would call for time-and-a-half pay for any hours worked prior to 7:30 a.m., the normal starting time.

This mainly would affect winter operations when crews are called out early in the morning for plowing and sanding operations.

Highway employees work a nine-hour day with a guaranteed 45-hour week the year around. Overtime is paid in excess of the nine hours or in excess of 45 hours.

'Didn't Listen'

Conradt said the highway committee had met with the personnel committee prior to the start of negotiations and warned them not to agree to the proposal, "but they didn't listen."

Babbitt contended the highway department had brought the problem on itself. He said the employees objected to being called out at 3 a.m. and then being sent home after nine hours to avoid paying them overtime. "The men aren't that anxious to earn overtime," he said. "They just don't want to be called out unnecessarily."

The board vice chairman also contended the cost to the county would be minimal. He estimated, based on past county experience, the total overtime cost would not exceed about $23,000 over a winter.

Besides, he said, the state would be paying about half of that cost since the state highways are the first to be plowed.

Conradt disputed this. He said the county's agreement with the state is for only 19 men to work on state roads, or only one-fifth of the highway force.

Town supervisors contended the overtime provision would force the towns to buy their own plowing equipment.

Supv. George Kroes, Town of Vandenberg, said, "if this passes, the town will hire its own plow and crews."

Several town supervisors contended this would result in the laying off of county employees and reducing the county department's efficiency when a severe snow emergency arose.

Supv. Theodore Kemps, Kimberly, noted that while the overtime may be expensive, "having blocked roads is expensive, too."

Appleton Supv. Jerome Hiler and Kaukauna Supv. Russell DeLaHunt suggested the personnel committee offer several alternatives to the union in lieu of the overtime provision and felt an agreement could be reached.

$3 Tax Rate Drop Sought In Menasha

MENASHA — Can the city's proposed tax rate be slashed by $3 per $1,000 assessed valuation?

One alderman demonstrated Tuesday night how he thought it could be done in a single stroke — but then admitted he didn't know whether the law would approve his method.

Otherwise, the meeting of the three-member finance committee and six other aldermen proved frustrating.

A relatively tiny $17,070 was cut from street department spending. The sum represents only about 30 cents on the tax rate, which shows an upward leap of $18.85, to a proposed level of $61.57 on each $1,000 worth of property at assessed value.

And street committee aldermen revealed the hopes they had held last week for cutting $50,000 in spending and reducing the tax rate nearly $1 had been dashed by their learning they had been misled by the mys-

Plans Ready for Port Terminal Offer New Contract to Winnebago Employees

Winnebago, Airline Officials Schedule Final Examination

OSHKOSH — A final review of architect's plans for the proposed airport terminal building for Winnebago County Airport will be made next Tuesday by airlines officials, the airport manager, the airport engineer and county officials.

Joseph Looper, architect, for Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, Milwaukee, said today that he will be here next week to go over the final plans before they are presented formally to the aviation committee, the governing board of the Winnebago County Airport.

Two-Story

"These are a revision of the proposed plans made in 1966 for a one level terminal building, to include two levels," he explained. In September, Looper was instructed by the aviation committee to prepare preliminary sketches for a two-story terminal building, estimated at that time to cost $15 million.

"I hope that we can get approval in committee and take the plans to the county board of supervisors at their Jan. 21 meeting," Looper added. "If approved, construction could start late in 1969 and we are estimating one and one half years for construction time."

Second-Level Loading

"I have every reason to believe that North Central Airlines will be ready for second level loading by 1971, or early 1972 at the latest," Looper said. The preliminary sketches will contain five holding areas with access to the first floor lobby of the proposed terminal, ticket office, waiting room, an enclosed concourse, and a refreshment center.

On the second floor level, loading gates have been planned for second level loading onto jet aircraft, a lounge-restaurant, offices and an observation deck.

Pure Jet

In the latest planning session for a terminal building, Kenneth Hubertus, North Central Airlines, Chicago, told the aviation committee that his firm expects to have a pure jet operation, including the Winnebago County Airport, by 1975.

Looper believes that this date could accurately be advanced from one to three years.

"The development of supplemental planes like the Stoll, capable of short takeoff and landings, will be of tremendous advantage to large municipal ports like New York, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles," Looper explained.

"It also means insurance for airports like Winnebago with its heavy traffic to Chicago that the fields we are building and developing now will not break down under heavier traffic demands."

"More air passengers going to Chicago or Detroit by 1975 could, conceivably be handled on the Stoll type plane service without extending runways, changing the pattern of the airport," he concluded.

series of municipal accounting. The developments came as aldermen took their first view of the complete proposed 1969 city budget in detail. They have worked previously with pieces, and the budget published officially Saturday was only a summary.

OSHKOSH — Employees at the Winnebago County courthouse completed their first wage negotiations with the county and a new 1969 contract will be presented Tuesday to the board of supervisors for approval.

Last year the Winnebago County Courthouse Employees Association, which is not affiliated with any union organization, contracted its first working agreement for 55 employees with the county.

It carried a base pay range for 1968 from $255 per month to $450 per month, with a five-step salary improvement schedule, a grievance procedure, terms of employment and dismissal, and health insurance and retirement plans.

Mum on Terms

Matt Nebl, president of the association, would not disclose the terms of the new contract today.

Gerald Engeldinger, corporation counsel, who has negotiated all the county's salary and working conditions agreements with employees of the airport, highway commission, institutions and courthouse, refused to say anything about the association's contract, or the status of any other contracts.

Annual pay raises of from $400 to $800 were approved this morning for five elected Outagamie County officials.

Without dissent from county supervisors, the salaries of the treasurer, register of deeds, and clerk of courts were hiked from the present $8,400 to $9,200. The county clerk's salary was raised $400, to $9,200, and the annual pay for the sheriff was hiked from $9,000 to $9,600.

Appleton Supervisor Arthur Hoolihan, who assumes office as county clerk next month, abstained from voting.

Also approved this morning were $420 and $575 raises for two county nurses.

Traffic Signals for Neenah Come Cheap

NEENAH — The public protection committee Tuesday night learned that traffic controls on Columbian Street intersections with Church and Oak streets will cost about 60 per cent of what had originally been anticipated.

Public Works Director Wayne Bryan explained that the quotation had come in for $8,564 for all the controls. "If you added another $8,500 for installation it comes to about $18,000 or $12,000 less than we had budgeted," he said.

The signals are needed to put the second stage of the interim one-way system into effect. The city council has indicated that it would go along with two-way traffic on Church and Walnut Streets as soon as the signals could be installed.

Mayer Donald Hessler was defeated in two tries to get the change into effect to help out the downtown businessmen during the Christmas rush season. He had argued that a policeman at the two intersections could do just as much as an automatic traffic signal, but the council was reluctant to change the system until signals could be installed.

The committee gave Bryan the authorization to go ahead with ordering the signals.

Bryan explained that he had contacted the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., and received permission to install lane control signals on its poles. The signs are needed to further implement the one-way system now in effect.

Rockefeller Wanted an Offer, But His Phone Never Rang

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller had hoped for a post in Richard M. Nixon's Cabinet, but no direct job offer ever was made, in-fact sources reported today.

"The governor dropped a lot of hints that he was available, but he was too proud to ask," one such source said. "Nixon simply did not want to take the hints."

At one point, during a face-to-face talk between the two erstwhile rivals for the Republican presidential nomination, Nixon made what one source described as "a passing reference" to the United Nations ambassadorship.

But, the source said, this came at a point when they had agreed that Rockefeller could give the strongest support to the new GOP administration by continuing to serve as governor of New York. Therefore Rockefeller did not regard this as a job offer.

As Nixon prepares to announce his Cabinet selections, the public postures of the two men regarding Rockefeller's omission from the list have been carefully set.

Rockefeller has said and will say that he really believes he can be of maximum public service by staying on as governor. Nixon will say that he would have been delighted to have Rockefeller's services but deferred to his wishes.

Behind the facade of these comments, however, a different story unfolded in the weeks succeeding Nixon's election.

Would See No One

Authentic sources say this is what happened:

On election night, Rockefeller went to Nixon's headquarters at New York's Waldorf Astoria hotel to congratulate him on his impending victory and was told that Nixon was resting and would see no one. The governor left in a negative mood.

The next morning, however, Nixon telephoned Rockefeller and thanked him warmly for his campaign support. There was no mention of a Cabinet post.

During the next few days, in response to newsmen's questions, Rockefeller allowed that he would give "serious consideration" to a Cabinet offer. But he took pains to emphasize that he was not seeking a job.

In various ensuing comments, Rockefeller indicated he would be interested in serving either as secretary of defense, secretary of state or—as a distant third choice—U.N. ambassador.

Waits for Reaction

Rockefeller then sat back for a while to see if there was any reaction from the Nixon camp. There was none immediately.

As the days stretched into weeks, Rockefeller began to get the feeling that his telephone never was going to ring. "Dick might not want a strong-minded person like me,"

Rockefeller then began to protect himself against a snub by saying publicly that he liked being governor and was inclined to continue in that capacity.

Still not word from Nixon.

Late in November, however, John N. Mitchell, who had been Nixon's campaign manager, telephoned George L. Hinman, New York's GOP national committee chairman and Rockefeller's closest political adviser. Mitchell asked what was all the talk from Rockefeller about staying on as governor.

Hinman said Mitchell and Nixon should not put too much weight on those remarks but should bear in mind that Rockefeller had said he would consider a Cabinet offer.

Arranges Conference

A few days later, on the morning of Nov. 26, Nixon arranged to confer with Rockefeller at the apartment house in which they both live, on New York's Fifth Avenue. Their conversation touched heavily on urban affairs, and Rockefeller—sensing no job offer was forthcoming—said he believed he could serve best as governor.

Nixon accepted the statement. As the conversation drew toward a close, Nixon made an oblique reference to the possibility of Rockefeller serving as U.N. ambassador, but the matter already had been settled.

Sources close to Rockefeller said that the governor was accepting the turn of events philosophically but that the episode obviously had not improved the already strained relationship between the two GOP leaders.

Inspections of Mines To be Boosted 5-Fold

WASHINGTON (AP) — As an aftermath of the West Virginia coal mine disaster, the federal government is ordering its inspectors to increase five-fold the number of spot inspections and to scrap a rule that could tip off mines to pending checks.

In addition, the Bureau of Mines new director, John F. O'Leary, said he was setting up machinery so miners fearful a mine is unsafe may secretly request an inspection.

On Thursday—less than a month after 78 miners were entombed by explosions at the Farmington, W. Va., mine—some 200 representatives of industry, labor, government and the public are to meet in Washington for a coal mine safety conference.

Set Standards

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall is expected to disclose a proposed administration coal bill that would give the Bureau of Mines authority to set safety standards for Coal Mines.

Udall also is expected to acknowledge that the government has not done all it could under existing law to prevent such disasters.

Some miners complained to newsmen as well as to the bureau that coal mines seem to know when an inspector, state or federal, plans to visit.

One man, who identified himself as a miner with 34 years experience, said in a letter to Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., the foremen were always told the day before "to get everything fixed up . . . So they have the men go around and throw a little rock dust over the coal dust, set a few extra timbers, get the electric cables off the bottom and fix everything in general until the inspector leaves."

"And then they forget about safety until next inspection," Hechler declined to reveal the miner's name.

Bureau of Mine officials noted ambiguous instructions covering advance notice in the inspectors' manual. While the manual forbids giving a mine notice of an inspection, it goes on to say a telephone call the day before to see if the mine will be open will not be considered advance notice.

O'Leary said from now on the emphasis would be on surprise. "I am issuing instructions now that under no circumstances will there be notification to the union or to management of a pending inspection."

"Secondly, these inspections have tended to take on a regularity. I am instructing the men in the field to make them irregular."

"Third, we have done very little random or spot inspections—perhaps 175 such inspections last year. I am instructing the field to raise that to an annual level of 1,000."

As an aftermath of the Farmington mine disaster.

O'Leary, 42, a career man who took over as Bureau of Mines director only a month before November's mine disaster.

He said in an interview he didn't think the bureau had the proper enforcement authority over coal mines.

"And then they forget about safety until next inspection," Hechler declined to reveal the miner's name.

Bureau of Mine officials noted ambiguous instructions covering advance notice in the inspectors' manual. While the manual forbids giving a mine notice of an inspection, it goes on to say a telephone call the day before to see if the mine will be open will not be considered advance notice.

O'Leary said from now on the emphasis would be on surprise. "I am issuing instructions now that under no circumstances will there be notification to the union or to management of a pending inspection."

"Secondly, these inspections have tended to take on a regularity. I am instructing the men in the field to make them irregular."

"Third, we have done very little random or spot inspections—perhaps 175 such inspections last year. I am instructing the field to raise that to an annual level of 1,000."

Dog Gets Boss in a Fix

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — When Postmaster C.P. "Rinky" Geiger allowed Duke—Brevard County's pot-sniffing pooch—to sample the aroma of a pile of suspicious Christmas packages, he touched off a controversy that shouldn't happen to a dog.

"That dog violated the sanctity of the seal," declared Postal Inspector J.A. Callahan, who said sniffing first class mail is strictly taboo.

Callahan, Geiger's boss in Atlanta, said Tuesday an investigation was under way into the incident which he said violated the policy of the post office to keep unauthorized people out of the inner sanctum of the mail room.

Geiger, meanwhile, wasn't talking.

However, Brevard Sheriff Leigh Wilson had plenty to say.

"When a dog can do your job better than you can," said the sheriff, "that's something to be concerned about."

Wilson admittedly was irked by the adverse reaction of postal officials to the visit by narcotic agents and Duke, pride of the Narcotics Division.

"They asked us to come over and look around and we did," Wilson said. "If they don't want us to come again that's fine with me."

Marijuana Tip

However, in Atlanta, Callahan said he understood that Wilson's agents—tipped that the shipment of marijuana was being sent to Cocoa Beach—had approached Geiger with the suggestion that Duke look around in the mailroom.

At any rate, Duke put his talented nose to work and found three packages which the narcotics agents noted and allowed to continue their way, unopened.

Callahan said that authorities cannot use evidence gleaned in such a matter because the "sanctity of the seal" has been broken in the mail room.

"Duke has made numerous arrests and was instrumental in breaking up a $20,000 drop," said Wilson. Duke had qualified in court as a witness to identify a defendant in a narcotics case, Wilson said.

Lt. Edgar Brannon, the dog's handler, said Duke has never "become high" on narcotics in the course of his sniffing but admitted it is because he is there to keep him away from the drugs.

"If he had a chance he'd eat up the stuff in a minute," said Brannon who added he has yet to lose a case for lack of evidence.

Anniversary 2 Days Late For Robbs

Lynda Arrives in Bangkok for Visit With Her Husband

BANGKOK (AP) — President Johnson's older daughter and her Marine husband from Vietnam were reunited in Bangkok today, two days after their first wedding anniversary. But judging from Lynda Bird Robb's radiant face, she didn't mind the delay too much.

Maj. Charles Robb flew to Bangkok from Vietnam where he served six months as a rifle company commander and now is assigned to a headquarters in Da Nang.

U.S. Secret Service men escorted Lynda to Bangkok's airport to meet the husband she hadn't seen in eight months.

Lynda was wearing a reddish orange dress and sunglasses. Robb, dressed in a light blue uniform, was pale and appeared tired.

Sato Wants Okinawa; U.S. Bases Can Stay

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said today his government will press for the return of Okinawa from the United States but indicated he will try to work out mutually satisfactory arrangements for the American bases there to remain.

Sato is expected to confer with Nixon in Washington next fall on the return of Okinawa and other Ryukyu islands.

leftist chief executive of Okinawa and the Ryukyu island chain, told the Tokyo foreign correspondents' club "the time is ripening" for the return of Okinawa.

Sato is expected to confer with Nixon in Washington next fall on the return of Okinawa and other Ryukyu islands.

"I will continue to make every possible effort for the early return of Okinawa on the basis of mutual trust with the United States and with due cognizance of security requirements," he told a special session of the Diet, Japan's parliament.

It was Sato's first major policy address since his re-election. Okinawa is a major staging area for Vietnam-bound troops and supplies and even before the war was one of America's chief bases in the Far East. Japan's powerful left-wing groups want to eliminate the bases, but it is generally understood that Sato wants them maintained on the same terms as the U.S. bases in Japan—without nuclear weapons and with Japan having a voice in their operation.

Underlining his government's pro-Western stance, Sato said he would "continue to maintain friendly relations with the United States" under the Nixon administration "and cooperate with her in pursuing the common goal of world peace and stability in Asia."

A few hours after Sato's speech, Chogyo Yara, the new

Biafra Barkers Guilty in Plot

LONDON (AP) — Two Biafran Black Power supporters were found guilty Tuesday of threatening to kill police officers at Hyde Park speakers' corner and inciting other colored people to violence.

They were Benedict Obi Egbuna, 32, writer, and Peter Martin, 22, artist. Egbuna was sentenced to 12 months in jail, suspended for three years

Uniform State Open Housing Law Advised

Committee on Race Report Wants All Exemptions Erased

MADISON (AP)—Mandatory open housing on a uniform basis throughout Wisconsin was advocated Monday by the state's advisory committee on the Kerner Report.

The committee approved a report on housing and another report on consumer protection, both of which will be part of a large package of recommendations it will send to the legislature in January.

The committee was created to analyze racial problems in Wisconsin as a follow-up to the national report from a committee headed by former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

Current Exemptions
On housing, the basic recommendations call for removal of all exemptions from the state open housing law.

State law does not apply to owner-occupied and single-family homes with owners renting no more than four single rooms, and owner-occupied apartments with four or less units.

"While it is often asserted that laws will not change attitudes," the committee said, "federal, state and local open housing laws are a step forward in the elimination of discrimination in housing."

Encourage Industry
The committee also recommended the state provide "below-market interest rate programs" to encourage private industry to build in under-

Two Building Sites School Board Wants Land for Expansion

The Appleton Board of Education reaffirmed its request Monday night for land in northeast Appleton for a future third high school and elementary school.

The board supported recommendations by the school administration and the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) to use the Langdyke property, located east of Ballard Road between U.S. 41 and Northland Avenue.

A COG study sometime ago included the Langdyke property for a combination schools-park site, and this fall, Arno Haering, COG director of regional planning, sought a board of education indication whether it still preferred the site.

Enrollment Cited
In a letter to the board, Spears said if present enrollment trends continue, "a three-year senior high school may be needed in this area by the 1975-76 school year and not later than 1976-77."

He reminded the board the Appleton East site was purchased in 1957 although construction began in 1965.

Haering had indicated land west of the proposed North-South Expressway and east of Ballard Road will be recommended for rezoning as an industrial park. But an adjacent stretch is recommended for privileged neighborhoods. In its consumer protection report, the committee said limits should be placed on wage garnishment, and no wage garnishment should be made before a court judgment is handed down. Garnishment is used by creditors to attach wages and cover unpaid bills.

The committee will hold a final meeting and place priorities on its recommendations. No date has been set.

Nudity No Longer California Crime

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—The young woman emerges on the stage dressed in a floor-length evening gown. By the time four or five records pass through the tavern's juke box she is nude. She then dances to a rock 'n' roll tune.

Topless dancing shows in this area have been followed by nude dancers and law enforcement officials blame recent decisions by the U.S. and California Supreme Courts.

Dea A. Turner, assistant district attorney, said Wednesday that conviction for simple nudity is out of the question now anywhere in California.

Turner feels that while nude entertainment without "lewd movements" may remain for the present "I don't think we will have to wait long before these dancers will become suggestive enough to give us a case for prosecution."

State JCs Join Kaukauna Cystic Fibrosis Campaign

KAUKAUNA — The state Jaycees voted Friday to adopt a Kaukauna Jaycee resolution making it a state Jaycee project to attempt to raise $125,000 in three years for research into cystic fibrosis.

Each Jaycee chapter in the state will adopt its own program to raise funds for the cystic fibrosis foundation. The Kaukauna unit agreed to accept responsibility for setting up the statewide program for the next three years.

Plans call for the Jaycees to consider becoming a part of the project at the May convention of that organization.

Richard Berkers, Roger Noonan, Melvin Steffens, Joseph

Trembl and Ron Buck will head the Kaukauna committee with Dr. Simon Cherkasky to serve as medical adviser.

Promotion, Publicity
The group is planning a series of meetings to plan publicity and promotional campaigns which will be made available to other chapters in their drives.

Cystic fibrosis is primarily a disease that affects infants, children and young adults. At present there is no known way to detect the disease and no cure, but it is hoped the disease may eventually be brought under control through research.

The Kaukauna resolution was made at the state Jaycee convention at Wauwatosa, Friday, and received strong support from the majority of delegates.

12½ Per Cent Wage Boost Is Requested

New City Hall Employees Union Presents Demands

The newly-organized City Hall Employees Union has asked for a 12½ per cent wage increase, plus a package of increased fringe benefits, for 1969.

The AFL-CIO unit, organized in October, asks a 40 cent per hour increase for city hall clerical employees in lieu of the percentage increase.

The demands were presented to Jerome Rusch, city personnel director, this week and will be negotiated in the coming week. The bargaining unit covers 39 city hall workers, including all but elected officials, department heads, supervisors and three confidential clerical workers.

Car Allowance
A $75 per month car allowance has been requested for workers who use their autos in the course of employment. The city also is being asked to contribute the employees' full payments to the retirement fund, and 95 per cent of the payments to the hospitalization plan.

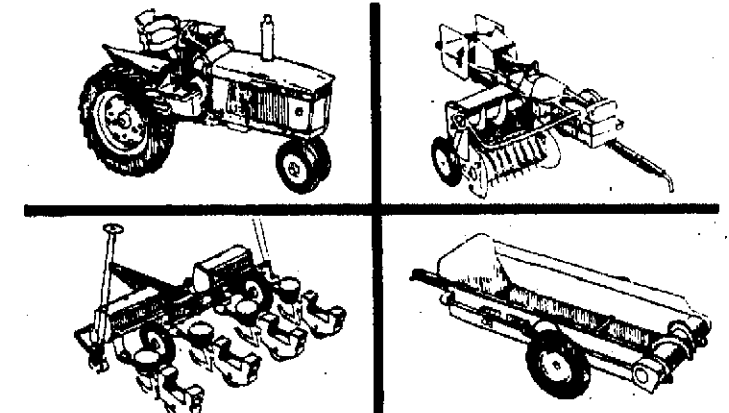

Amendments liberalizing the vacation schedule, increasing longevity pay increases and granting additional sick leave also are proposed, along with two additional "floating" holidays.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — Is a gift of food or clothing to a charity deductible? I gave some things to some Boy Scouts when they came through

A — No. Each employer is required to withhold Social Security taxes on the first $7,000 of income paid each employee during 1968.

If more than $7,000 is withheld from your wages for Social Security in 1968 because you worked for two or more employers, the excess should be taken as a tax credit on your 1968 income tax return.

Q — I'm a full-time student and don't expect to have a paying job anytime before the end of the year. Can I file my tax return now to get back the money withheld from my pay-stop them from taking Social Security tax out of my pay since my regular job gives me full coverage?

A — No. An income tax return cannot be filed until the end of the tax year. Even though you may not work or receive income during the rest of the year, a tax return is required to be filed on the basis of a full tax year.

Q — My income is quite a bit higher than I expected it to be this year. Is it late to file an estimated tax return?

A — No. If your situation changes after Sept. 1 you should file declaration of estimated tax and make the required payment by Jan. 15. To obtain a copy of an estimated tax declaration, send a post card to your District Director and ask for Form 1040ES, Declaration of Estimated Tax for Individuals. However, if you file your 1968 return and pay in full the balance of tax due by Jan. 31, 1969, you need not file the required declaration or make the Jan. 15 payment.

Q — Does IRS have the legal right to seize somebody's property or bank account for unpaid taxes?

A — Yes. Federal tax law provides several actions that IRS can take to protect the government revenue when a taxpayer refuses to satisfy his obligations voluntarily.

Before enforcement action is taken, a person who owes taxes is given ample opportunity to voluntarily pay his tax liability. A taxpayer is sent several written notices and invited to visit IRS offices to discuss the matter. If in response to any one of these notices the taxpayer cooperates, no enforcement action is taken. Only when all attempts to gain the taxpayer's cooperation in regard to the settlement of his tax liability have failed, does IRS initiate levy action to enforce the law.

Q — I'm having calendars printed up this year and plan to give them to my customers. Is this a deductible business expense?

A — Yes, however, the law limits the amount you may deduct as business gifts to a total of $25 for any one individual during the tax year. For the purposes of this provision, the customer and his spouse are generally considered one individual.

That means you can't give a $25 gift to a customer and a $25 gift to his wife and be able to deduct them both as a business expense.

Gifts which cost $4 or less are not subject to this $25 rule if your name is clearly and permanently imprinted on them and they are distributed in quantity.

Safety Post Given Preliminary Okay

Committee to Evaluate County Road Project Director Position

Preliminary approval was given Tuesday by the Outagamie County Board to the creation of the post of county highway safety coordinator and project director.

Supervisors, after considerable discussion and disagreement, voted 37-7 to direct the board's personnel committee to evaluate the coordinator-project director position and write a job description and submit it, along with a recommendation, at the January board meeting.

Supervisors at that time also will be told of funds that will be available to operate the full-time office which, according to provisions of the resolution, will be manned by Sgt. Stanley Arnold, presently a shift supervisor in the traffic bureau of the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department.

Leave Vacancy

Arnold said he will continue to be a uniformed officer but will be assigned to work through the county highway department. He no longer would act as a shift supervisor in the sheriff's department. A new sergeant, without would have to be named in the department, and another man would have to be hired to fill the vacancy Arnold would leave.

Strongest opposition to the creation of the new office came from Appleton Supervisor Eugene Kloes, head of the board's law enforcement committee who said the county could hire safety men "until hell freezes over and you won't stop accidents." Kloes, who had support from another member of his committee, Appleton Supervisor Ralph Schwartz, contended that the real accident problem lies in "the outmoded and dangerous highways." Kloes made specific reference to U. S. 45 and State 47, which he said are too narrow and have too many bad curves.

Schwartz was critical of the fact that the resolution passed today contained no figures on the cost of operating the office. "We're signing a blank check," he explained.

Another Cost

Kloes held that the highway safety work could be handled by Arnold or others through the sheriff's department, without creating the new, full-time position.

tion. "We already have the structure to do the job," Kloes said.

Saying that the new office would cost $10,000 a year to operate, Kloes remarked, "It's another cost we do not need to impose on the taxpayers."

Board Chairman Sylvester Eiler said he understands Arnold would get no raise in salary if he gets the job next month.

Clarence Brownson, county highway commissioner, said the county could receive matching state funds for the new office. Calling the new post "very necessary," Brownson said the man needed for the job must have knowledge of road maintenance and construction along with traffic work.

Arnold explained the nature of the proposed job and the plans he has to put the office into operation.

Blind, Invalids Saved From Fire in Home

By Atlanta Firemen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Atlanta policemen and firemen rescued about 30 persons, including blind and invalids late Tuesday when their three-story rooming house burned.

Police said three residents were trapped on the building's top floor until firemen wearing gas masks came to their aid. The three were treated for smoke inhalation and minor burns.

The other residents were taken to an Atlanta hospital then moved to Salvation Army quarters for the night. Lt. R. E. Nickerson said four of the rescued were blind, three were invalids unable to walk and one was in a wheelchair.

Governor Asks Clarification on Educational TV

Withholds Financial Support; Postpones Program Two Years

MADISON (AP)—Requests for subsidy of an educational television network will need clarification before he could fully support it, Gov. Warren P. Knowles said Tuesday.

The governor told the Educational Communications Board he can endorse only $919,000 of the $8.4 million requested for construction of six TV stations in the next two years.

Donald R. McNeil, the University of Wisconsin extension chancellor, said the governor's response means "we are postponing for two years the development of educational radio and television."

Stephen T. Boyle, Knowles' press secretary and a member of the board, said the board "has emphasized construction without development of a program approach."

Prepare Reply

Board officials said that, as a result of Knowles' statement, written by Boyle, a special meeting was being scheduled for Monday to prepare a reply.

Lee Franks, administrator of the Educational Communications Division, said Knowles' statement appears to have come "from a preconceived notion rather than what we've been talking about."

Knowles got support from Ben Laird of Green Bay, a board member.

Laird said the governor has the right to cut budget requests.

He said a recent study by a private group that has been producing educational TV shows was critical of a report prepared by the board concerning network operations.

Role too Great

The group is NEWIST, Northwestern Wisconsin In-School Television, which televises an hour and one-half of classroom programming five days a week over Station WLUK-TV in Green Bay. Schools having a total enrollment of 82,000 pupils are signed up for the service.

The report from NEWIST was critical of the proposed programming for the state network because too a great a role would be played by WHA-TV, the University of Wisconsin station, and The Milwaukee Technical College's WMVS-TV, years, is still struggling to NEWIST said it believed its interest the Madison public programming had been success-

Fox Valley Educators to Serve WEA

Several Fox Valley educators are among those from 78 Wisconsin school units named recently to Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) committees by President Jerome Strupp, Fond du Lac.

The 136 appointees represent all levels of public school education. The committees will guide the direction of the 42,000-member organization.

"The association is fortunate to have within its membership people from all levels of the profession," commented Strupp, in making the appointments.

In Appleton, Kenneth Johnston was named chairman of the council on education committee; Keith D. Kohlman, locals, and Sherwood C. Russell, welfare.

Others named to committees were Prudence Bowers, Clintonville, constitution; Robert Thom, Neenah, political action; Thomas T. Evans, Oshkosh, locals, and from Fond du Lac, Betty Benzie, chairman of public relations; Betty Johnson, curriculum and instruction; Neil Kornblin, locals; Ludwig A. Peterson, council on education; Mrs. Viola Sheppard, international relations; Gale Zimmerman, welfare, and Strupp, executive and council on education.

Sherwood Post Office Plans Yuletide Hours

SHERWOOD — Starting next week and continuing through the Christmas mailing period the post office here will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and Saturdays Dec. 14 and 21 from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. including noon hours, according to postmaster Florian Schmidt.

Gasoline Drained From Construction Machines

The Outagamie County Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of 40 to 50 gallons of gasoline from Gabes Construction Co. equipment parked along French Road, north of Appleton. The fuel was drained from two trucks and an air compressor.

ful because the schools which paid for the service controlled the format of the programming. The grass roots approach is believed better than domination would be played by WHA-TV, the University of Wisconsin station, and The Milwaukee Technical College's WMVS-TV, years, is still struggling to NEWIST said it believed its interest the Madison public programming had been success-

Threat to Wildlife

Pesticide Effect Cited In Lake Michigan Fish

MADISON (AP) — Twice as much pesticide can be found in Lake Michigan fish than in ocean specimens, a California scientist said Tuesday during a series of hearings on DDT pollution.

Robert Reisbort of the University of California's marine resources institute said only the lower Mississippi River appears to have an insecticide pollution threat to wildlife greater than that of the lake.

Joseph J. Hickey, a University of Wisconsin wildlife biologist, said Lake Michigan, "despite its size, is one of the most polluted DDE lakes in the world."

DDE is a metabolite of DDT, a result of materials being altered in living creatures.

Reisbort and Hickey are among several scientists who have testified at the hearings about the impact on wildlife of pesticides washed into lakes from farms and cities.

The hearings stem from requests by conservation groups that Wisconsin's Department of Natural Resources halt further use of DDT whenever it threatens to pollute waters. The request is aimed at agricultural use of pesticides and at municipal use of DDT to control Dutch Elm disease.

Danger to Humans
Reisbort said DDT poisoning in fish is passed on to birds which eat the fish and that, "in people, ingestion of fish containing DDT" can be dangerous.

He said the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not taken enough interest in setting tolerance standards concerning pesticide residue on foods in interstate commerce.

Other DDT foes at the hearings have asked the department to ban DDT use altogether.

The department has said state law allows it to act only if it can be shown that use of a pesticide is a threat to the quality of water in lakes and streams.

8 program which would cost the district $14,312 per year.

School Aids
Board Secretary, Olin Dryer, was instructed to write state legislators to request a revision of the school aids formula which could result in the district receiving an additional $100,000 in state aids, based on present enrollments.

The board adopted a policy, as requested by the federal government, of furnishing free hot lunches to students unable to pay.

A special meeting was called for Dec. 19 to consider an ABC (A Better Chance) program at Kaukauna High School.

Supt. of Schools Julian Bichler was instructed to study the possibility of hiring a full-time remedial reading teacher instead of participating in a CESA

Sick Leaves
Accumulative sick leave of 75 days and payment of 75 per cent of insurance, the same as received by teachers, also was approved.

Pay increases of 6 and 7 per cent were approved for the supervisors of custodians.

Word was received from three Canadian schools expressing interest in a student exchange program. Details are being studied.

Board Despondent About Budget Cuts have to develop a list of possible cuts, probably in the first January meeting. "I can't predict in what areas the board will choose to make the cuts," he said.

However, he surmised there might be elimination of smaller classes and more delays on certain capital equipment expenditures.

"It's going to take a great deal of work and patience and cooperation and energy if this (cut) is not going to result in a lower standard in the public schools," he said.

"We will have to get more for the tax dollar," he added, noting the per pupil cost will be lowered.

Buchanan praised such groups as the Appleton League of Women Voters, the American Association of University Women and the Appleton Taxpayers Association for doing "a very responsible job" in analyzing the school budget.

Admittedly, the property tax has "reached its potential as a source for financing education," he said, but "the solution is not in creating a second problem by neglecting the education of our children."

Other board of education members may have attended part of the hearing but were not available for comment following the fiscal board's action on the school budget.

John Steidl (18th) laid the "last straw" when he brought a tape recorder to a school board meeting. With Steidl's action, he said, the committee "lost all communication and trust."

Steidl said he was "a little bit shocked" that a member of the committee would urge its disbanding.

"I feel we are banging our heads against a brick wall," Steidl said in answer to Thompson's assault. "But if we keep on banging, maybe we are going to penetrate that brick wall."

Prompt Replies

Thompson said he had not found the school board to present a brick wall front to the committee. He said he had always been given information he needed from the school board promptly.

"This committee seems to have a chip on its shoulder," Ald William Wachstendonk (3rd) stated. This tendency, he said, was the "biggest bottleneck" in the committee's own effectiveness.

Steidl refuted charges that he was acting as a puppet of the mayor. Such charges, he said, had been implied in Thompson's resolution.

"I want it made very clear that the mayor and I do not agree on many things," he said. "I do not dance around when the mayor pulls strings."

Town Chairmen Joseph De Bruin, Buchanan, and Roland Kampe, Menasha, threw oil on the waters.

"We are right at the crux of a critical period in education," DeBruin said. "If we give it another year or two, the school board might start to listen."

Kampe said no committee should be expected to work in harmony all the time.

"I hope we can continue operating as we set out to," Thompson finally said. DeBruin moved to postpone action on Thompson's resolution.

Man Collapses and Dies in His Home

Frank W. Kunzman, 73, collapsed and died at his home at 2320 N. Division St., about 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Death was caused by an acute heart attack, according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kampe. Kunzman, a retired laborer at Valley Iron Works, collapsed in his bedroom shortly after supper. His wife called police, who assisted in the investigation. The rescue squad also was called.

The body was released to the Wickham Funeral Home.

Park Vandalized

KAUKAUNA — Wooden shelter doors at LaFollette Park were broken off and an inside electrical meter damaged last weekend, according to a complaint filed with police by Park Sup. Victor Lundin.

LITTLE CHUTE — Police are investigating a complaint of Street Sup. Lambert Logghead, who reported 15 windows broken in the village garage near McKinley Street sometime Sunday.

Spice Names R. G. Bowers Undersheriff

A former Outagamie County traffic patrolman and investigator will serve as undersheriff for Calvin L. Spice, who takes office as sheriff next month.

Spice this morning announced the appointment of Russell G. Bowers, 48, 3166 N. Ballard Road.

Bowers, an Appleton native and lifelong resident of the area, was a patrolman in the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department from 1961 to 1969. After working at Appleton Wire Works, Bowers returned to the sheriff's department as an investigator, under Spice, from 1963 until May 1967.

Since leaving the sheriff's department the second time, Bowers has worked at Treasure Island where he now is a warehouse supervisor. He is a 1939 graduate of Appleton High School. Bowers and his wife have two daughters.

Spice, former two-term sheriff and undersheriff for two years under Norbert Marx, returns as sheriff next month. The Kaukauna Democrat defeated Marx in the November election.

versity, told the group it would be up to the students to invite McPhee if they wanted him there.

Doug Burks, a student from Sydney, Australia, one of the leaders of the militant groups, said he hoped the convocation would be "open" with questions permitted from any student on the floor.

"If it is closed," Burks said, "nothing will be accomplished."

Decide Alternative
Charles Stern, Madison, former president of the WSU-OSDS Chapter, said the SDS would meet tonight to decide what the group would do if Friday's convocation failed to produce any results.

Student protesters were given a chilly reception by basketball fans Tuesday night and marched out of the gymnasium.

About 200 white students marched into the school gymnasium earlier, chanting: "Where is Guiles?" They appeared shortly before the start of an exhibition basketball game between Oshkosh's Titans and Slavia Prague, a touring Czechoslovakian team.

As the demonstrators chanted, a band struck up the Oshkosh fight song. An attempt to resume the chanting was met with jeers from spectators, and protesters left the gymnasium to plan today's demonstration.

Village Man Forfeits Bond After Accident

LITTLE CHUTE — Lester Sanders, 66, 808 Grand Ave., signed a stipulation of guilt and forfeited bond of $20 on a charge of failure to yield right of way.

Sanders was arrested after a Nov. 6 accident at Grand Avenue and Main Street.

Money Theft Reported

KAUKAUNA — The theft of $14.50 from a Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. locker was reported to police by Thomas Hanby, 605 W. Seventh St. The theft occurred between 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 10:30 a.m. Monday, according to Hanby.

Runway Length Unchanged

Upgrading of Airport Lighting Given Okay

Upgrading of the approach lighting system at the Outagamie County Airport was approved without dissent by county supervisors Tuesday as a substitute for increased length of one runway.

In exchange for the upgraded light system, which will cost an estimated $16,000 above the original cost figure for the lights, the county's lease agreement with the Kimberly-Clark Corp. will be altered to remove the words "effective length" in relationship to extension of the northwest-southeast runway.

Supv. Robert Weyenberg, Kimberly, a former member of the airport committee, said "this will save the county taxpayers $600,000."

The original wording of the lease called for the northwest-southeast runway to be extended to an "effective length" of 6,000 feet. With the change, the requirement will be for a total length of 6,000 feet.

The runway is now 5,200 feet long and because of the slope of the land, to get an effective length of 6,000 feet for takeoffs and landings, it was estimated the runway would have to be between 6,800 and 7,000 feet long.

The original approach lighting system called for lights at intervals of 200 feet beyond the southwest end of the northeast-southwest runway. The change calls for higher intensity lights and that the lights be placed at intervals of 100 feet for better visibility during landings in poor weather.

Compromise Plan
The compromise was worked out three weeks ago at a meeting between the airport committee and Kimberly-Clark officials.

Also approved by the board was the transfer agreement for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to take over operation and maintenance of the new instrument landing system (ILS) which was just installed at the airport.

Supv. John Diez, Appleton, chairman of the airport committee, said the FAA was scheduled to start checking the system Tuesday.

After a 30-day test period, the FAA will assume responsibility for the system.

Xavier Needs $200,000 for Accreditation

Catholic education is questioned as not being as good as public education, when qualified schools might obtain state and federal assistance, when all other large Catholic high schools of the diocese have accreditation or will obtain it in the near future," the brother has written.

Final stipulations about the future are expected in a letter from the provincial within one week.

"Of course, there are various problems we feel the city can iron out by itself," said Brother

Ostendorf, explaining that the brothers would like to see greater continuity between the grade and high school programs and that they feel all parishes should support the school and not treat it as a stepchild.

One of the major problems facing Xavier is a $400,000 building debt. Only four of the eight parishes — those which formed Xavier — are responsible for that at this time.

Banana Gingerbread Cutouts

Fancy Cookies and Popcorn Tree

Christmas Is for Families

 Lillian Mackesy POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Gather 'round the kitchen table or workboard by the family and have an afternoon or evening of Christmas cooking. That's part of Christmas... the fun of preparing, creating things together... the sharing of work that becomes a joy when it concerns the holiday season in foods, fancy cookies and candies.

These activities long will be remembered and once done at home when young, they'll become tradition when the young fry grow up and have children of their own. This is how traditions are made; it happens over and over again. Nearly every family has a tradition of togetherness at holiday time without even knowing it.

If cooking, cake decorating or gingerbread building is part of the festivities, use recipes and methods which children can handle. Gingerbread men and gay assorted cake-cookies, for instance, are quickly made by adding mashed ripe bananas to packaged gingerbread mix and baking the batter on a cookie sheet or in a jelly roll pan.

Decorating can be done with a free hand, as whimsy dictates or by careful plan. These cookies not only are simple to prepare, but they are good to eat for every age from babe to granny.

If a party is in the picture, set the scene with mounds of snow white popcorn balls piled into the form of a tree. Serve ruby-pretty punch with gaily decorated cookies. This is a wonderful idea for teen-agers' open houses and the youngsters can make the food themselves with just an assist from someone older if it's needed.

Those delicious candy turtles (shown today in a more mod fashion of space ships) can be ridiculously easy to make. Even the youngest of kindergarten age can help with these. The nuts are placed on a foil covered cookie sheet, two by two for the ships and by fours for turtle legs. Then, packaged here's where the youngest can help... and one caramel placed on each set of legs. Candy caramels are unwrapped. Pop the cookie sheet in the oven at 250 degrees. Be sure to watch so the caramel only melts and does not cook. The temperature may have to be placed at 325 degrees for proper melting.

While the caramel melts, un-wrap foil covered chocolate candy known as kisses, one for each turtle or ship. As soon as the caramel is melted on the nuts, take cookie sheet out of oven. Place on table or counter and quickly place a chocolate kiss on each one. By the time the last chocolate kiss is in place, the chocolate will have melted from the heat of the caramel and the chocolate candy may be flattened or swirled down over the caramel with buttered fork. Let cool thoroughly and that's all there is to making this delicious confection.

A versatile cake which the older youngsters can make and the younger ones decorate in one of several ways is a delicious Apple Molasses Bar. It may be served in squares, each piece decorated as an individual masterpiece, or the whole cake may be prettied up with Christmas trim.

A frosting-shaped tree can have the added glitter of colored sugar... each square may be decorated with a frosting wreath colored green and trimmed with bright candy shot. Golden brown toasted almonds and bright red candied cherry pieces can be used for decorating with a butter cream frosting.

Serve this Merry Christmas Cake at festive parties or when the family entertains. Serve it as a dramatic finish to a holiday meal during the season... or wrap it in aluminum foil trimmed with ribbons and mistletoe and give it away as a treasured homemade gift. Here is the recipe, along with the others pictured.

APPLE MOLASSES BAR
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
¾ cup molasses
2 eggs
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Ideas Worth Sharing for Holidays; These Arrive at Food Editor's Desk

All sorts of ideas have come to the food editor's desk for Christmas sharing and these are some of them. The idea of packing gifts in peanuts in the shell or popped corn is an excellent one, especially if the package is going to grandchildren or favorite nieces and nephews.

Children adore gathering the peanuts and they afford almost as much fun as the gifts themselves. Both make fine cushioning, and it might as well be edible.

Although "home for the holidays" is the aim of travelers the world over, sometimes it is impossible. So bring the flavor of home to relatives and friends who cannot enjoy your Christmas table. Mail them cookies — brownies, drop cookies, bar cookies — all good globetrotters.

But don't package different varieties together. Flavors travel, too — from cookie to cookie. Pack them well and cushion with peanuts in the shell or popcorn.

Stuffing — as everyone knows — is for a bird, be it a chicken, turkey, duck or goose. It's also perishable if made too far in advance. So (says a wise old owl) it's best to prepare stuffing just prior to being spooned into the bird for roasting. Remember, too — after the meal — remove any leftover stuffing from the cavity at once and refrigerate.

For a spirited snack at your holiday party, cut up fruitcake (doesn't everyone wonder what to do with all that fruitcake?) into cubes and soak in a favorite spirit — rum or brandy. Arrange pieces of cake on a fancy platter, with toothpicks for easy eating.

Christmastime means a lot of hustlin' and bustlin' in the kitchen and home-baked bread is often the result. If you prefer deliciously thick crusts on your light 'n' lovely loaves, bake in glass, darkened tin, or dull aluminum pans.

There's more than one way to fill a pie shell, and often the recipe calls for bake now, fill later! To make sure your unfilled shell retains the shape of the pan, and to prevent bubbling, fill the shell with macaroni before baking. The pasta can be saved and reused many times for this purpose.

Here's an easy way to ensure an even crumb crust — spread the crumbs in a pie pan and

New York Setting for Ceremony

NEW YORK, N. Y. — St. Paul Lutheran Evangelical Church was the setting for the Nov. 23 wedding of Mrs. Alice Helen Hartman and Dudley Joseph Dalton Jr. Officiating at the double ring rite was the Rev. Robert Ellingboe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. McNulty, Parkchester, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley J. Dalton, 322 W. 10th St., Kaukauna, are parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Ellen Gloven attended as maid of honor for her cousin, William Dalton, East Moline, Appleton, and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He is employed by the State of Wisconsin, Department of Administration.

The couple will reside in Kaukauna.

Shatzwold Count Clubs And Study The Hearts

It usually pays to bid a two-suit hand aggressively even when your partner has a very weak hand. He may have unusual distributional support for your second suit and thus help you find a good sacrifice. The danger with such bidding is that you may tell an alert opponent too much about your distribution.

West's energetic bidding didn't help him because East had no support for either diamonds or spades. West succeeded only in telling the world at large, and South in particular, that he had two five-card suits.

South cautiously refused the first trick but took the second spade and led a club to dummy's king. West, with 10 cards in spades and diamonds, could have only three cards in clubs and hearts combined; and South wanted to find out safely what West's distribution was in those two suits.

Declarer returned to his hand by leading a heart to the ace. By this time South had discovered that West's three cards in hearts and clubs included one card of each suit. Now the question was whether West had started with one heart and two clubs or with two hearts and one club.

South found out by leading another club toward dummy. If West were out of clubs he could not gain by ruffing because declarer would play low from dummy. The ruff would net the defenders only the club trick they were sure to win anyway.

As it happened, West followed suit to the second round of clubs, and South went right up with dummy's ace. A finesse could not possibly succeed since West had already played as many clubs as he could possibly hold.

West had already used up the three cards he was known to hold in hearts and clubs combined. Declarer led a trump from dummy and finessed with the ten in his hand, confident that the finesse was necessary and that it would succeed.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S-A 6, H-A K Q 10 9 8, D-A 7, C-7 5 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. The hand is not quite worth a forcing opening bid. If you had a seven-card heart suit or an additional king you would open with a forcing two-bid.

Lovelier You

That Impossible Gift

On almost every gift list, there's a question mark after at least one lovely's name. You don't know what to give. She has everything!

But before you join the wit's and group, now growing by the minute, remember that designers are dedicated to dreaming up a new version of "everything." Be on the lookout for it. Just to get you started, these updated classics:

For Miss Teen, a gold mesh Juliet cap encrusted with tiny gold beads. Straight out of the film!

An assortment of knee socks for the pre-teen, plus "hold up"

spray. One swoosh around the leg and hosiery stays up as if by magic. It's water soluble, too, and wipes off in seconds.

A careerist would treasure a bright red slip in a package trimmed with a bright red lipstick. What a combo to wear on dreary days!

Flashing shoe jewels to be clipped on the center or side of evening pumps match up perfectly with belles of the evening.

For the sophisticate, "ankle rings" of silver and gold - six together for wearing with at-home pants.

The perfectionist lovely would dote on a miniature signature scarf to "strap" on her boldest watch.

When all else fails, chains for everybody. Les girls can't have too many!

Angels Created From Ordinary Materials

Tall Christmas angels are made from tapered bottles, aluminum foil, and items found in most kitchen cupboards.

Tall, stately, serene, and the very essence of the Christmas spirit are graceful angels for table, buffet or mantel. They are unusual and can be saved from year to year.

A little time, some aluminum foil, red yarn, foam balls, some scraps of felt, a tall, tapered bottle, a small drinking glass, and a cereal dish are required. Kitchen cupboards will yield most of the required parts.

The decoration was created by Conny, designer for Alcoa Wrap aluminum foil. Conny's design starts with the tapered bottle.

Cover the bottle completely with foil, smoothing the foil against the sides of the bottle. Punch a hole in the foam ball and cover it with foil. Cut eye and mouth shapes from felt and glue to the foil-covered ball. This is the angel head.

Next, glue strands of yarn (Conny uses bright red) to the top of the head to make hair. A piece of foil about six inches long can be crushed into a circle for the halo. This can be pinned to the back of the head.

Place the head on the bottle top, pressing the bottle opening into the hole in the foam ball head.

Place the cereal bowl on top of the glass and cover both with foil. Set the bottle into the bowl. Place a number of real or artificial holly leaves around the base of the bottle for added color.

Candleholders can be regular holders covered with foil, or perhaps small plastic foam balls with bottom sliced off so they will stand. Place thin, dark green candles in the holders.

Three of these angels make an effective Christmas decoration. The colors say "happy holidays" and the foil adds a bright shine to the room.

Emergency Situations

Suppose some idiot asks me to dance and acts crazy on the dance floor? asked the 14-year-old girl.

(Give a high sign to a friend on the stag line, who should understand. You do this with a doe-eyed look, they suggest.)

If a boy you don't know invites you to go out after the dance, what do you do?

(This answer required lots of cogitating. The consensus was that if you've arrived with a group, you go home with it . . . that you shouldn't ever leave a dance with a stranger. And if the boy is really keen about you, he'll telephone you for a date. Above all, don't act too eager, they said.)

Don't Follow Crowd

The older girls also instructed her not to become one of the mob—"Don't do something because others do it." "Don't think the world has come to an end if you don't have a date on Saturday night." "Never appear too anxious for a date but be responsive when asked."

It is easy to get a second date with a boy, they suggest, if you remember to maintain the feminine attitude and be a good listener.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR CHRISTMAS

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 38 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a shimmering action border. A feathered panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such shimmering strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim" is both girdle and panty-waist. It's the peak achievement of the California design team, Olsen. They are available at M. C. Frange Co., and other stores with participating.

Play It Cool—the Old Fashioned Way at Dances, Advise Teens

BY VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK (AP) — First dance fever grips many young people around the holiday season.

What is the right thing to do at a dance? An 18-year-old sister of a 14-year-old and four of her girl friends were heard advising the younger girl on how to get along with boys. Their advice, they say, boils down to this: Avoid conflict, be sincere, treat him like a man! The girls are cool types, although their advice might sound a little old-fashioned.

Should you accept a last minute date to a dance?

(Why not assume you are the first he called, they told her. After all, don't talk yourself out of fun.)

What do you do when you finish a dance with a boy at a school dance?

(You thank him as he returns you to your friends.)

What can you talk about to a strange boy—"I get very nervous," little Sis explained.

(Begin the conversation and let him take over, they advise. For example, "Are you going out for sports?" If his reply is negative, say something like, "Oh, you are the studious type." If he doesn't bite on one of those you aren't going to make much headway.

If he begins to talk, he won't stop, but let's hope that his mother didn't advise HIM to ask the questions, the girls said.)

Dance Etiquette

If he returns with me to my friends, should I introduce him?

(Not obligatory, the girls say, but if he lingers you might say, do you know Joe Smith or whatever his name is.)

What do I do if my partner is such a terrible dancer that I can't bear it?

(You must finish the dance, they advised. If he comments about it, pretend you haven't noticed. The girls advised that this kind of consideration can lead to dates, and he will not be embarrassed to ask you to give him a few private dance lessons.)

They also suggest that as time goes on a girl must cultivate the knack of dislodging herself from a partner

LIVING COLOR, TOO

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 38 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a shimmering action border. A feathered panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such shimmering strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim" is both girdle and panty-waist. It's the peak achievement of the California design team, Olsen. They are available at M. C. Frange Co., and other stores with participating.

Luckily, you're wearing your Sue Wells bonded knit jumper with its enchanting ruffled blouse.

Luckily, too, the jumpers come in turquoise and pink. Maybe you should have one of each. Jumpers of 100% Orlon® acrylic bonded acetate tricot. Blouse of 100% cotton. Both conveniently hand washable. Conveniently low priced. Only 5.99 for jumper and blouse. Girls' sizes 7 to 14.

Susie Wells is in the picture, too, with her bonded knit jumper and ruffy blouse. Same fabrics as Sue's. Susie's jumper comes in pink or green. Little girl sizes 3 to 6x. 4.99 for both jumper and blouse.

Install Officers at Christmas Party

Mr. and Mrs. James Schmit, Cedarburg, were guests of honor at the Saturday Christmas party of Fox River Valley Affiliate K of the Wisconsin Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. Mr. Schmit is state president. The party was at the Kaukauna Elks Club.

Installed as affiliate president for 1969 was Mrs. Kenneth Kostuch, Fond du Lac. Out-going president, Mrs. Merle Anderson, Oshkosh, was presented with a past president's pin.

Other state officers attending were Mrs. Wilma Edminster, New London, first vice president; Mrs. Lillian Lapp, Wisconsin Dells, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Merle Scott, Winneconne, circuit instructor.

Mrs. Thomas Schaffer was chairman of the event, assisted by Mrs. Robert Gertz, Miss Suzanne Roehrborn and Mrs. Don Weigman, all of Kaukauna.

New Finish Makes Linen Easy-Care

This holiday season for the first time, beautiful Irish Linen napery is available that doesn't require time-consuming special care, according to the Irish Linen Guild. Within the past few months, several leading manufacturers of Irish linen tablecloths, placemats and napkins have developed a new finish that makes ironing virtually unnecessary. The result is table linens that emerge from machine washing and drying wrinkle free and table ready.

Most of these new "permanent press" styles are colorfully casual, adding a new dimension to luxurious Irish table linens once synonymous with the formality of damask. While the traditional damask tablecloth is still basic to the elegantly appointed table, it is now possible to assemble a collection of carefree Irish linens suitable for the most informal buffet or family meal. An imaginative hostess can collect a colorful repertoire of napery to "mix and match" in much the same manner as she does her clothes.

Permanent press table linens are in the forefront of the Irish Linen "color explosion." The finish that imparts no-iron characteristics is coupled with a soil release agent that makes stain removal an even simpler matter.

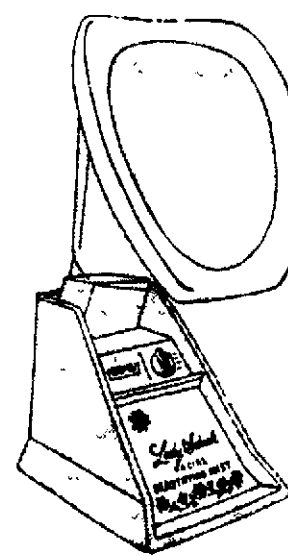

There are just a few pointers to keep in mind when washing these linens. Read the label instructions carefully before you begin. Set your washer at the permanent press or "warm" cycle (120-140 degrees Fahrenheit is recommended). Remove linens from the dryer immediately at the end of the cycle and smooth and fold. A very slight dampness actually helps the cloth resume its characteristic

Christmas Recipes For Family Fun

1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 1/2 cups chopped walnuts
1 cup chopped raisins
1 cup chopped candied cherries
1 cup canned apple sauce
Frosting, candied cherries, nuts, silver shot

Cream together butter, sugar and molasses. Add eggs and beat until light.

Sift together dry ingredients. Add to creamed mixture. Stir in lemon rind, walnuts, raisins, cherries and apple sauce. Mix well.

Divide batter, pour into two greased and floured non-stick coated aluminum 8 X 8 X 2 inch pans. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 35 minutes or until done. Cool in pans on racks.

Decorate with frosting, candied cherries, nuts and silver shot or as desired.

BANANA GINGERBREAD CUTOUTS

1 package gingerbread mix
2 cups mashed ripe bananas (about 6 medium size)

2 tablespoons warm water
Mash bananas with fork on a flat plate (or liquefy in an electric blender). Mix water with mashed banana and blend thoroughly into dry gingerbread mix. Spread evenly onto greased and floured cookie pan (15 1/4 X 10 1/4 X 1 inch).

Bake in 350 degree oven for about 12 to 15 minutes or until inserted cake tester comes out clean and dry. Cool in pan.

Invert onto cake racks until ready to use and then invert back again onto counter top, large board or flat surface.

Use any shape cookie or dough cutter desired. Frost and decorate individual cutouts as desired.

Mashed banana adds a mellow fruity flavor to the spice of the gingerbread and gives keeping properties to the finished product. The gingerbread may be kept several days at room temperature with a loose wrap. Wrapped and stored in the freezer, it will keep indefinitely.

Use cutters with patterns to fit any occasion that calls for fun and festivities. Ice with a prepared ready to spread frosting and decorate with candies, gumdrops, colored sprinkles, silver dragees or piped on frosting of any color. Number of cake like cookies will vary with size of cutters used. These are fun to make and bake, fun to eat.

QUICK CANDIED POPCORN BALLS

1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 quarts white popped corn

Mix corn syrup, sugar and salt in heavy saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and boils two minutes. Gradually pour syrup over popcorn, stirring constantly until evenly coated. Shape into balls, using as little pressure as possible.

POP CORN

1/2 cup corn oil
1/2 cup popcorn salt

Heat corn oil in large (4 quart) heavy skillet or kettle over medium heat about three minutes. Add popcorn; cover, leaving small air space at edge of cover. Shake frequently over medium heat until popping stops. Salt to taste. Recipe makes two quarts.

HOLIDAY COOKIES

3 cups sifted flour
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1 1/2 teaspoons ground ginger

1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup margarine
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Sift flour, sugar, spices and baking powder into mixing bowl. Cut in margarine until mixture resembles fine crumbs. Stir in eggs and extract until smooth dough forms. Chill.

Roll out dough, one-third at a time, to one-eighth-inch thickness on floured board.

Cut into five-inch rounds, using a large cutter. Place on ungreased cookie sheet.

Bake in 375 degree oven until edges are very lightly browned, 10 to 12 minutes. Recipe makes about 18 five-inch cookies. Frost with decorator's frosting, butter cream type.

DECORATOR'S FROSTING

Combine one cup softened margarine with one pound sifted confectioners sugar, beating until smooth. Chill 30 minutes. Mix in desired coloring. Use in decorating tube. If frosting becomes too stiff, blend in a few drops of water. Flowers, leaves etc. can be held for several weeks if covered with plastic wrap and stored in refrigerator or freezer.

HOLIDAY PUNCH

1 quart cranberry juice cocktail
1 1/2 cups orange juice
1 cup light corn syrup
1 cup water

The Post-Crescent C 5
Wednesday, December 11, 1968

1/2 cup lemon juice

SPACE-SHIPS OR TURTLES

1 package (8 1/2 ounces) Milk Chocolate Kisses, unwrapped
1-package (14 ounces) vanilla caramels, unwrapped

2 cans (3 ounces each) pecan halves, preferably large

Place two pecans together, end to end, with flat side up on ungreased cookie sheet. Continue in this manner until cookie sheet is filled. Put one caramel in center of each pair of pecans. Carefully place cookie sheet in 325 degree oven until caramels soften, approximately five minutes. It's possible a 200-degree oven is adequate.

Remove from oven; with buttered spatula flatten caramels over pecans. Place one kiss on each caramel. Kisses will soften from heat of caramels; gently swirl softened chocolate over caramels. Transfer candies from cookie sheet to waxed paper. Recipe makes about 40 pieces of caramel-chocolate candy.

Note: If a color change occurs on the surface of the chocolate after a day or two, just place pieces on a cookie sheet, in a 325-degree oven for about one minute.

Xavier Club To Present BPW Program

"The Christmas BPW Scrooge" will be presented for members of the Appleton Business and Professional Women by Xavier Niki Club girls at 6.30 p.m. Tuesday at the Elks Club.

Members plan to help bring holiday happiness to children up to 14 years of age. They have been asked to bring a toy or a game for a boy or girl to the December meeting. These toys will be given to the Salvation Army for distribution to needy families in the area.

Word has been received from the national membership chairman, Opal R. Hulen, paying honor to Mabel Sibley, Appleton's first Gemini Club member. Best wishes also were sent by National President Hope Roberts.

Marriage Promises Spoken

CLINTONVILLE — St. John Lutheran Church, route 2, was the setting for the 2 p.m. Saturday wedding of Miss Mary Ann Johnson and Ronald Wayne Blum. The Rev. Ralph Hanusa performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson, route 2. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ervin Sell, route 1, Marion, and the late Arthur Blum.

Mrs. Leslie Slater attended her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Verna Terreo and Mrs. Wallace Krueger.

Karl Blum, Milwaukee, served as best man for his brother. Arlin Blum and Leslie Slater were groomsmen. Ushering duties were performed by Leonard Johnson Jr. and Philip Gee.

A reception was held at Rustic Resort.

Mr. Blum is employed at FWD Corp. The couple will reside in Marion.

Methodists Plan Birthday Party For Christ

KAUKAUNA — Christ's birthday party is planned for 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the Methodist Church.

Thirteen candles, one for each month and one for Jesus, will be lighted. Visitors will present commercially canned goods for delivery to Bellin Memorial Hospital.

Church school students, who have been asked to arrive at 6:15 p.m., will present a Christmas program under the direction of Mrs. Irving Curry. Refreshments will be served in the youth room after the program.

'Other' Dow Jones

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dow Jones isn't much interested in the stock market. He is the 49-year-old manager of the Danfords Corp. plant in Los Angeles and says he didn't become aware of the "other Dow Jones" until he was 14 or 15 years old.

Childless Couple Sent Anonymous Letters

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was upset by the person who described childless couples as "winners" because they went through life moaning that they were not blessed with babies. Adoption was the perfect solution, according to the writer, and anyone who did not choose to solve the problem in this way was either "selfish, lazy or both."

My husband and I wanted children badly. We were not blessed, but then we were attempted to adopt we ran into obstacles which turned out to be married later than most people (I was 37, he was 38). When we were young, we were given preference. Third, I had a history of heart trouble. Yesterday's mail brought me two copies of your column from anonymous "friends." I think I know who sent those columns but under no circumstances would I attempt to defend myself. It would help those of us who are childless but not by choice if you would print this letter. — Pennsylvania Peggy

Dear Ann Landers: I was saddened by the letter about the delivery boy who was hit by a truck. However, your plea that bicycle manufacturers meet tougher safety standards would solve no problems. A safer bicycle does not necessarily mean a safer cyclist. If the National Safety Council and the parents of America are concerned, it's time they passed a few laws similar to the ones they have in Europe. (1) All bicycles must have front and rear lights after sundown. (2) All cyclists must travel with the flow of traffic and must keep to the inside lane nearest the curb. (3) Cyclists must give hand signals when turning left, or right. Kids all over the world ride bicycles. Americans have the most accidents. It is not surprising since they need not study the highway code or obtain a license to operate a bicycle. I've had some mighty cyclists. Had I not been alert I could have killed at least two

United States citizen must apply for citizenship papers and pass certain tests. Who is right? — The Fica
Dear Fica: Marriage to a U.S. citizen will not produce instant citizenship. It takes five years to become a U.S. citizen, unless citizenship is granted by a special act of Congress.
A non-citizen who marries a U.S. citizen may remain in this country indefinitely — but as an alien.
"The Bride's Guide", Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

A Variety of Information Is Available on Income Tax

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

We used to look back over a year and think of the new and different things that happened to us in terms of gay or sad, good or regrettable. These days we review them as taxable or deductible. Especially those of us who try to be our own accountants and struggle with the income tax form alone in the middle of the night.

You may not be aware that, in addition to the big income tax manual, the Internal Revenue Service puts out some two dozen slim tax folders, each dealing with a specific subject. The great advantage of having these separate little tax folders, specifically dealing with problems that have come up for the first time in your affairs, is that the tax information is concentrated in a few pages.

For example, if rents and royalties must be reported for the year, you would have to check a number of widely separated pages in the big tax manual in order to assemble all the bits and pieces you need to see the whole tax picture. But in the special folder entitled "Rents and Royalties Income," all the pertinent information is put together in three pages.

Folders Are Free

These special folders are free, and you can ask at your local Internal Revenue office for the complete printed list, and take your choice. The following are some that I think will be especially timely and helpful to a lot of taxpayers this year:

"Tax Benefits for Older Americans": One of the longer folders — 16 pages — which is encouraging to start with. Provisions of the federal income tax law are stated in plain, non-technical language. Various examples explain angles that may affect you for the first time, due to your latest birthday or retirement. Requirements for filling are detailed; provisions for a surviving spouse and the lower rate allowable are explained, as are exemptions, which tax form to use, pensions and annuities, and many other facets of the situation.

Averaging Income

"Self-Employment Tax": This goes into how and why you must file an income tax return and pay a self-employment tax if you have net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more, even though otherwise you wouldn't have to file at all. The tax obligations of a partner, whether or not you actually are self-employed (your own off-the-cuff interpretation may not be accurate on this), and what constitutes net earnings and the deductions allowable from your own business income, are only some of the matters discussed in this four-page folder.

"Income Averaging": 15 pages, plus a reprint of schedule G, form 1040, filled out by "John Brown" show you how to do your own. Maybe you see you're going to finish up 1968 with a much larger taxable income than you usually have, due to special circumstances during this past year. In that case, you may want to get the benefit of income averaging which will permit a part of the unusually large amount of taxable income to be taxed in a lower bracket, thus resulting in a reduction of the overall amount of tax due. It's worth a reading of this folder to find out which method of computing your tax will prove most advantageous.

Still Need Big Manual

"Investment Income and Expenses": This one covers the waterfront, in 30 pages of can-and-can't. Which types of income are taxable and which aren't, how and when they are to be reported, are vital subjects especially to those whose only source of income is from investments. A variety of examples such as "If your uncle, a cash method taxpayer, died and left you a specific legacy of... etc., etc." are pretty apt to hit your own situation right on the button somewhere along the line.

"Bad Debts": You'll find the tax information you need gathered together in seven pages devoted to this subject only. No hunting around, with the fear that you missed one of the Easter eggs under a bush. All this is not to say you don't

Parents' World

Critical Teens Only Showing Discontent With Themselves

BY DR. EVE JONES

DEAR DR. JONES: My 14-year-old daughter says she's ashamed to bring her friends over because most of our furniture consists of period pieces from auction galleries and she says our house looks like a junk shop. Am I responsible, do you think, for her loss of friends? MRS. S. I.

She'd be in a real bind if her father were in the White House, wouldn't she? Don't let yourself be side- tracked by her criticisms. Adolescent girls who become hypercritical of their parents or surroundings are really expressing their discontent with themselves as emerging adults.

Any loss of friendship she suffers is much more likely to be due to her anxieties in coping with new forms of friendship than to shame about her home.

Tell her you're sorry she feels frantic about growing up. If you can't discover how to help her accept her new status more gracefully, write again so I can tell you where she can get personal professional psychological counseling.

DEAR DR. JONES: What do you recommend doing about thumbsucking? My dentist recommends sleeves that don't bend and that cover the hands. Do you approve? MRS. F. C. Absolutely not!

Wednesday, December 11, 1968

Los Angeles Times

Thumbsucking is a natural way of getting some extra pleasure and comfort. If you object to it, try suggesting your child more often and eliminating the pressures that may be causing disturbing tensions.

DEAR DR. JONES: In our home, with five children from 3 to 13 years of age, mealtimes seem to be the most difficult times of the day. I try to keep them minding their manners and in their seats, but all I seem to accomplish is more chaos.

Our 3-year-old is especially squawky and whiny, and the bigger children pick on her constantly. MRS. W. J.

Tell your older children to tell you if they object to something the 3-year-old is doing, but remind them that you're the mother and you haven't asked for their assistance.

No child has any business criticizing another child. Once you regain control over the dinner table, you'll be able to keep it more quiet and orderly.

But unless you and your children are highly unusual, you'd better count on a few more years of noise and confusion during meals.

For a copy of her pamphlet, "To Spank or Not To Spank," send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Eve Jones, in care of The Post-Crescent.

Born Losers?

It's difficult not to be a trifle amused by former LA Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's assertion that the outcome of the 1968 Presidential election was close only because Vice President Hubert Humphrey was "up against a born loser."

The "born loser" — in the unlikely event Mr. Lucey's point of reference escapes you — is, of course, President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

"We were up against a born loser," Mr. Lucey is reported telling the Nebraska convention of the New Democratic Coalition, "a man with losing backlash strategy and lots of practice losing."

Now let's see. In the past 20 years Mr. Nixon has been elected to the House, to the Senate, to the Vice Presidency and to the Presidency of the United States. Along the way, he has twice won his party's nomination for the world's most powerful office, and has in the past 18 months pulled off what is generally conceded to be the most amazing political comeback of the century.

Not too bad a record by almost anyone's lights — except, apparently, Mr. Lucey's.

Lodge as a Negotiator

We have some reservations about the possibility that Henry Cabot Lodge will replace Averell Harriman as the United States' leading delegate to the Paris talks after Mr. Nixon becomes President.

Certainly Mr. Lodge is a capable diplomat who has had extensive experience in foreign affairs as Ambassador to the United Nations. He is also well acquainted with Vietnam where he served as American Ambassador for a number of years. He was reportedly involved in two ill-fated negotiations to try to get Hanoi to the peace table several years ago although the failures cannot be blamed upon him except that he reportedly did not inform the military of the delicate situation. Increases in Ameri-

But then, the former lieutenant governor's judgment may be clouded somewhat by his own recent experience in failure at the hands of Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

For our part, we hope that when Mr. Lucey makes his widely-anticipated second try for the Wisconsin Statehouse, no one will be ill-mannered enough to point out that he stumbled badly in his first attempt. Because, to tell the truth, he, like Mr. Nixon, may just manage to pull it off.

The fact of the matter is that, in politics as in life, there's no such thing as a "born loser." There are people who rebound from defeat — and those who don't. And past experience indicates that neither Mr. Lucey nor Mr. Nixon belongs to the latter class.

Nor — though it robs us of a punch line — is there much truth to the old adage that "it takes one to know one." Because if there were, you can bet your last, untaxed, pre-inflation dollar that we couldn't have resisted using it to conclude this little commentary.

But we didn't. Or did we?

can escalation of the war may have aborted the negotiations.

But Mr. Lodge has been a consistent supporter of the current regime in Saigon, a regime that certainly can be regarded with some amount of concern. Perhaps President Thieu and Vice President Ky have the majority support of their constituents but it did not show up in the carefully regulated elections more than a year ago. If the United States learns one lesson out of this whole Vietnamese tragedy it should be that we should not become too closely aligned with one regime in countries which have a history of political instability.

It would appear to make more sense for Mr. Nixon to appoint someone not previously personally concerned with the negotiations in Vietnam.

New President in Venezuela

The narrow victory of Rafael Caldera for the presidency of Venezuela marks a precedent in Venezuelan history. It is the first time that an incumbent government has lost out to the opposition party in the orderly transition of government. Certainly, whatever the qualifications of the major candidates, it is a step toward democracy.

Caldera is a member of the Social Democrats while his major opponent, Gonzalo Barrios, is a member of the Accion Democrata which have held control since the overthrow of the military dictatorship of Perez Jimenez in 1958. The AD, however, won more congressional seats than did the Social Democrats. And the National Civic Crusade of Perez Jimenez came in third which indicates that the whole business of governing Venezuela is going to be difficult. However, the Social Democrats may be able to turn to the conservative Copei for some amount of legislative support.

After its decade in power the AD had built up a strong spoils system within the government. There are about 300,000 government workers in the nation of 10 million and most of them will probably be replaced unless concessions can be granted. But Venezuela is another one of those countries with a large number of small political parties. There have to be concessions from the leading party or governing becomes impossible.

The AD over the years has been firmly opposed to the military regimes that have seized power in other Latin American countries as well as to the infiltration of Communists who for a time had Venezuela as their primary target. The new president is not considered at all hostile to the United States but he has close ties to the Christian Democratic parties of Europe and may look more in that direction than did his predecessors.

There seems little chance that the military in Venezuela is unhappy about Caldera's victory. But the three months before the new president is sworn into office may be a time of considerable confusion in Venezuela and almost anything can happen if the tradition of democratic processes has not yet been soundly accepted.

Taylor Writes Nixon Faces Toughest Problem in Defending Soundness of Dollar

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

The new Nixon Administration is already deep in the problem of the British pound in preparing for the defense of our dollar. But Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government stays out there in the wild blue yonder, its latest austerity pronouncements notwithstanding.

The fundamental we face in our gold and dollar crisis is: Does the U. S. have control over its own economy? Any monetary system will work for us if we have a balanced budget and an equilibrium in our balance of payments. No system will work for us if the U. S. has billions in budget deficits. "Paper gold" is no remedy for a U. S. economy that is out of control.

But the entire free world's postwar monetary system is founded on the exchange ratio of the U. S. dollar to the British pound and the convertibility of gold at today's fixed $35-per-ounce price.

Moreover, our British cousins not only use the pound among themselves as we use the dollar, but both the pound and the dollar — tied together — are the reserve currency used like an international currency by central banks throughout the free world. An estimated 70 per cent of

Taylor

Britain's pound supply is held by foreigners abroad, valued at the ratio interchangeable into U. S. dollars or gold. Britain imports four-fifths of its raw materials and two-thirds of its food. This, of course, must be paid for by exports. And the basic trouble in Britain, as here, is that the government is spending far too much for the amount of wealth valued from $4.83 to $4.03 generated by the private sector.

The British pound was devalued when Britain entered the International Monetary Fund in 1945. It was devalued again in September, 1949, from $4.03 to $2.80. Mr. Wilson announced a third devaluation on November 18, 1967, of 14 1/2 per cent from $2.80 to today's $2.40. The effect of this decree touched off 25 more devaluations of other currencies within a single week.

Much remains unrevealed about this. In simple truth, Mr. Wilson acted against the judgment and protest of our Federal Reserve officials and the committed consortium of European central banks. Behind the scenes they were convinced that the results of Britain's act would be far worse than the very hard British pound salvation problem they were willing to face.

In addition, the bedrock agreement justifying our long and vastly expensive support of the pound with the American taxpayers' money has been Britain's absolute guarantee that she would not devalue her pound unilaterally. But that is exactly what Britain did.

Mr. Wilson announced that domestic buying curbs would be applied to reduce home purchases and thereby provide more goods for export, there would be new consumer taxes, etc., precisely as he did again a few weeks ago.

Political spenders making hay in inflationary governments, Mr. Wilson's and the Great Society alike, are always more willing to curb private spending than to cut their own spending of the public's money. As a result he pushed the British public into the trying pan while he still stoked up the government's overspending.

PUBLIC PAYROLL BOOMS
Mr. Wilson showed no qualms in passing laws nationalizing many of the nation's transport facilities and other enterprises at gigantic public expense. He continued adding to the public payroll list. The British civil service has increased — increased — more under Mr. Wilson than the entire existing size of the British Army. And, like the Great Society, Mr. Wilson still urged more and more costly public services as if nothing in the financial crisis made any difference.

As one result, Britain's productivity today is lower than any Western European industrialized nation on the continent. Unemployment is at, and remains at, the highest level in 27 years. And the pound sterling is again in severe difficulty.

Further complicated by the crisis in the French franc, the checkerboard world of international finance is on the alert and in sharp dismay. For Britain cannot now defend the pound without a whole re-vamping of the Wilson programs. Yet defend those programs Mr. Wilson must or go down politically.

Politics, not economics, is ruling the roost in Britain — and this is the uncontrollable ghost against which the new Nixon Administration must battle in the vital defense of the dollar.

People's Forum Heiss Proposed Use Sewer Tax Earlier

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I notice in the press that now Appleton is long last getting to the proposal that the Sewage system will be placed on a use Utility basis.

It is close to three years ago that I visited City Hall suggesting this. Then two other people, one the then City Finance Director were called in on this matter. I told of the method used. I furnished a rate card of a nearby community. It was that should a water bill amount to $10 the sewerage charge would be $7, in other words, 70 per cent of the water bill. However, for the summer months the charge is based on the first three months bill of the year. Billing is quarterly. Also heavy users of water get a reduced sewerage charge. I also reported how one of the fair sex tried to get a city in the southern part of the state to reduce from $5 to 70 per cent. The city fathers would not do so but this lady single handedly was successful to get it reduced by state authority.

My motive was twofold. To take the bonding issues of use services off the backs of Property Tax Payers and place it on a Utility use basis. Secondly, there are so many small and average Property Tax Payers that are uninformed how expensive homes in the $50,000 plus class just because they are "Expensive and no Sale" property pay at a lesser rate for all city services because instead of 35 per cent of value are as low as 20 per cent of value.

I also attended one of those Citizen Advisory meetings this summer and among other suggestions this was one. It is entirely possible to carry this farther for services used by the Citizens of Appleton.

While your Editor may not like to add one other suggestion, I hope you will allow this and get it in the paper before Dec. 10th. Few are the citizens that are aware that since Sept. 1, 1967, I furnished a model ordinance of the City of Madison that all Bond issues be placed to referendum. In the letter I attached I named cities and states that do this.

Some of the officials feel that only Aldermen should decide bonding as they are elected for that job and know the needs. Yet the City of Madison had this Ordinance in force since 1948 and the Occupations of the Madison Council shows quite a few with University degrees. Yet as your John Wyngaard states this is still one method the Taxpayer has to control what I call inefficient spending. At one of these Voter Moderator meetings, one the then City Finance Director praised the school system of Appleton. Yet he stated that the Citizen would be uninformed and therefore unable to decide. If upon graduation a graduate cannot be informed on what his earnings can afford, hasn't the school system failed in education, for financing is important.

Editor, it is also a fact that many states New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, among the many others require all school budgets to be voted open at the polling places. Yet of the 63 per cent of the school budgets voted down in 1967 in these states, no school closed down, but the school boards followed the budget for departments just at the Cities must do.

It is disappointing indeed to have a Council that won't even take it upon themselves to at least order a Referendum on these issues. Must the Taxpayers again spend funds as was done once before to reverse those Elected Officials action on appointive power by a 7 to 3 vote.

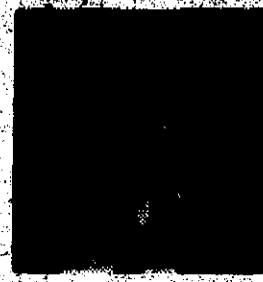

In closing some including elected Officials stated to me that Appleton needs more people like you versed in City matters, but again it is disheartening to receive the reception I receive on matters. However, I do not intend to be guilty by unkind remarks that is the method used when the opposition hates to admit the proposals have merit.

Wisconsin Report State's Law Banning Strikes by Government Employees Ineffective

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Most Wisconsin citizens will probably agree that strikes by public employees in the essential services are intolerable, so I informed the lady of our house a few days ago when it appeared that members of the Madison fire department were beginning a strike under another name as they "called in sick" in their euphemism.

The people of Wisconsin have, indeed, declared their views on the matter in a long standing law that makes the public employee strike absolutely illegal. Significantly, nobody in a long time has proposed the repeal or even the modification of that law.

Yet the risk of public employees in protective and other vital services withholding their labor as a tool in negotiating with their employers for wages and other benefits remains. It is real. Wisconsin has had some strike incidents. Lately it has come close to seeing others.

THOUSANDS ARE PENALIZED

In other parts of the country painfully long strikes have had effects that can probably never be measured, as in the walkouts of organized teachers in large cities which penalized hundreds of thousands of children who had nothing to do with the argument.

In Wisconsin today the best informed of the employer and employee representatives in the public services, and especially in the localities, are aware of new militancy and resolve by workers in the public services.

One Wisconsin pro-labor expert has privately said that he is not sure how long some of the principal local employee unions in the state, including those working in the most vital and sensitive public services, can be persuaded to obey the no strike law.

HOW EFFECTIVE IS LAW?

If it is supposed that strikes do come, how effective will the law be?

There is grave doubt about its real effectiveness. Courts could issue restraining orders. But courts are run by men who run for office, and the public employment sector of the electorate is now well-organized, sophisticated and powerful as a force in elections. In any event, how can a couple of hundred or even several thousands of illegally striking employees be punished.

Thoughtful employer representatives generally feel that although the public service worker voluntarily waived his right to strike when he decided to take a governmental job, it is not fair to deprive him of a right that is held by his neighbor in a private industrial job without giving him some alternative form of presenting his grievances.

EMPLOYEES CAN ORGANIZE

Wisconsin has done that for local government employees in a law that gives them the right to organize and to bargain collectively and to require their employers to negotiate with them in good faith. Nevertheless, if it is assumed that some of the more militant union leaders are not merely bluffing, that has not been enough to guarantee that vital public services won't be cut off by walkouts. Compulsory arbitration of disputes is sometimes suggested, but experts in the field have little faith in the device.

In a field that is intrinsically difficult, perhaps the most hopeful mechanism now provided by law is the procedure for the appointment of a neutral fact-finder in public service labor disputes, and a resort to the court of public opinion for the acceptance of his proposals. Provision could be made for penalties upon employing officers and unions or their leaders for refusal.

One of the reasons why governmental labor relations has become such a worrisome subject is that the number of public employees has grown astronomically, and their political muscle has grown accordingly.

MIGHT SHIFT WORK

As a matter of interest, the Public Expenditure Survey in a recent discussion of municipal labor troubles had a suggestion that may be worth review in that connection. Are all the employees now on the public payrolls needed, or could some of their services be contracted for from private businesses, the taxpayer service organization asks? It mentions janitorial services, window washing, street sweeping, sewer cleaning, snow removal, park work, refuse disposal, even some police work, as housekeeping jobs that could be provided by entrepreneurs who would then be responsible for employee relations problems.

Strictly Personal Do We Really Catch A Cold or the Flu?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Addressing the British Medical Association this fall, Dr. R. E. Hope-Simpson said he believes that "the flu virus is always in the human body, waiting for activation by an outside force."

I am happy to hear a

reputable medical man express this view in public, for as a kind of "lay crackpot" on medical matters, I have long held that this whole business of "catching" diseases is much overrated.

Not that measles, or mumps, or such, are not catching; there is overwhelming proof that they are. But I have always doubted that we "catch" a cold from someone else in the same way, or that many ailments are supposedly transmitted by contact are really got in that manner.

Many potential illnesses are "inside us," awaiting some external trigger that will make the body more vulnerable to their attack. This can be seen most obviously in the case of "mental breakdowns," where a sudden crisis or increased tension causes a fissure, so to speak, in the personality.

And the latest research in autoimmunity reveals some disquieting evidence about the longer-term effects of these medications. In some cases, they disarm the antibodies in the bloodstream, making it easier for toxic microorganisms to overwhelm us.

Illness lurks within us, as a perpetual threat, once the normal homeostasis of the body is overcome — that is, once the balance is thrown out of whack; and the recuperative powers are no longer able to muster enough forces fast enough to repel the invader.

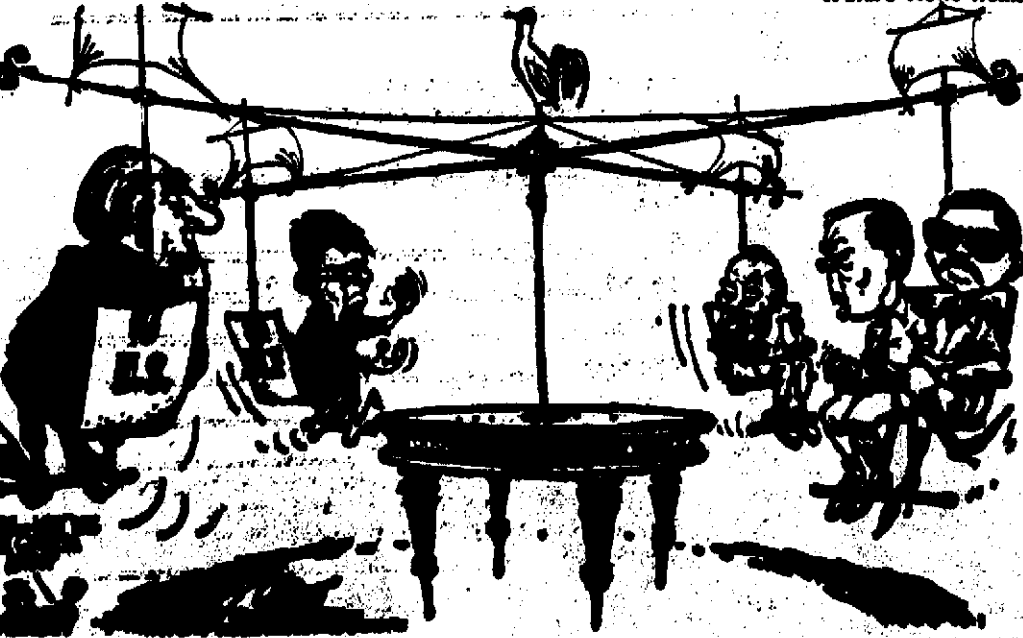

It is an optimistic oversimplification to say that "health" is the natural state of the body; rather, its natural state is that of a nice degree of balance between health and illness, a tug-of-war, with each waiting for the other momentarily to relax its grip on the rope. Illness is not a defect in the body, it is as much a part of the body as death is a part of life.

If we can understand and accept this, and not regard illness as some alien interloper we should resent, then we are prepared to wage a more rational (and, thus, more fatalistic) war against the ravages of disease. Those people who are most afraid of illness, and who battle it most ferociously, are precisely those who succumb to it most easily and frequently.

All flesh is "corruptible," and the corruptness is as "natural as birth and growth and health. This does not mean disease should not be resisted — but, like any old enemy, it cannot be fought successfully until it is understood. And understanding, in its way, is a form of fighting.

Former State Chief Justice Dies in Madison

MADISON (AP) — John E. Martin Sr., 77, former State Supreme Court chief justice and court administrator, died Monday in a Madison hospital.
Martin was Wisconsin's attorney general from 1938 until 1948, when he was appointed to the court by former Gov. Oscar Rennebohm June 5, 1948. He later was elected to the court and became chief justice on June 7, 1957.

After retiring from the court in 1962, he became Wisconsin's court administrator and held that job until Oct. 1, 1967.
Martin was a native of Green Bay.
Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday in Our Lady Queen of Peace Catholic Church in Madison. Burial will be in Resurrection Cemetery in Madison.

Black Creek Man Dies of Seizure

BLACK CREEK — Emil C. Rahmlow, 66, route 2, Black Creek, was found dead in his bed about 8:30 a.m. today.
Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kamp, who attributed death to a heart attack, said Rahmlow had been dead several hours when found.
The retired farmer had been treated for a heart condition for some time. The body was released to the Bretschneider-Trotter Funeral Home.

Appleton Student at UWM Leads YGOP Support of Hayakawa

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Armbands supporting the president of San Francisco State University, S. I. Hayakawa, in his efforts to keep the school open appeared on the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee campus today.
The armbands, carrying the white initial H on a blue background, are being sold by the UWM Young Republican club.
"We are supporting President Hayakawa's strong stand on keeping San Francisco open despite the pressures of those who want to cause disruption," said YGOP Club president Herbert W. Krueger Jr., Appleton.
He said the group was not taking a stand on the grievances involved in the original controversy.

Frazier Wins 15-Rounder From Bonavena

Champion Victor; No Knockdowns In Punishing Bout

By RALPH BERNSTEIN PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier retained his five state heavyweight title, but his failure to knock out or even deck Oscar Bonavena Tuesday night rubbed some of the glamour off the unbeaten champion.

There was no doubt that the 24-year-old Frazier tried every punch in the book to try and kayo the doughy Argentinian, but he wound up a tired, frustrated winner by unanimous decision of the two judges and referee.

Judge Nate Lopinson scored it for Frazier 74-64 under the Pennsylvania system of five points must for the winner of a round, and four or less for the loser. Judge Dave Beloff carded it 72-64, and referee Joe Sweeney 70-67.

The Associated Press had Frazier an easy 72-63 winner with the count 12-3 in rounds. Although Frazier won handily, the triumph wasn't as easy as the score indicated. The winner suffered a cut inside his lower lip, his jaw was swollen and needed an ice pack, and he complained of a sore right hip.

He obviously was tired from the longest and apparently toughest of his 22-fight career.

The strong-jawed challenger, a bull of a man with heart to match, left the ring with both eyes almost shut and blood jutting from cuts about the eyes.

His nose was red and he looked a loser.

Gary Bleier Sinks Decisive Basket With 1:57 Left; Catlin Scores 19 Points for West

BY RON WITT Post-Crescent Staff Writer "Well take them any way we can get 'em," a happy, emotion-drained Bill Morse sighed, pacing a short space in his team's boisterous locker-room.

For the Appleton East basketball mentor and his plucky Patriots, "any way" has been anything but the easy way the last two times on the court. But then no one in the Patriot camp was really in the mood to complain much after East's nerve-wracking, come-from-behind 43-42 win over Appleton West Tuesday night, the verdict coming on the heels of a 60-58 3-overtime Patriot triumph over Green Bay West last Friday.

The intra-city battle, always more significant than just another Fox River Valley Conference contest, was played before a standing-room-only crowd in West's pressure-cooker gymnasium. It bore all the earmarks of a state tournament game, so loud were the cheers and so plentiful the signs.

Delighted at coming out with the victory yet somewhat miffed by his club's overall performance, Morse noted the tremendous pressure that built up: "Nothing we tried was effective. The kids were so tight they couldn't do anything."

"Showed Courage" "We showed some courage by coming back, though," Morse remarked, pointing to a 9-point East deficit at the end of the first quarter. The 17-8 margin the Terrors held at that juncture was the biggest for either team in the game.

A subdued West coach Dick Emanuel echoed Morse's evaluation. "We're going to make mistakes," he said, "that'll happen with a young team. But our kids did a real good job," he added. "It was a real good defensive battle."

A genuine hero emerged for the Patriots in guard Gary Bleier, a 5-10 senior who was nursing a bad knee, scored eight points for the evening, and six of them came in the last three minutes that brought East from behind, including what turned out to be the winning basket with 1:57 left to play.

Post-Crescent News Service GREEN BAY — The last time the Packers fraternized with the Bears, they ran afoul of Gale Sayers and Virgil Carter.

Legal Steps Threatened 'Lonborg Law' Widens Gulf Between Baseball Players and Owners

NEW YORK (AP) — A new baseball rule which could deprive a player of his salary because of illness or non-baseball injury has widened the gulf between major league players and club owners.

The players, who have threatened to strike next spring unless their pension demands are met, announced Tuesday they plan to take legal action against a "vicious anti-player rule" passed by the owners during last week's stormy winter meetings.

The rule, passed Friday by joint action of the American and National Leagues but overshadowed by the resignation of Commissioner William Eckert, creates a Temporary Inactive List.

It provides for a player to be placed on the list, for at least 21 days and not necessarily with pay, if he is "unable to render

Saturday's Game:
Shawano at Clintonville (non-conf.)

BY RON WITT Post-Crescent Staff Writer

All-conquering Kimberly, easy winner of its first two Mid-Eastern Conference starts and its first seven games, overall, bids to add another victory to its string when long-time rival Kaukauna invades the Papermakers gym Friday night.

The clash is one of three slated in the M-E for that evening. In other tests, Clintonville hits the road to New London, and Two Rivers entertains Menasha. The Trunkers and Purple Raiders own 2-1 records and are tied for second place behind Kimberly.

The league's seventh team, Shawano, draws a bye Friday night but sees action Saturday night in a road engagement with Schofield of the Wisconsin Valley Conference.

Before the start of the conference season, Clintonville was seen as probably the only team capable of upending heavily favored Kimberly.

Any thought of upset — at least in the first meeting of the two teams — went by the boards Saturday night on Trunkers' floor, as Coach Jack Wippich's Papermakers cruised to a 77-57 triumph. The win came on the heels of an even easier, 73-44 win over Shawano at home the night before.

One factor that has kept Kimberly on the winning track is its tremendous balanced scoring. An example of that balance showed itself over the weekend.

Guard Don Hagany, who was named to the All-Tournament tributed 18 points. His 18.5 average is tops in the M-E.

Kimberly will naturally be the choice over Kaukauna, which broke into the win column for the first time Saturday night. The Ghosts, though, could boast of five starters in double figures in a 70-58 beating of New London.

Scores 9 Points

The key to the Ghosts' attack is forward Dave LaBorde, who is a capable scorer and rugged rebounder. LaBorde had 19 markers against New London. Center Jack Kempen, a 6-4 junior, has helped LaBorde on the boards and in scoring of late.

Clintonville will be favored to hand New London its third M-E loss, in spite of the fact the Bulldogs are to enjoy the home-court advantage.

Coach Carl Bruggink's squad should be too strong up front with the likes of 6-5 John Torborg, 6-3 Todd Nordwig, and 6-1 Terry Olson. Clint guard Pat Zingler is second in the league with a 17.7 average.

Stu Courchaine's Bulldogs can

Elias Will be Fired by Navy, AP Reports

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The U.S. Naval Academy Association called a news conference today to announce that head football coach Bill Elias had been fired.

Although officials within the academy's football hierarchy were officially silent, The Associated Press learned late Tuesday night the Elias would not be returning to the academy next year.

The Navy coach, who reached his pinnacle at the academy with a 19-14 upset over Army last season giving the Midshipmen a 5-4-1 record, joined the Navy coaching staff in 1965.

There had been speculation that Elias might not return following the 1967 season, but the upset victory over Army squelched the possibility.

Under the former Maryland quarterback, Navy recorded a 4-4-3 log in his initial season at the academy in 1965.

The following year the Midshipmen could not do better than a 4-6 record.

Oscar Robertson (14) of the Cincinnati Royals is about to go up for a jump shot and two points, as the Milwaukee Bucks' Len Chappell (30) tries in vain to stop the play. Robertson tallied 21 points to help his team to a 107-99 NBA victory at the Milwaukee Arena Tuesday night. (AP Wirephoto)

'New' Don Shula Surprises Critics

BY ELMOR KANE

Football coaches run the gamut from ultra-conservative to conservative. "Please," begged Don Shula, "put me under conservative." His joke provoked giggles. Shula was brought up under the most disciplined of all teachers, Paul Brown and was some friction between Unitas and Shula. Shula thought the Colts could run, with Tom Matte and Jerry Hill, and that Unitas was throwing too much. Many fans, some of the elder Colts, and Unitas didn't have confidence in the running; they were still reminiscing about Alan Ameche!

Have Running Game

After coming so far without Unitas, it has been discovered that the Colts did have a running game after all, with the same dramatic personae albeit a little better blocking in the line. But Shula has won without John and some of his game plans have been positively mod. The Colts have gone for first downs on first-quarter fourth-down situations; Shula has practically discarded his field goal offense, and he has been quite creative with two tight ends.

Against Atlanta he even called a screen pass, which has never exactly been Baltimore's bread-and-butter play, to John Mackey. The old Shula would have thought thrice before throwing a screen pass, let alone to his tight end.

Though things come easy on a winner, Shula has yet to explode in one of his famous sideline temper tantrums. Shula knockers used to say he had special buddies and sometimes played favorites; no more.

A few Colt veterans have never been Shula fans but now every player on the team loves him. It sounds like Shula has turned into a much better looking Vince Lombardi. Now all he has to do is win a Big One. Opportunity knocks Dec. 22.

Bear QB Jack Concannon pulled a muscle in practice last week and played against the Rams with a bad right leg. His wife Ginny watched Jack's greatest game with Mrs. Ron Bull. All last week, Connie Bull had been saying that the Bears would knock off the Rams.

"This was the first time ever I didn't meet Jack at the airport," said Ginny "but after midnight it's too hard to get a baby sitter. They'll be late and celebrating but I'm going to wait up."

Buffalo owner Ralph Wilson flew to Seattle after the Bills' game at Houston. Wilson was investigating the possibility of moving his Bills to Seattle. He returns today. Wilson probably won't move, because Pete Rozelle doesn't dig mobile franchises, but Huskie Stadium seats 58,000 and is a more suitable home for O.J. Simpson than that Buffalo relic, War Memorial Stadium.

Buffalo will draft O.J. first although Wilson says, "We can't afford him. O.J.'s gonna cost a million." Simpson said he preferred to play in the NFL and on the West Coast; Seattle at least fills half the bill.

San Diego Sid (Gillman) wants O.J., of course, and will trade his two No. 1 draft choices, his QB John Hadl (who signed, finally), even his and Esther's kitchen sink, and whatever else Wilson wants for O.J. But Gillman is the tightest wad in any town. If Ralph Wilson can't afford O.J., Sidney sure can't.

NFL official Earl Toler kept up with Clarence Childs on his 88-yard kickoff return to the Ram 2-yard line. Toler was a lineman on Joe Kuharich's USF team which starred Marchetti, Matson, etc.

Elmor Kane

Weeb Ewbank, and the pupil has followed in their most conservative footsteps. Shula would rather eat worms than run on fourth-and-inches.

Since Don Shula has taken over the Colts he has one division title, one "Coach of Year" award, and five winning seasons. His record is 50-17-3. Yet Shula has not sold all of the people. His critics fall into four laps: 1) "If you had Unitas at quarterback you'd win, too"; 2) Shula is offensively dullsville; 3) Some of his players don't like him; 4) He can't win The Big Ones. The John Unitas gripe no longer holds. Last year there

Wrightstown Loses, 63-62

See-Saw Battle Sees Tom Ribarchek Score 25 Points

WRIGHTSTOWN — The Luxemburg-Casco Spartans rallied several times to defeat Wrightstown 63-62 Tuesday night in a non-conference basketball duel.

The Spartans trailed 20-12 after the initial period of play but came back to tie the score at 30 by intermission.

The Tigers came back strong in the third quarter to grab a 48-42 lead.

Wrightstown saw its lead diminish, and with four minutes left saw the Spartans tie the score at 54. The Spartans built their lead to 63-50 with 15 seconds left in the game.

Tom Baleri lead the winners with 22 points on 11 field goals. Dave Mueller and Wayne Smithwick each added 10.

Tom Ribarchek paced the losers with a 25-point performance. Bob Rotzenberg and Tim McDaniel added 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Luxemburg-Casco (12-18-12-21 — 63) Mueller 5 0 2; Kollie 1 2 3; Smithwick 5 0 5; Servais 3 3 2; Baleri 11 0 1; Rubens 3 0 2; Gillis 1 0 3. Totals 29 5 18.

Reetz Team Hits 1,043

Chuck Bayer Slams 664 Set

Chuck Bayer cracked a 259 game and 664 series to sweep individual honors in the major Scratch League at Hahn's Lanes Tuesday night.

Bayer led the Reetz Supper Club team to a 1,043 scratch game and three straight wins over Behnke Clothing.

Al Gast was runnerup in the Major loop with a 612 series. Roger Blaes had 607, Chuck Deeg rolled 604, Norm Bunkelman had 601 and Stan Prue posted 600.

Don Mahoney blasted a 257 game and Ed Schultz fired a 643 series to divide honors in the Tri-City League at Sabre Lanes last night.

Six in Row

Mahoney, who finished with a 627 series, started his high game with six strikes in a row and finished with a total of eight. Schultz blasted a 243 game with his high set and other top scores include Bob Ross 614 and Don Klomp 225-607.

Gene Woyak slammed a 596 series to lead the Allis-Chalmers League at Sabre Lanes last night. Don DeNoyer had a 574 series and Mel Bartlett rolled 564.

In action last Friday in the Sportsman's League at Hahn's Lanes, Earl Hoffman jolted a 254 game and Stan Prue hit a 661 series which included games of 231 and 226.

Dorn Rolls 643

Monday night in the Major League at the R and R Lanes, Black Creek, R.D. Dorn smacked a 643 series, Keith Barth had 610 and Ernie Single slammed 578.

John Moen socked a 236 game and 586 series to set the pace in the Universal League at the 41 Bowl last night. Pat Brogan had a 234 game, Harold Riggs hit 227 and Maynard Kunschke had 226.

The Coated Paper League at Hahn's last night was topped by Jim Pasch with a 238 game and 574 series.

likely to be, Concannon will not be the Packers' only problem.

Win on Defense

"The Bears have been winning games on their defense," Cruise notes. "Their offensive hasn't been getting too many points for the defense."

The secret, he added, "is they haven't had any injuries on the defensive team. They've been able to keep the unit together."

They had some problems earlier in the season, when they gave up 38 points to Washington and 42 to Detroit, but since then they've changed everything around as far as the principal of the defense is concerned. . . and they've put Joe Taylor in there at one halfback for Curtiss Gentry."

Concannon, with a contending team for the first time after stints with somewhat less successful Boston Patriots and Eagles, reportedly is overcome by it all.

"What a hell of a windup it's going to be!" he told Cooper Rollow. "I'm a gine, the last game of the schedule and we're fighting for a playoff berth, and we're playing it at home, and it's against the Green Bay Packers. That's way it ought to be, right?"

"He's unorthodox — he uses a lot of rollouts and bootlegs, so it's difficult for teams to play against him."

Remarkable Job

"And the Bears have made to realize they've got to go with that style or they don't have anything, with Sayers gone. . . and they've done a remarkable job, coming back like they have since losing him."

Cruise's assessment is corroborated by the Chicago Tribune's Cooper Rollow, who Tuesday noted, "Concannon is the only quarterback in football, now. . . who can reveal his game plan a week ahead of time and get away with it. There never was any secret about how the Packers went about winning — they simply outblocked, outtackled and out-executed every opponent."

The Bears have been forced by adversity to adopt the same simple, direct formula for winning football. So Concannon can say as he did last week, without any attempt at guile, that the Bears hoped to beat the Rams by doing what the Chicago offense does best — run the ball, mix in a few rollouts, and concentrate on the short passing game. No fancy stuff.

Run Pretty Well "That's exactly what we'll attempt to do next Sunday against the Packers," Concannon told Rollow. "We've always felt we can run pretty well against them. We may throw a few long passes just hoping for a break. But our basic attack is the running game off tackle and the short passes."

Issues Challenge It was upon Ellis that Durham and Frazier swelled in their post fight interview. Durham said he didn't believe there was a fighter alive who could whip Frazier, then challenged Ellis to come out and settle the heavyweight title mess.

"If Ellis really wants to settle this thing we're ready," said the manager-trainer. Durham indicated that if Ellis wasn't willing to fight Frazier then he would consider such as Jerry Quarry of California, or Boone Kirkman of Seattle, Wash.

He said he wasn't interested in Sonny Liston, the former champion who continued a comeback Tuesday night with a two-round knockout in Baltimore of Amos "Big Train" Lincoln.

The Bonavena-Frazier match arrived him of a chance to lift Frazier's six-state title — New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Maine, and New Jersey.

"I thought the fight was closer than the decision," he said. "He is not the master I'm satisfied with the decision but disappointed."

Bonavena confirmed the fight he fought—his back to the ropes attempting to beat off the driving Frazier with counterpunches—when he observed, "I was looking for enough room to get in one good shot. But Frazier was crowding me and I couldn't find my way."

The 3-1 favored Philadelphiaian weighed 265 and Bonavena 207 for their second meeting in two years.

No Knockdowns Although Bonavena once again went the distance with Frazier—only one other fighter has managed this—the Argentine couldn't duplicate his two-knockdown feat of the losing split decision of 1966.

Bonavena had some problem with locating his punches in legal areas. Four times he was warned by Sweeney to lift his blows and he had the eighth round taken away for hitting below the belt. Yank Durham, manager of Frazier, felt Sweeney was too lenient, didn't warn or penalize enough.

Frazier's record now is 22-0 with 19 knockouts, and Bonavena's 36-5 with 27 knockouts.

Watching the fight was Cassius Clay, considered champion in many parts of the world despite his Selective Service problem. Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., is the World Boxing Association champion, recognized in most states.

Pointers Stay Unbeaten

Touring Czech Team Defeats Titans, 81-58

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The outline for a competitive basketball season in the State University Conference was taking shape Tuesday night with Stout and Stevens Point etching the sharpest blueprints.

Unbeaten Stevens Point downed Whitewater 81-63, Stout trimmed Superior 86-73, River Falls defeated La Crosse 88-84 in overtime and St. Mary's extended Oshkosh State's winless streak to 0-5 in an exhibition match almost interrupted by demonstrators, 81-58.

In other games, the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee rolled over Lake Forest 94-70, Milton downed Rockford 91-81, and Millikin defeated Carroll 87-77 in a College Conference of Illinois-Wisconsin game.

Out of Contention Oshkosh, the WSUC defending champion, seems almost out of contention for the crown as a result of its loss of several 1967 stars. The touring Czech team, led by George Ruzicka's 14 points in the first half, bounded to a 42-25 halftime lead, and later moved ahead 65-36.

The Oshkosh State gymnasium game was not yet underway when 200 student demonstrators marched into the arena in support of recent grievances against administrative policy.

Spectators, obviously more concerned with basketball than with campus social issues, greeted the demonstrators with jeers.

The school band struck up the Oshkosh fight song to help drown out the demonstrators' chants, and the throng marched out of the building in a huff to plot a demonstration in the campus administration building—where they don't normally play basketball.

Hit 54 Per Cent Stevens Point (2-0 in the conference) hit 54 per cent of its shots from the field. The Pointers had five men scoring in double figures, led by Tom Ritzenthaler's 20. Whitewater is now 1-3.

River Falls, now 2-1, edged winless La Crosse in overtime on Dennis Burich's jump shot and George Voss' free throw.

LITTLE NINE CONFERENCE

Hortonville	1	Wrightstown	1
Omro	1	Reedsville	1
Winneconne	1	Kimberly	1
Brillion	1	Shiocton	1

Friday's Games:
Reedsville at Winneconne.
Shiocton at Brillion.
Wrightstown at Omro.
Denmark at Hortonville.
Hilbert at Freedom.

The list of unbeaten teams in the Little Nine Conference is certain to be reduced by at least one Friday.

Reedsville and Winneconne, both with 2-0 records, will tangle on the Winneconne court.

The loop's two other unbeaten teams, Hortonville and Omro meet teams that have suffered two losses each. Hortonville will entertain Denmark, and Omro plays host to Wrightstown.

Other Friday night tilts will have Shiocton at Brillion and Hilbert travels to Freedom.

55 in Second Half

Winneconne will be hoping for another good offensive performance similar to the 93-point output against Denmark last Friday night. The Wolves got 34 points from Mike Lee, and Russ Flanagan counted 24 as Winneconne poured in 55 points in the second half.

One of the highlights of last week's contests was the 43 points scored by Brillion's Russ Hansen, but the Lions were edged by Reedsville, 72-71, on Mark Rolland's tip-in at the buzzer.

Randy Wade, of Omro, also was a standout last Friday as he netted 30 points to lead the Foxes over Shiocton. Hortonville's Dave Riggles counted 31 markers against the Freedom Irish.

Reedsville has been paced by Steve Zirbell who scored 25 against Brillion, including 17 in the first half. The Panthers had 49 points at the half and led the Lions by 17, but had to hold off a Brillion rally for the victory.

The hot-shooting Omro quintet, which swished 53 points in the first half against Shiocton, has Steve Hoeft to help Wade out in the scoring column. While Wade was hitting 35 points against the Chiefs, Hoeft chipped in with 22.

Squires Hand Chilton 66-27 Non-Loop Loss

DE PERE — DePere Abbot Pennings' Squires rallied from an 8-8 first quarter deficit and rolled past the out-manned Chilton Tigers, 66-27 Tuesday night in a non-conference match.

The Squires came back in the second quarter to outscore the Tigers 13-4 to take a 21-13 half time lead.

Any thoughts the Tigers might have had to overtake the Squires were soon diminished. In the third period, as DePere jumped off the intermission rest and scored the first 13 points to grab a 34-13 lead.

The Tigrs shot a dismal 28 per cent from the floor hitting on only 11 of 47 shots. The Squires also had a poor night hitting on 24 of 67 for 36 per cent.

John Albers paced the winners with 17 points. Nick Pfeffer led the Tigers with 10.

Kimberly Mat Team Triumphs Over Oshkosh

The Kimberly High School wrestling team beat Oshkosh, 29-17, in its latest dual meet. The Papermakers now have a 2-0-1 record.

Kimberly winners via pins were Tom Van Berkel (96 pounds) and Dean Lamers (120). Papermakers winners via decisions were Bob Vosters (103), Mike Sofra (127), Steve Van Hout (138) and "Butch" Chalupa (165).

Winning for Oshkosh were Dan Wildenberg (145), Dean Jacobson (133) and Steve La Rose (154). Two draws were fought. Kimberly's Steve Gaffney and OHS' Pat Linton were even at 112, while the Papermakers' Wally Shaw and Oshkosh's Tom Schulz drew in the heavyweight class.

'Capital Crisis' Is More Than a State Problem

World's Need for Money Surpasses Present Supplies

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The term "capital crisis" has a familiar ring in these days of conflict, but not in the same sense described in a speech recently by George Champion prior to his retirement as chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank.

Champion was speaking about money rather than state problems. But as he developed his thesis it became obvious that one often underlies the other.

Simply stated, the argument is this: There is not enough capital being produced to meet the world's need for it.

American corporations cannot obtain expansion funds without paying high interest rates. European companies cannot invest enough in research to keep pace. Poor nations are forced to remain in poverty.

Getting Worse

The basic reason for this situation, which Champion believes is getting worse, is found in two overwhelming trends: the population explosion and the onrush of technology.

First, the population explosion.

There are 1.75 billion people in the underdeveloped nations of the non-Communist world whose annual output averages under $500. If this average were to be raised to $1,500 it would demand perhaps $7 trillion of investments.

The estimate is based on calculations showing that between $3 and $4 of investment are needed to obtain one added dollar of annual output. This ratio holds true in rich and poor nations alike.

The stark fact is that the amount needed, based on the present number of disadvantaged, is 14 times the amount of capital generated in the entire world last year.

6 Billion Humans

The problem becomes awesome when it is realized that population is now growing at a rate that will, if maintained, result in more than six billion human beings by the turn of the century, or double what now exists.

Now the technological revolution.

Technological advances have permitted the world to turn out more goods faster and more efficiently than ever before. But technology has caused also a huge increase in the amount of capital that stands behind the worker.

A century ago, Champion states, the average capital investment per worker in U.S. factories was $550. Today about $20,000 must be invested on average for every production worker.

Not only is the work force growing, by about 1.5 million workers a year, but with advancing technology that $20,000 figure is bound to rise, and at an accelerating rate.

Capital Shortage

The net result is a capital shortage.

This year corporations may have to borrow $15 billion in the bond market, plus another $6 billion in equity markets, to expand and modernize.

The federal government may borrow another $15 billion directly and agencies of the federal government another $6 billion, for another $21 billion total.

One result of this enormous demand on a limited amount of capital is a tendency to inflation. Another is to postpone projects that need immediate attention, such as the eradication of urban blight.

What is the solution, if any? Champion believes the answer might be in tax reform designed to promote a high savings rate and a greater reinvestment of corporate profits.

"It is profits and personal savings, now being diverted into taxes," says Champion, "that represent the most promising potential sources of untapped capital."

The small company that competes well and increases its earnings, he argues, is punished by the tax laws. The company finds it hard to expand because it cannot attract capital to replace profits paid in taxes.

The inefficient competitor, he argues, may continue without improvement for years because the small company can't expand fast enough to take away its markets.

Negro Longshoremen's Local Demands End in Union Segregation

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Negro longshoremen's local has asked the National Labor Relations Board regional office to stop alleged segregation in the union's South Atlantic and Gulf Coast district.

Local 328, AFL-CIO, of Galveston made the request in a petition filed Monday.

The district is comprised of 18,000 union longshoremen in local from North Carolina to Brownsville, Tex.

Local 328 asked that a new district bargaining unit be formed because longshoremen's work "is historically and currently based and maintained on racially segregated locals, racially segregated work gangs and racially segregated voting systems."

73.3 Per Cent Secure

Best Report Yet Released On Pacification in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. military government today claimed that 73.3 per cent of the population of South Vietnam is living in relatively secure areas controlled by the Saigon government. It was the most optimistic report on the pacification program ever given.

From the fighting fronts, the U.S. Command reported another American artillery attack on the demilitarized zone Tuesday afternoon. Forces also attacked at least six

Monk Thomas Merton, 53, Dies in Bangkok

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Chinese Communists seized control there. The Seven Storey Mountain, an account of Merton's conversion to Catholicism, catapulted him to literary fame in 1948. He wrote 19 more books on a wide range of religious and other subjects.

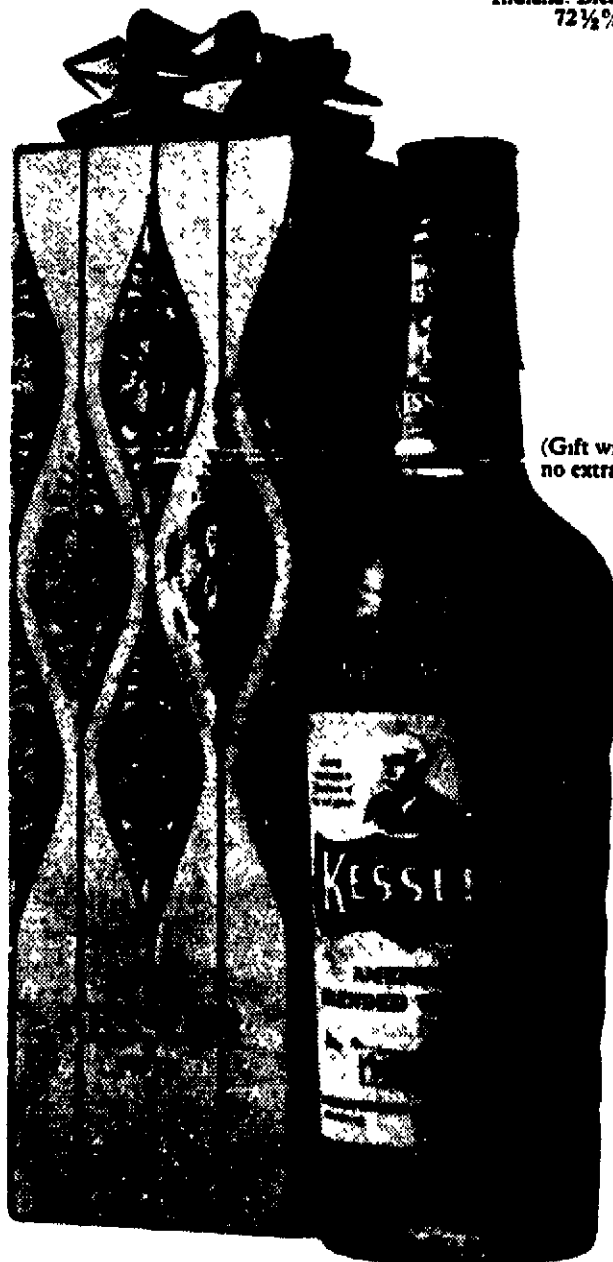

Most of his works reflected the contemplative and rural life Merton led at the Gethsemani Abbey of the Cistercian Order, South of Bardonia, Ky. The trip to Bangkok was one of imposed isolation that Merton began two years ago. He withdrew, he told friends, to pray, meditate and study.

Merton actively opposed war which he called "an avoidable tragedy." "The problem of solving international conflict without massive violence has become the number one problem of our time," he said recently.

Merton was born in Prades, a village in the French Pyrenees, in 1915 of an American Quaker mother and a British Anglican father. He grew up and studied in France, England, Bermuda and the United States, taking a master's degree at New York City's Columbia University.

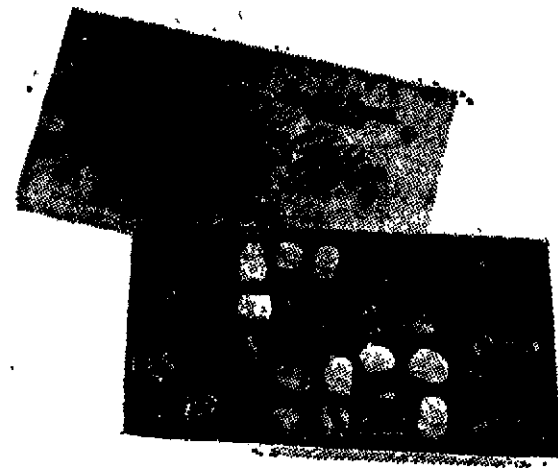

Merton had come to the Far East several months ago to attend a number of religious conferences. He came to Bangkok for a meeting with the Dalai Lama, the spiritual leader of the Tibetan Buddhists who fled from his homeland when the

Lesson in English

By W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "He demanded her to answer at once." Say, "He demanded THAT SHE answer at once."

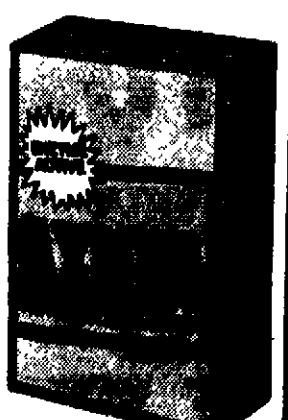

Often Mispronounced: Admirable. Accent first syllable, not the second.

Synonyms: Remiss, slack, dilatory, negligent, inattentive, wanting, slow, slothful, idle, lax, dilatory, tardy.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: INELUCTABLE; not to be overcome; irresistible; inevitable. (Pronounce in-ee-luck-ta-b'l, accent third syllable). "They were faced with ineluctable doom."

"Because of Axion I've never had whiter whites or brighter colors, and you can bet I'm sticking with a good thing."

Buckley Spurred Cut of Only $500,000 Set For Schools

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton's aldermen and chairmen of surrounding towns forged a last-hour compromise on the 1969 school budget early this morning. They cut only $500,000 spurring Mayor George Buckley's order for a $1 million school budget cut.

A school budget of $7,927,295 was approved after four hours of appeals by citizens who sought to head off a financial crisis in the school system.

A public hearing and city council action on the 1969 city purposes budget were postponed to 7:30 p.m. today.

In his message on the first executive budget, Buckley stood fast on the full $1 million reduction in 1969 school expenditures, and suggested that town chairmen might want to make further cuts.

But when Ald. John Steidl (18th) moved to support the mayor, the aldermen and chairmen — members of the fiscal control board — were silent. The motion died for lack of a second.

Alderman Glenn W. Thompson (13th) then quickly moved to put through a cut of $400,000 prescribed by the Appleton Taxpayers Association at a public hearing. Most aldermen and town chairmen held out for a larger cut and the motion was soundly defeated.

Town of Grand Chute Chairman Thomas Thorson, who wielded heavy voting power, struck the compromise.

"I have come to this meeting instructed by my town board to vote for a cut of $1 million," Thorson said. "I cannot in good conscience do that. I am going to vote for a cut of no less than $500,000. I am not going to vote for anything less."

Thorson's dictum won the immediate approval of Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampe and Ald. John Ayers (12th), who moved for the down-the-middle compromise.

Majority Needed
The vote, based on equalized valuation, was 1,474 in favor, 738 opposed. Only a simple majority of 1,107 votes was required.

It was a 50-50 compromise, Ayers pointed out, laying equal portions of the 1969 financial burden on the taxpayer and the school board.

This will be the year, he said, when the school board's strife for quality education and the taxpayers' demands for an easier burden most conflict.

The $500,000 cut "should serve as a warning that the taxpayer is going to have a more important voice in both the city budget and the school budget," Ayers said.

The net effect of Tuesday night's action on Appleton's average tax rate for school purposes was a $1.62 increase.

Buckley's executive budget with the $1 million cut had proposed a total average tax rate of $71.33. That figure now goes to $72.95.

Therefore, the city council tonight will face an $8.96 increase in the total tax-rate over last year.

A total of $120,347 from sinking funds and interest on invested funds was added to the budget to help reduce the levy.

Secretary of Defense Laird Bowed to Heavy Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Melvin R. Laird, expected to be named tonight as the new secretary of defense, agreed to take the job only after President-elect Nixon applied intense pressure, sources say.

"It was a question of duty . . . There is no question but that he would have liked to have stayed in the House the rest of his life and someday become speaker," the source said.

The 46-year-old Wisconsin Republican was elected in November to an eighth term with 64 per cent of the vote.

Laird, No. 2 House Republican, had gone home to Wisconsin last week. Thursday, he got the first intimation that Nixon had decided to make him defense head.

Friday he flew to Palm Springs, site of the GOP Governors' Conference, to meet with Nixon.

Could Do More
A high source said Laird told Nixon that he could do more for him and the party in the House and stressed that he was a legislator rather than an administrator.

"But when the President of the United States asks you—you do it," the source said.

Laird, ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, was one of the toughest questioners of former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

More than once he challenged McNamara's estimated spending budget and in each case his own estimate turned out to be close to the actual figure.

One source said that Nixon, a long-time friend of Laird's, wanted the Wisconsin congressman, not only to run the Defense Department, but for his knowledge of health, education and welfare and agriculture.

Laird was reported as supporting Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., for secretary of defense, who presumably was offered and declined the post.

Platform Chairman
Laird was chairman of the Platform Committee at the 1964 Republican National Convention and was vice-chairman at the 1960 party gathering.

Since 1964, he has played a key role on the Republican Coordinating Committee, the party's highest policymaking body.

Laird launched his political career at the age of 23 when elected to the Wisconsin State Senate to succeed his father. He served six years as state senator before his election to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Born in Omaha, Neb., to Melvin R. and Helen Connor Laird on Sept. 1, 1922. The family moved to Wood County, Wis., when Laird was a year old.

He attended Marshfield, Wis., public schools and received his degree from Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

Married to the former Barbara Masters on Oct. 15, 1945. The Lairds have three children, John, Alison and David.

He enlisted in the Navy in May of 1942 and later served on the U.S. Destroyer Maddox in the Pacific in Adm. Halsey's Third Fleet and Adm. Marc Mitscher's Task Force 58.

Budget and State Heads Already Set

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon announced today a federal budget director—Chicago banker Robert Mayo—before flying to Washington to announce his Cabinet choices to the nation tonight.

Appearing before newsmen at his Pierre Hotel headquarters in New York, Nixon said that Mayo, whose background comprises 18 years in the Treasury Department with nine years in private banking, will be considered "a top member of the Cabinet team" and will attend all meetings of that body.

Mayo wound up his Treasury career in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration as assistant to the secretary for debt management and in 1960 joined the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago, where he has served as a vice president.

Nixon met earlier with Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew to give him an advance look at the Cabinet roster.

To reporters, the president-elect said he thinks his choices are "big men, strong men I rely on." He said it won't be a Cabinet basically of "yes men."

William P. Rogers, attorney general for three years in the Eisenhower administration, will be named secretary of state.

Word of some other Cabinet selections has already gained public circulation.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, according to informed Republican Party officials in Washington, will be secretary of housing and urban development.

Another Republican governor, Walter J. Hickel of Alaska, will be secretary of the interior, according to Alaska's senator-elect, Mike Gravel, a Democrat.

There were strong reports that Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., would occupy the powerful position of secretary of defense.

Nixon told reporters Tuesday that he would be announcing today a major post for Republican Lt. Gov. Robert Finch of California—but wouldn't say what it was generally believed Finch would wind up as secretary of health, education and welfare.

For secretary of the Treasury, speculation centers on David Kennedy, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank of Chicago, and Robert H. Anderson, who held the post in the Eisenhower administration.

John N. Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager and former law partner in New York, is mentioned prominently as the choice for attorney general.

Secretary of Agriculture: Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, is regarded as the choice.

Secretary of Commerce: Perhaps Maurice H. Stans, budget director in the Eisenhower administration.

Secretary of Labor: Either George P. Shultz, dean of the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago, or James J. Reynolds, now undersecretary of labor.

'Certainly,' Says Scranton

Nixon Will Propose Mideast Peace Plan

TEL AVIV (AP) —Former Gov. William W. Scranton, flying home from his fact-finding mission for President-elect Nixon in the Middle East, said today the new administration will propose a plan for peace between the Israelis and Arabs.

Asked on a stop in Rome whether, after he reported to Nixon, the United States would suggest a peace plan, Scranton said: "Yes, certainly. We will put forward a proposal. But I can give no details at this time."

"I was able to ascertain that the parties affected are actually very willing to find a solution to the problem," he said.

Shooting continued across the Jordan River.

An Israeli army spokesman said an Israeli border patrol came under bazooka and light arms fire in the Beisan Valley. The Israelis returned the fire, he said, but no casualties were reported. Jordan claimed the Israelis fired first and said its troops suffered no casualties.

Scranton, who made a fact-finding tour of six countries for Nixon, told newsmen that a peace settlement in the Middle East is "far and away the most important thing to arrive at."

He said he found desire for a settlement "fundamental in Israel," as well as in Arab countries he visited earlier.

The former Pennsylvania governor visited Iran, Lebanon, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Israel.

Asked to comment on Israeli demands for face-to-face talks with the Arabs, Scranton said: "One can understand this demand. However, I am happy they are willing to talk to U.N. peace envoy Gunnar Jarring because at present this appears the best way to reach a settlement."

Leaders Want Peace
Scranton said on Tuesday he was more encouraged about prospects for peace in the Middle East than when he arrived in the area last week.

"The main reason for this," he said, "is that I have been impressed with the fact every leader that I talked to wishes to have a peaceful settlement of the situation here.

"Frankly, before I came I was not convinced that was true."

He declined to disclose any recommendations he may have, saying he must report first to Nixon. He said he had discussed Israel's basic security need "in great detail" but did not elaborate.

During his election campaign Nixon said he favored providing Israel a technological military margin to offset the Arabs' numerical superiority. Asked if he would endorse that statement on the basis of his tour, Scranton noted that Nixon had qualified his statement to specify such aid "as long as there was a direct and imminent threat to Israel."

"I think that he must make the judgment as to whether there is still a direct and imminent threat to Israel," Scranton said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians have been tailing two U.S. destroyers cruising the Black Sea but have avoided harassing them, Navy sources said today.

At least one Russian destroyer has shadowed the Dyess and the Turner, staying generally two to nine miles astern of them.

Sources said the 3,500-ton destroyers have been overflown also by Soviet planes "more than once" since they entered the Black Sea Monday through the Mosporus, the narrow Turkish-controlled strait that splits Europe from Asia.

Navy headquarters is keeping close tabs through radio messages on progress of the U.S.

ships, whose cruise has been denounced by the Soviets as provocation and as "a show of force close to the Soviet border."

Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said Tuesday that "there is no merit to the Soviet charge that the mission is provocative."

"We have a perfect and complete right to have our destroyers in the Black Sea," Clifford said. He contended that the voyage is routine.

Reply to Soviets
Although Clifford didn't say so specifically, he implied that the cruise of the Dyess and Turner at this time was intended, at least partly, as a reply to wiser ranging Soviet naval penetration of the seas.

"The Soviets within the last year have seen fit to show the Soviet flag in the Indian Ocean and the Persian Gulf," Clifford told a news conference.

He noted "this is not the first time we have sent destroyers in the Black Sea," which is riaged by the Soviet Union, Communist Rumania, Communist Bulgaria and Western-oriented Turkey.

Navy records show that this is the eighth time in the past four years that U.S. destroyers, traveling in pairs, have appeared in the Black Sea. But Navy officials said, the Russians never before have raised such a fuss.

Sources said Russian planes have kept a least 1,000 feet above the two American warships and have not attempted any harassment such as buzzing.

Neither the planes nor the Soviet destroyer have attempted to contact the Dyess or Turner by radio, blinker or any other means, the sources said.

"They're just keeping an eye on our ships," one senior Naval officer said.

Chief Justice Pick, Senator Says

'Nixon Blocked LBJ's Selection of Goldberg'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Nixon learned President Johnson planned to appoint Arthur Goldberg as chief justice and blocked it, says Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio.

"He knew that President Johnson planned to appoint Arthur Goldberg as chief justice, because LBJ so influenced him," Young said in a statement Tuesday.

"Despite this," Young said, "behind the President's back, he picked up the telephone to Earl Warren and asked him to remain as chief justice until June."

Outagamie Narcotics Bureau Possibilities Eyed by County Board

Organization of a countywide narcotics bureau will be investigated by the Outagamie County Board's courts and justice committee. The amendment failed 37-12 at the direction of the county board.

The decision was made Tuesday by the board after an abortive attempt by Supv. Eugene Kloes, Appleton, chairman of the courts and justice committee, to use funds earmarked for hiring additional county patrolmen shifted for setting up such a bureau.

The board has set up $50,000 for hiring four additional patrolmen and one additional juvenile investigator. Kloes sought to amend the resolution to hire two narcotics investigators and use the $50,000 to set up a narcotics bureau. The amendment failed 37-12 at the direction of the county board.

County Road Employe Pact Is Rejected

Outagamie Board Nixes Overtime Arrangement

A proposed labor agreement with Outagamie County highway department employees was rejected Tuesday by the county board, and its personnel committee was instructed to continue negotiations.

Rejection by a 40-2 vote was over an overtime pay provision which had been ratified by members of Local 455 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union, AFL-CIO, which represents the approximately 100 highway workers.

Only County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, and Vice Chairman Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, who are two of the three members of the personnel bargaining unit, voted against sending the contract back for further negotiations.

Two other labor contracts with the Courthouse and Sheriff and Traffic Employees Association, and the County Hospital Employees Union, were approved.

Supv. Ervin Conradt, Shiocton, chairman of the highway committee, said adoption of the overtime clause would be a "catastrophe to the county."

The overtime provision would call for time-and-a-half pay for any hours worked prior to 7:30 a.m., the normal starting time. This mainly would affect winter operations when crews are Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, a member of the courts and justice committee, pleaded for support of Kloes' plan. He termed narcotics one of the most pressing problems facing the county. "We must take our heads out of the sand," he said.

Kloes had sought to convince the board that the cost of any additional patrolmen should be borne entirely by the township through contracts with the sheriff's department.

He said the Town of Grand Chute, with a population of 6,500 and a valuation of $73 million, has only two part-time policemen while the village of Little Chute, with a smaller population and only one-third the valuation has a police budget of $50,000.

He added he does not think it fair that communities which provide their own police protection should also have to pay for the towns.

Waupaca Tax Credit Is $36,888

WAUPACA — City of Waupaca taxpayers will receive a 5.9 per cent tax credit on their 1969 real estate taxes and merchants and manufacturers will receive a 60 per cent tax credit on merchandise and manufacturers stock as part of the state tax credit received from the state, according to Mrs. Harriett T. Ward, city clerk.

This year the city will receive $36,888 state tax credit which will be applied to real estate and class B personal property taxes. The amount expected is up from $33,582 received last year, Mrs. Ward said.

The amount expected to permit the 60 per cent tax credit on merchants' and manufacturers' stock under schedule A is $32,417, Mrs. Ward said.

Two More Needed New London Increases Credits for Graduation

NEW LONDON — Requirements for high school graduation were increased Monday by the board of education.

Vote on increasing the credits was 3-2. The increase from 16 to 18 academic credits was recommended by the faculty, department heads and J. P. Vander Zanden, high school principal.

Two credits also will be given for physical education, but will not be counted with the 18 needed credits for graduation. Previously students were required to earn 16 credits and pass four years of physical education.

Increase Yearly
Students graduating in 1969-70 will only need 16 credits in addition to physical education. Seventeen credits and physical education will be required for 1970-71 graduates, and 18 for the 1971-72 seniors.

A policy statement regarding free lunches for eligible children was adopted by the board. The policy is required by the federal government for the district to receive federal participation in the school lunch and breakfast program.

The board moved to continue speech therapy services on a full time basis and psychological services on a 40 day per year basis from Cooperative Educational Service Agency No. 8.

A closed circuit television system which would be installed in the Parkview Elementary School will be studied by the board at the Jan. 13 meeting.

Bids on the McKinley School, which will be closed after the current year will be opened at the January meeting.

Hilbert Approves Budget Below Current Allotment

Tax Rate Rises to $21 Because School Costs Up, Revenues Down

HILBERT — A $140,550 budget, nearly $1,000 under the current allotment, was adopted Tuesday night by the village board, as no taxpayers appeared at the hearing.

The budget, however, produced a tax rate of $21 per $1,000 assessed valuation compared with $20.50 for the current year.

The 1969 budget total is lower than the 1968 figure because of a $5,403 decrease in estimated receipts, but a $10,800 increase in educational costs forced the boost in the tax rate.

The village's new valuation of $4,474,080 will necessitate a tax levy of $93,955, a total of $2,341 more than the current levy.

Set Revenues
Revenues are expected to produce $46,595 to make up the difference between the levy and total expenditures. This year's revenues produced $51,998, mainly the repayment of loans from the utility fund and curb and gutter assessments.

The village will be required to pay $67,567 of the school district's spending compared with $57,108 this year, plus $4,698 for Vocational, Technical and Adult Education 12; $864 for state trust fund, and $60 for handicapped children.

State and county taxes will require $16,455, a decrease of $1,171.

The budget allows for $50,902 for village spending, down $9,315 from this year which was due to paying up a truck fund of $4,498 and curb and gutter costing $4,614 in 1968. Bank payments for principal on loans is $3,500.

Private Meetings
One objection raised by the board of education was a request in the NLEA procedure committee to hold meetings in private.

Eugene Fuhrmann, board president, said all board meetings are open to the public and press according to state statutes.

Donald Zahn, welfare committee chairman, said he felt the negotiations could be conducted in a better manner with rules laid down at the start.

The welfare committee questioned the board's intentions on negotiating work conditions after its procedure on this matter was questioned. Included in this area are the number of days in the teacher contract; hours and assignments.

Board members said working conditions will be one of the items negotiated as in previous years as a part of the entire proposal by the welfare committee.

The committee is in the process of surveying district teachers and reviewing requests of teachers in other districts. Their proposal will be presented to members at an NLEA meeting Jan. 6 and then sent to the board of education for review before the board's Jan. 13 meeting.

Both groups will then begin negotiations on salary increases and other benefits at their first meeting involving the 1969-70 contract.

Jan. 13 Picked for 'Man of the Year' Dinner in Chilton

CHILTON — "Man of the Year" dinner will be Jan. 13 at St. Mary Hall, Chamber of Commerce officers and directors decided Monday.

William Roghan is committee chairman, John Suttner is in charge of ticket sales and William Kartheiser is dinner chairman.

Board of director candidates were nominated to succeed James Bloomer, L. J. Friedrichs, Dr. William Haasi and John Mortimer whose terms are expiring.

The board also decided against exploring a possible taxi service for Chilton, declaring it to be not a Chamber matter.

Voters Okay School Bonding at Amherst

$340,000 Slated for Addition

AMHERST — Voters in the Tomorrow River School District Tuesday narrowly approved borrowing $340,000 for an elementary school annex. The vote was 360 to 279.

The funds will allow building an addition to an 11-room school constructed in 1968. The addition includes four classrooms, a library and a multi-purpose room.

Supv. Walter Bohman commented: "Probably construction will start in the spring. . . . The work is scheduled to be done by fall, he added.

No construction firm has been hired but bids will be let in February or March, Bohman said.

Special Meeting

He said the next regular school board meeting will be Jan. 13 but a special meeting may be called to discuss the architect's plans. The architect is Michael Metcalfe, Stevens Point, T. G. Evensen and Associates, Inc., Minneapolis, is handling the financing.

"All students in Nelsonville and Amherst Junction will now have the advantages of special teachers and services," Bohman said.

Schools at Nelsonville and Amherst Junction will be closed after the building is built.

There are 35 pupils at Nelsonville and 65 at Amherst Junction.

Lost Before

Residents at Nelsonville led a fight to keep their school open, leading to the defeat of a more costly program proposed on May 21.

The school at Nelsonville was built in the early 1900s and the Amherst Junction school during the 1930s, according to Bohman.

The defeated referendum sought $365,000 for a slightly larger building program. The proposal was made by the school board after joint study with a citizens advisory committee appointed last year during the annual school meeting.

The voter turn-out at the May 21 referendum was larger than at this vote.

Salaries Reduced Two District Attorney Assistants Approved

By a 36-6 vote, Outagamie County supervisors Tuesday approved the hiring of two full-time assistant district attorneys, but not before lopping $500 from the recommended salaries of each one.

As passed one assistant will get $13,000 per year and the second aide will receive an annual salary of $3,000. The county will receive state aids of $3,000 per year for each of the assistants, making the total over-all cost to the county $15,000.

James Long, district attorney-elect, did not know until the resolution was read that $500 had been cut from each of the two proposed salaries.

Accept Job

Ralph T. Cane, a Kaukauna attorney who was named the top aide last week, told Long that he would still accept the job, even though the salary proposed earlier was $13,500.

Long said he now will have to contact Joel Seymour, a December graduate of the Marquette University Law School, to determine whether he still wants the second spot in his office at the $8,000 salary instead of $8,500. Seymour, a Niagara, Wis., resident, and Cane are scheduled to start work next month when Long takes office.

The board action, which came with virtually no discussion from the floor, caps the appointment of Russell G. Bowers, 48, 3105 N. Ballard Road.

Bowers, an Appleton native and lifelong resident of the area, was a patrolman in the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department from 1951 to 1959. After working at Appleton Wire Works, Bowers returned to the sheriff's department as an investigator, under Spice, from 1963 until May 1967.

Spice, former two-term sheriff and undersheriff for two years under Norbert Marx, returns as sheriff next month. The Kaukauna Democrat defeated Marx in the November election.

Shiocton Plans Yule Concert

SHIOCTON — The annual Christmas concert will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday at the high school by the cadet and concert bands.

The 24-voice girls chorus also will sing a number of carols and Christmas selections.

A candy sale will be conducted by the Music Club prior to the concert.

WAUPACA — Funeral services for Robert Weller, Sr., 58, route 1, Waupaca, were at 1:30 p.m. today at the Holly Funeral Home.

Weller owned and operated Weller's grocery store at Rural for several years. He died Sunday at Appleton.

He is survived by his widow, one son, three grandchildren and three sisters.

Talk Across Table Guiles Opposes Convocation Idea

OSHKOSH — Across-the-table talks to air grievances against the university would accomplish more than a mass convocation, Roger Guiles, president of the Wisconsin State University here, said Tuesday.

Guiles was commenting on demands made Monday by a group of some 600 students and faculty members who gathered in front of the administration building and chanted "We want a convocation." The noisy but orderly demonstration was organized by a committee calling itself the Concerned Students. Made up primarily of members of Students of a Democratic Society (SDS); Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) and Peace Forum, the group listed seven grievances concerning the university administration dealing mainly with the Nov. 31 demonstration and events in its aftermath.

Guiles refused to address the group Monday afternoon and said he had not been given a list break down and thus prove to be meaningless," Guiles noted.

"We are operating under a tight class schedule since the school is nearing the end of the semester," Guiles said. "We hesitate to interrupt classes for mass sessions because there seems to be no place to hold a convocation except in rooms being used for classes," Guiles added.

Monday's mock convocation, originally scheduled in a lecture room at Clow Social Science Center, was held outside of Dempsey Hall on orders of R. J. Ramsden, vice president of academic affairs.

It has been reported that Guiles would be meeting with campus protest groups on their demands which were taped to the door of Guiles' offices Monday. However, Guiles said, "There will be no such meetings today."

He did point out that students desiring to meet with him could go through the regular channels and request an appointment.

A federal judge on Monday ordered the university to reinstate the suspended black students, or as an alternative, for the university to begin hearings by Monday.

The state university system has announced it will file specific charges against the students.

"The subject of hearings has been taken over by the state board of regents and the attorney for the state (Charles Black, assistant attorney general) has made all the decisions and the university is not directly involved," the university head said.

Eugene R. McPhee, director of the state university system, told The Post-Crescent today that Black is preparing notices of the hearing. I don't know the content of these notices," McPhee said when asked what the specific charges would contain.

Rogers Guided Nixon Through Crises

BY ENDRE MARTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — William P. Rogers' credentials to guide U.S. foreign policy in the next administration have a narrow but firm basis: A long and intimate relationship with President-elect Richard Nixon.

In fact, it was Rogers who helped Nixon through three of what the incoming president himself described in his best-selling book as his "Six Crises."

Rogers' selection as the nation's 55th secretary of state was not widely expected before it became known Tuesday.

But naming of this skilled, witty lawyer to stand with Nixon when the next crisis comes — as it inevitably does to all new presidents — should be no surprise.

Old Washington hands rate the Nixon-Rogers relationship a prime asset, advising that a gap between the White House and State Department could have disastrous consequences.

And it is this asset, so dramatically attested to by Nixon himself, that takes the spotlight although Rogers will bring to his new job long experience in government and a three-year stint as top man in the Justice Department.

His only direct contact with foreign affairs came as a member of the U.S. delegation to the U.N. General Assembly in 1965.

The crises through which Rogers guided his friend from World War II Navy days were the Alger Hiss case that Nixon prosecuted as a congressman, the famous disclosure of business contributions that nearly cost Nixon the spot as Dwight D. Eisenhower's running mate in 1952 and the first Eisenhower heart attack in 1955 when the reigns of government fell temporarily to Nixon.

Respects Judgment

Nixon wrote that his first thoughts following Eisenhower's seizure "turned to Bill Rogers" as the one man whose judgment he most respected.

Rogers, tall, blond and youthful appearing at 55, first met Nixon when the two were stationed at the Quonset Point, R. I., naval station during World War II.

man after the war and Rogers joined the staff of the Senate war investigating subcommittee, later becoming its chief counsel.

Rogers quickly established a reputation as a relentless prosecutor of graft and suspected Communists in government, adding to early experience he had gained as an assistant in 1938 to New York's racket-busting district attorney, Thomas E. Dewey.

Justice Department
He left the government in 1950, but returned two years later when Eisenhower entered the White House, joining the Justice Department under another Dewey man, Herbert Brownell.

The Nixon-Rogers relationship flowered in the following years as Rogers spread a growing reputation into the field of antitrust enforcement, court reform and civil rights. He was credited with coaxing passage of the 1957 civil rights act out of a reluctant Congress, although it brought him a few enemies among Southern Democrats.

Rogers became attorney general when Brownell resigned in 1957 and stayed on until Nixon was defeated in the 1960 presidential election by John F. Kennedy.

During the campaign Rogers played a key role and was regarded as The Man behind the scenes.

Rogers, a graduate of Cornell University Law School and native of Norfolk, N.Y., has practiced law in New York City since 1960 with a firm that has handled some international matters.

He is married and the father of four.

Police Blame Arsonists for Lethal Blaze

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Four bodies were recovered today in the smoldering ruins of a downtown hotel destroyed by fire that police said was the work of arsonists.

The blaze swept through what firemen described as 31 sleeping rooms situated on the second floor over a row of shops. Some 25 persons resided at the Midtown Hotel.

Owner Charles Convery estimated damage at $200,000.

At least 10 persons were treated at hospitals, but none was reported in serious condition.

Firemen battled the blaze for several hours in numbing sub-freezing temperatures.

Police Sgt. Stanley Nesson said he convinced about 10 persons not to jump from a ledge. He said they were rescued moments later by firemen.

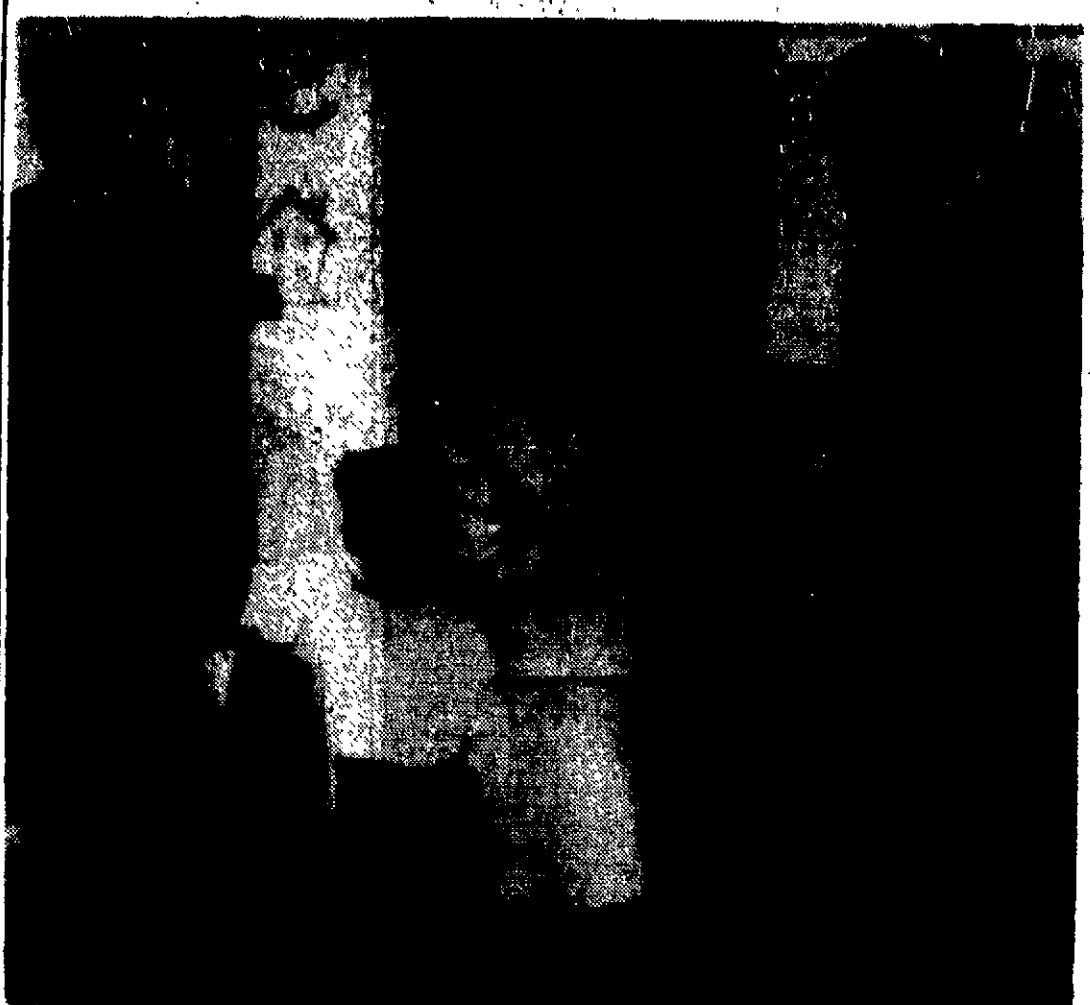

Deputy Police Chief Solomon Reines said the fire was "definitely arson." He said there has been a "neighborhood vendetta" against occupants of the hotel who were described as mostly elderly transients.

Fire Commissioner Edwin Englehardt said witnesses told authorities they saw a band of young men throw gasoline-soaked rags into the building before the fire broke out.

Bickering Over Symbolic Prestige Indefinitely Delaying Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — The wrangle over prestige symbols threatens to delay indefinitely the start of the enlarged Vietnam peace talks.

Some American officials who once were confident that the talks would get under way early this week now appear to have lost hope of starting before the end of the year. Some western diplomats from other countries think the deadlock might continue until President-elect Richard Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20.

In a two-hour meeting Tuesday, U.S. negotiator Cyrus Saigon's delegation a side of its Vance and Col. The United States earlier turned down Hanoi's proposal that the conference meet at a square table, an arrangement which would symbolize that the delegation from the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front was on an equal basis with the delegations from the United States and North Vietnam.

Although this would also give Vance and Lau a side of its own and would thus undercut North Vietnam deadlocked the NLF's contention that the once, was putting out compromise over such prestige issues Saigon government is a bunch of U.S. puppets who don't represent the South Vietnamese people, the United States rejected the square table. If a square table was unacceptable, Lau said Tuesday, the conference could meet at four separate tables, equally spaced and arranged in a diamond or circular formation. But Vance rejected this.

Lau also turned down an American proposal that two lots be drawn for the speaking order and insisted on four lots instead.

Vance rejected that also. The president-elect mentioned Finch in announcing a surprise appointment for sociologist Daniel P. Moynihan, a Democrat. Nixon said Moynihan an assistant secretary of labor in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, would be his White House assistant for urban problems—a new position which he said would elevate Moynihan to the same status as Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his assistant on national security affairs.

Nixon also announced plans to create a council for urban affairs—"a counterpart of the National Security Council."

Other High Nominees
All members of the Nixon cabinet were expected to be on hand with their families in a ballroom at Washington's Shoreham Hotel for tonight's announcements. Nixon aides said nominees for some other high positions might be disclosed by Nixon at the same time.

Nixon planned to spend much of Thursday meeting with prospective Cabinet members and their families at the Shoreham. Members of his staff were to brief the prospective department heads on the workings of the revamped White House staff.

Late Thursday, Nixon and his wife Pat and daughter Tricia will go to the White House for a conversation with the President and Mrs. Johnson. Nixon and Johnson have met once since the election.

AMAZING PSORIASIS STORY

Pittsburgh, Pa. — "Doctors for psoriasis 30 years. Spent much money to no avail. Then used GHT Ointment and Tablets for 2 weeks. Scales disappeared as if by magic. $500,000 School Cut OK'd education and school administrators in defending the mayor's full $1 million cut.

"Think Twice"

"I feel the only way to curtail this type of spending is by limiting the school system to an amount of money which will make them think twice before spending and maybe do a little shopping before buying."

He cited many examples of "frill spending" and pointed to rising bonded indebtedness for schools. He quoted from a newspaper editorial that threatened "meat ax style" budget cutting by taxpayers if administrators failed to find ways to save.

Buckley was silent as the motion for his cut died and through most of the session, except to give rulings — sometimes comical — from the chair.

Ald. Dorothy Draheim (14th) claimed the mayor's cut was based on "undefended assumptions," cited the affluence of Appleton and called for approval of the full budget as proposed by the board of education. But no such motion was made.

After the Appleton Taxpayers formula was supported on the floor, Ald. Orville A. Strutz called once again on the mayor to tell the fiscal control board how the school board could accomplish his $1 million cut.

Refuses Again

Once again Buckley refused. "I still think that Charles Buchanan (president of the board of education) knows more about the school budget than anyone else in town. He should make the cuts."

Council President Alvin E. Tews (5th) took up the frequent criticism voiced by the public of the verbal hassle that has surrounded controversy over the mayor's cut. He claimed the fiscal control board had been placed in an "uncomfortable position as referee between the mayor and the school board."

"Obviously the aldermen are in a quandary as to just where to go," he added.

There had been rumors from many reliable sources that the mayor's cut would pass by a strong majority, but presentations by many citizens and citizen groups evidently swayed many aldermen, as they swayed Thorson.

Only four fiscal control board members voted in favor of the proposed $400,000 reduction. They were Alds. Eldred J. Mullen (6th), George Schwarzbauer (10th), Strutz and Thompson.

Further Cuts

All of the town chairmen and all but eight of the aldermen voted in favor of the $500,000 measure. Those opposed were Alds. William F. Errington (15th), William H. Wachtendonk (3rd), Harold Wolferam (16th), Draheim, Steidl, Strutz, Tews and Thompson.

Several city council members promised further cuts in the city portion of the mayor's first executive budget tonight.

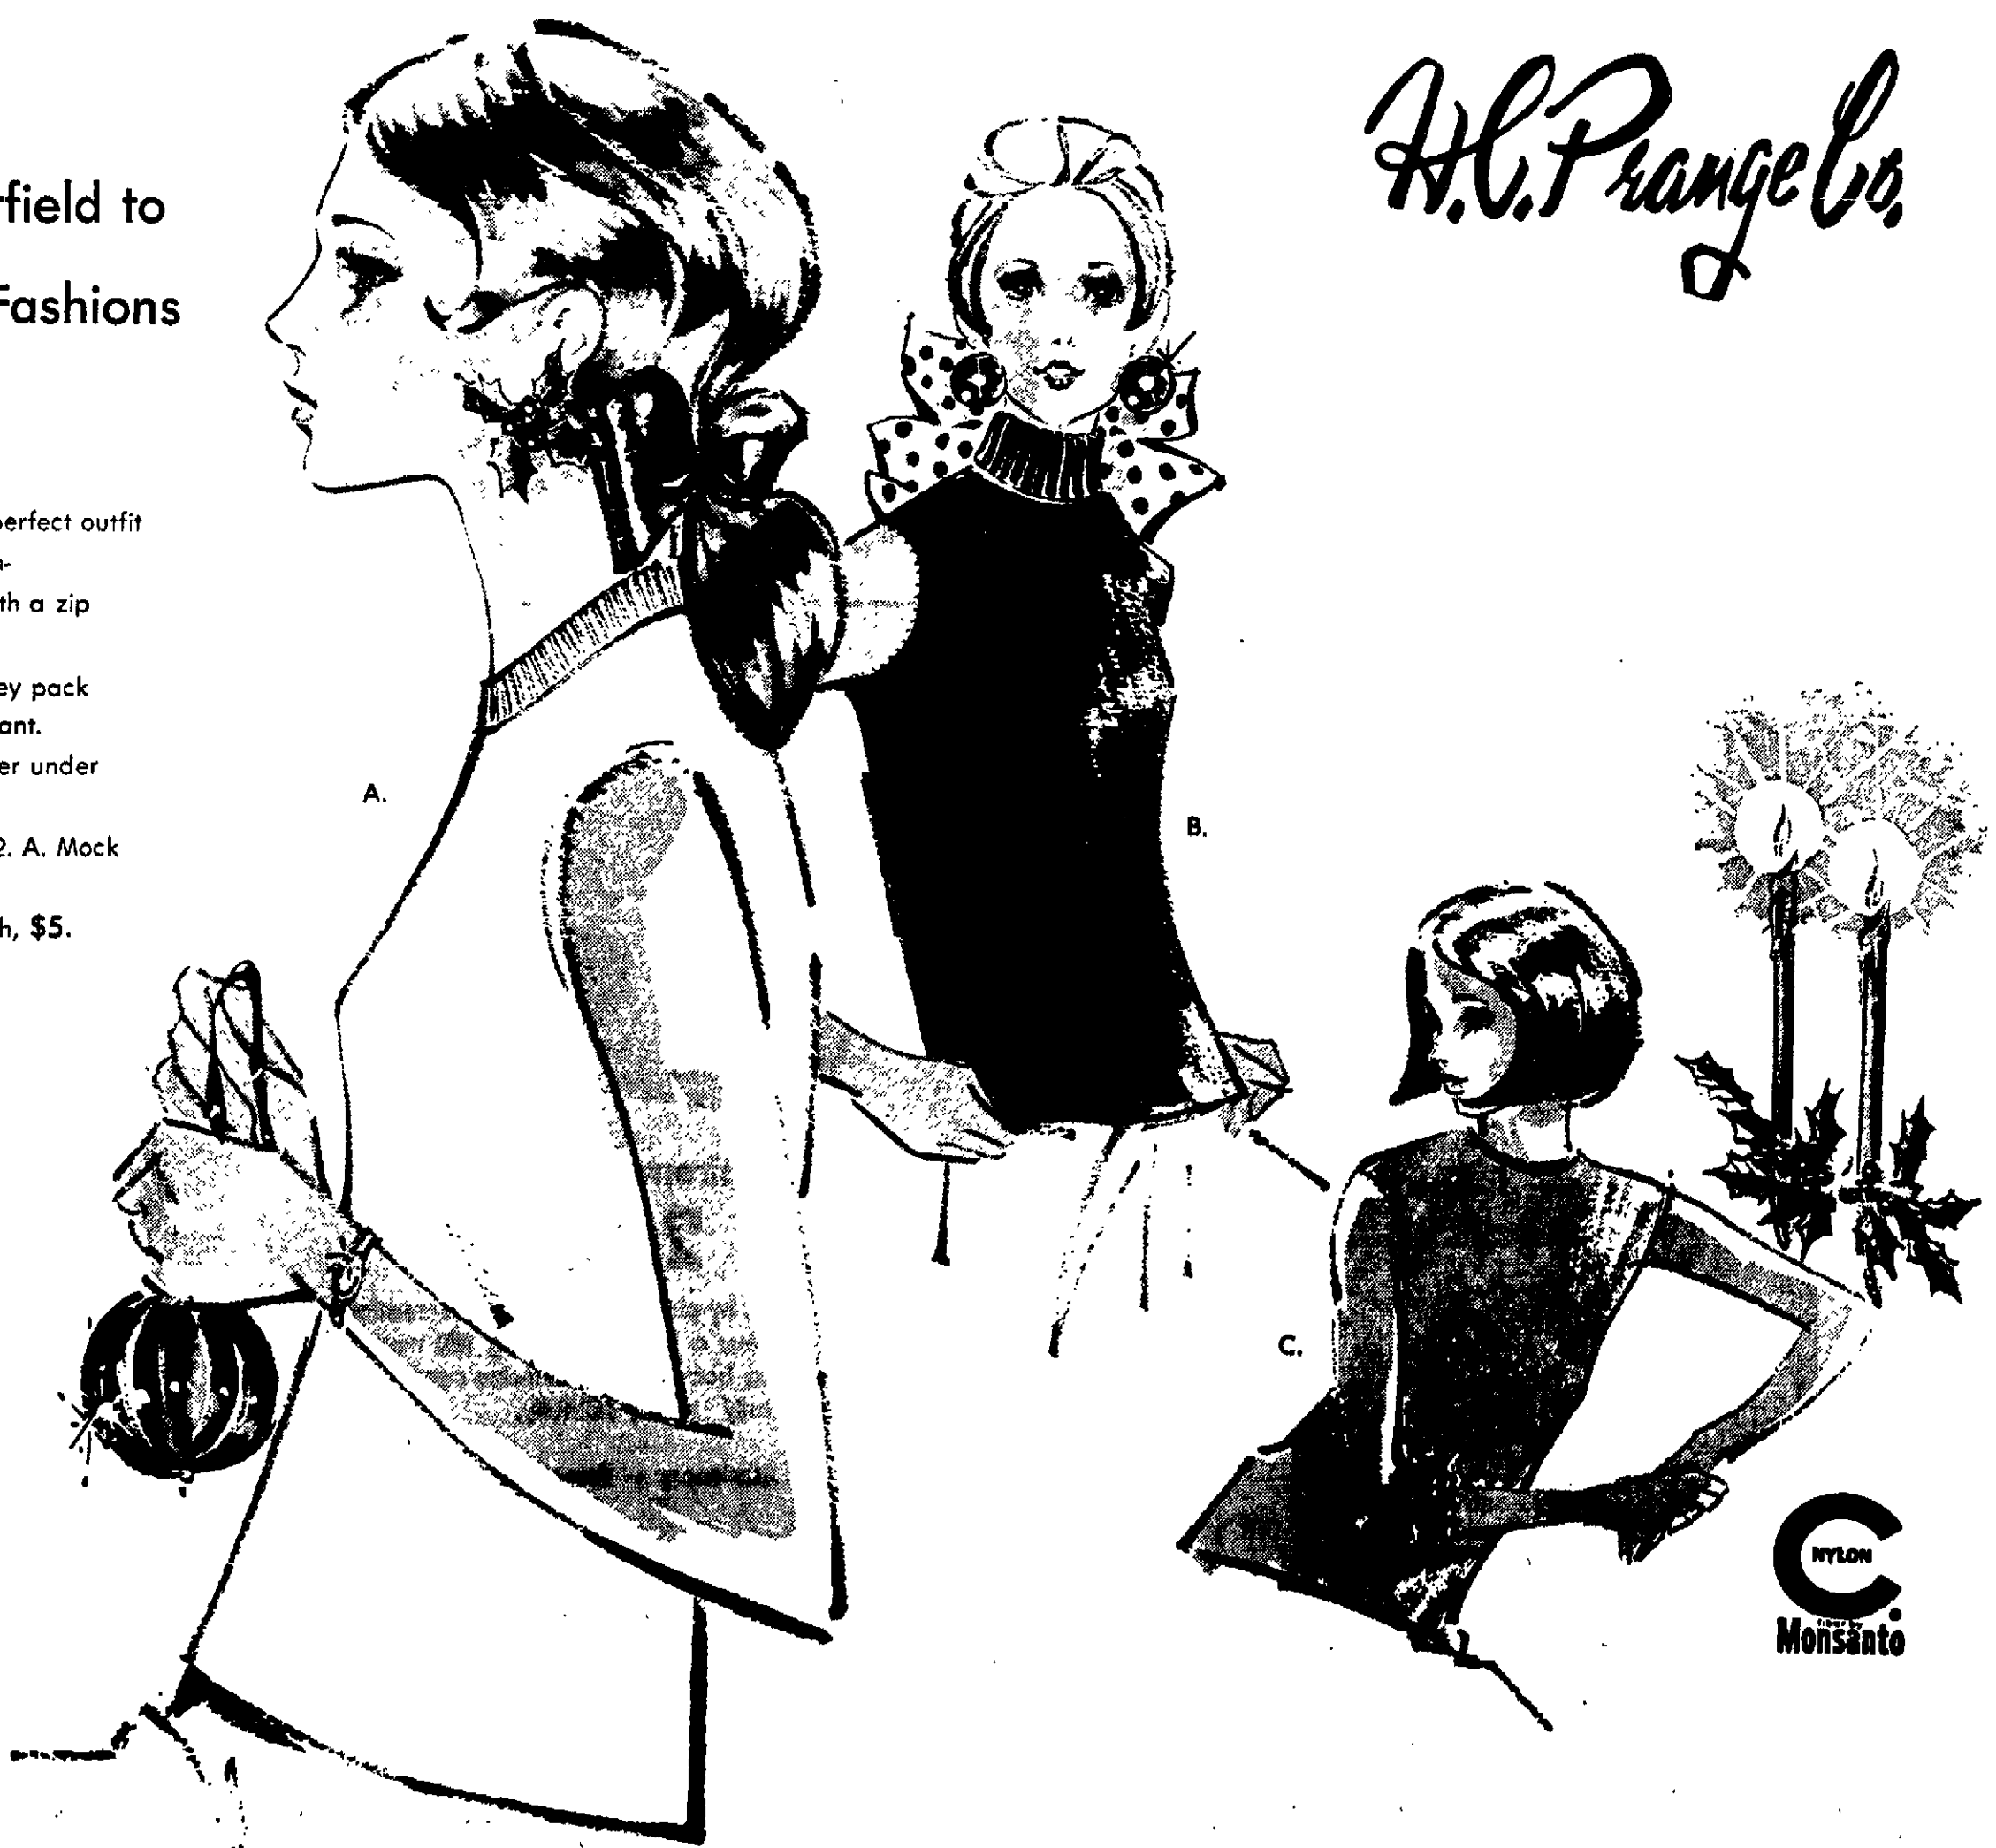

The public hearing will convene at 7:30 p.m., followed by city council action of the 1969 tax levy for city purposes.

Count Clubs And Study The Hearts

It usually pays to bid a two-suit hand aggressively even when your partner has a very weak hand. He may have unusual distributional support for your second suit and then help you find a good sacrifice. The danger with such bidding is that you may tell an alert opponent too much about your distribution.

West's energetic bidding didn't help him because East had no support for either diamonds or spades. West succeeded only in telling the world at large, and South in particular, that he had two five-card suits.

South cautiously refused the first trick but took the second spade and led a club to dummy's king. West, with 10 cards in spades and diamonds, could have only three cards in clubs and hearts combined; and South wanted to find out safely what West's distribution was in those two suits.

Declarer returned to his hand by leading a heart to the ace. By this time South had discovered that West's three cards in hearts and clubs included one card of each suit. Now the question was whether West had started with one heart and two clubs or with two hearts and one club.

South found out by leading another club toward dummy. If West were out of clubs he could not gain by ruffing because declarer would play low from dummy. The ruff would net the defenders only the club trick they were sure to win anyway.

As it happened, West followed suit to the second round of clubs, and South went right up with dummy's ace. A finesse could not possibly succeed since West had already played as many clubs as he could possibly hold.

West had already used up the three cards he was known to hold in hearts and clubs combined. Declarer led a trump from dummy and finessed with the ten in his hand, confident that the finesse was necessary and that it would succeed.

Daily Question

What do you say?
Answer: Bid one heart. The hand is not quite worth a forcing opening bid. If you had a seven-card heart suit or an additional king you would open with a forcing two-bid.

Lovelier You

That Impossible Gift

On almost every gift list, there's a question mark after at least one lovely's name. You don't know what to give. She has everything!

But before you join the wit's end group, now growing by the minute, remember that designers are dedicated to dreaming up a new version of "everything." Be on the lookout for it. Just to get you started, these updated classics:

For Miss Teen, a gold mesh Juliet cap encrusted with tiny gold beads. Straight out of the film!

An assortment of knee socks for the pre-teen, plus "hold up"

spray. One swoosh around the leg and hosiery stays up as if by magic. It's water soluble, too, and wipes off in seconds.

A careerist would treasure a bright red alip in a package trimmed with a bright red lipstick. What a combo to wear on dreary days!

Flashing shoe jewels to be clipped on the center or side of evening pumps match up perfectly with belles of the evening.

For the sophisticate, "ankle rings" of silver and gold — six together for wearing with at-home pants.

GOP Governors Have Doubts About Nixon

President-Elect Visits Their Meeting at Palm Springs but Election Memories Linger

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — As President-elect Nixon met privately with Republican governors last Friday afternoon during their winter meeting here, outspoken Gov. Norbert Tiemann of Nebraska brought into the open what was foremost in their minds.

It is essential, Tiemann politely told Nixon, for the new president to communicate effectively with the people. Consequently, Tiemann continued, wouldn't it be a good if he worked through the 31 Republican governors to reach the people?

Without making commitments, Nixon nodded agreement. But Tiemann's question ables, you might say," one governor told us. Moreover, some governors are still muttering about the Nixon campaign which, in many states, drained almost all Republican campaign money. When governors seeking election pleaded for funds, they were told that they could ride home on Nixon's coattails. Thus, those who in fact ran ahead of Nixon are now self-righteous about it.

Almost No Contact Such aggravation has been compounded in the transition period when governors, including the few who backed Nixon for the nomination, had almost no contact with the president-elect until the Palm Springs meeting. That gave rise to their fear that he will be isolated by his buttoned-down young aides in the White House.

With this backdrop, the governors here were surprisingly querulous on relatively minor matters. Western governors grumbled about a possible non-westerner as Secretary of the Interior; farm governors grumbled about a possible non-farmer as secretary of agriculture; most governors grumbled about Nixon's long-range intention to purge Ray Bliss as Republican national chairman.

Besides, all did not go as well here between Nixon and the governors as was advertised. An imaginative plan by the governors to place their representatives in all departments of the federal government to facilitate state-federal relations was envisioned by Agnew's staff, apparently acting under the Nixon staff's direction.

Once the Nixon administration actually begins, so almost surely will the traditional honeymoon period start. Then, the complaints of the governors probably will turn to cheers. But the unease they displayed at Palm Springs shows that the image left by the Nixon campaign and transition period poses more of a problem than Nixon insiders suspect. (Copyright, 1968) reflected apprehension about the president-elect on two levels which was informally but widely discussed among the governors here.

Worry About Isolation On one level, the governors recognize that Nixon received little pre-convention support from them, never had been close to them, and might well ignore them from the White House. But on a deeper level, the governors were worried that Nixon's personal isolation from everybody but his intimates during both the campaign and the transition period might continue during his presidency, to his great disadvantage.

Actually, Nixon did much to still these fears Friday when he met all 31 governors in small groups at the Palm Springs home of Walter Annenberg, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Nixon promised the governors they would have control of federal patronage in their states. He pledged that the often slipshod liaison between statehouses and the White House during the Johnson administration would be improved with Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew as the go-between. To the puzzlement of some governors, Nixon told them he planned to keep them abreast of foreign affairs developments.

Shows Confidence Most important was the image of quiet confidence he gave. In private conversation over cocktails here some governors had expressed fear that Nixon was afraid of the burdens of the Presidency. His performance Friday dispelled such worries.

After those meetings Nixon allies slipped out the reassuring word that governors will play a big role in the administration. Apart from the appointment of governors to the cabinet, they were informed a high post will be found for the defeated Gov. John Chaffee of Rhode Island, immensely popular with his colleagues — perhaps as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO). In addition, they were told that outgoing Gov. Nils Boe of South Dakota probably will be named a special liaison officer with the governors to supplement Agnew's efforts.

While leaving Palm Springs less apprehensive than when they arrived, however, the governors were not fully satisfied. They complained that the President-elect — for all his reassurances — gave precious little hard information in the meetings at the Annenberg home. He talked indirectly — par-
